Kindig Receives Pennsylvania DHIA Leadership Award

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Robert Kindig, the Pennsylvania dairyman from Conestoga in Lancaster County, received the Clyde Robinson Leadership Award at the Pennsylvania DHIA annual meeting last Friday.

The award created two years ago by the board of directors is in memory of the late Clyde Robinson, who spent a lifetime in service to the dairy industry and especially DHIA. It is given to a dairy farmer who has proven to be a leader in the dairy industry.

Frank Orner, association president, made the presentation and said Kindig exemplifies the ideals that were put forth in the award. Having completed an unprecedented three-year term as president of the National DHIA, Kindig has also served as president of his state and local DHIA, as well as the local school board. In addition, he has been a 4-H leader and served on the local extension board and the county Holstein board.

In a written tribute, Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Agent, said Kindig is perceptive to the needs of the dairy industry and how people, in spite of differences, can work together to the mutual benefit of all.

Obviously moved by the award, Kindig said the award was especially meaningful because of whom it was named. "Clyde was my mentor," Kindig said. "I try to live up to the ideals he set for DHIA, but I never profess to have achieved that stature in the industry. Clyde was an example to follow and it is with sincere gratitude that I accept the award."

In his message to the association, President Orner said that Pennsylvania is a service cooperative. Quality management information allows dairy farmers to operate their business efficiently.

Dairy Stakeholders Meet To Plan Next Forum

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Some of the stakeholders in the Pennsylvania dairy industry met Tuesday to plan for the second Pennsylvania Dairy Futures Forum in June of 1995. As you may recall, the first such forum in Pennsylvania was held last June at Penn State.

Since that time, and as a result of the first forum, the Dairy Map program developed at Penn State and administered through the extension service has had extended use across the state with more than 900 dairy farmers attending program seminars to date. Dairy Map is designed to focus on how to manage a dairy farm by using goal set-

Nutrient Management Advisory Board Nears Final Draft

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A final draft of proposed regulations to administer the state's Nutrient Management Act is close to being completed, except for a few areas where wording still needs to be worked out by the 15-member Nutrient Management Advisory Board to the State Conservation Commission.

The board met Wednesday at the state Department of Agriculture Building in Harrisburg and reviewed and approved regulations for setback restrictions for new and expanded manure storage facilities; financial assistance and some other changes within proposed regulations.

Board members also received a briefing from Mike Krempasky, secretary to the Commission, and Richard Mather, director of the DER Bureau of Regulatory Counsel, as to changes that will be made to the proposed regulations to make them comply with regulations about the style of wording that is to be used, and also about the regulatory review process.

There are deadlines associated with adopting regulations for the Act. Ultimately, the State Conservation Commission is responsible for creating the regulations, but a review by the advisory board is also necessary. The advisory board

Shirk To Be Chamber's Ag Services Manager

ANDY ANDREWS

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Jim Shirk, lifelong resident of Lancaster County, has been appointed the new manager of agricultural services for the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

Shirk takes the position vacated by Jay Howes, who serves as director of policy development for Pennsylvania's House Ag and Rural Affairs Committee.

A 1993 Penn State graduate, Shirk, who worked as a conservation technician with the Lancaster County Conservation District, told Lancaster Farming that in his new position he will focus on issues that will affect Lancaster County farmers into the next century, including water quality issues and other concerns that make it harder for the county farmer to survive.

Shirk, who also works on his 60-acre family farm south of Goodville, said that Lancaster County has 10 percent of the agri-

Fruit Growers Get Hands-On Look At IPM At Berks Workshop

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — While orchardists believe the pressure is mounting from society to curtail pesticide use and feel more restricted about how they can run their operations, turning to integrated pest management (IPM) can provide one way to ease that pressure, take care of the environment, and boost the bottom line.

Already, California has instituted "prescription pesticide" regulations that have restricted the amount and type of spraying and other methods fruit growers can use to control pests. But Pennsylvania is at the national forefront of leading-edge apple IPM research that may help detract such restricting laws, according to experts who spoke on Wednesday at the "Nuts and Bolts of IPM" workshop at the Berks County Ag Center.

Growers should remember that using IPM doesn't mean they can't spray when necessary. It doesn't mean "organically" produced crops. "IPM is not an endpoint or a goal," said Dr. Ed Rajotte, associ-

SOUTHEAST HEAVY LIVE HEN REPORT, MARCH 13, 1995. FEDERAL-STATE

Final majority and weighted average prices trended lower compared to last week. Offerings were irregular, ranging short to no better than in close balance with this week's slaughter needs. Finished sales were fairly active and cleared available inventories at most locations. Undertone about steady.

THE SOUTHEAST AND NORTHEAST LIVE HEN REPORTS WERE DISCONTINUED EFFECTIVE FEBRUARY 23, 1995. THEY ARE REPLACED BY THE EASTERN REGION LIVE LIGHTTYPE HEN REPORT AND BY THE SOUTHEAST REGION LIVE HuAVYTYPE HEN REPORT STARTING FEBRUARY 24, 1995. THE NEW REPORTS WILL PROVIDE A MORE EFFECTIVE COVERAGE OF THE LIVE HEN MARKETS.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds remained light and unaggressive. Offerings were readily available and slow to clear particularly 3.5 to 4 pound sizes. Live supplies were moderate; weights were light to heavy, mostly desirable to heavy. Processor schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were 1 cent lower at 49 to 60 cents. Trade sentiment was weak and unsettled. Breast items were in heaviest supply, and were competitively priced to stimulate movement. Leg quarters were irregularly available, and in fairly good balance overall. Wings were adequate and cleared satisfactorily at most plants.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wednesday March 15, 1995
USDA-Market News Service
Daily National Grain Summary

Very good export demand for wheat and a lower U.S. dollar offered support to grain and soybean prices. Wheat 1 to 8 cents higher. Corn 1 to 4 cents higher. Sorghum 2 to 3 cents higher. Soybeans 3 to 8 cents higher. Long time coming but Bangladesh and Egypt are finally back. Sub- stantial sales overnight by them as well as China and Japan gave wheat prices a boost. The U.S. dollar continued to fall against the yen to- day offering additional support to grain and bean prices. Corn and bean prices climbed higher due to fund buying on the board and spillover strength from wheat pits. Improved meal and oil demand also added strength to soybean prices.

Oklahoma National Stockyards Weekly Cattle Summary

Receipts: This Week: 16,925 Last Week: 11,712 Last Year: 12,469

Compared to last week: Feeder cattle steady to 2.00 lower with greatest declines over 800 lbs; however buyers very sensitive to excess flesh and these kind 1.00-3.00 lower than comparable types last week. Demand for feeders moderate as buyers more selective than recent weeks. This selectivity due as much to nearly full feedlots as the negative CME futures close on Monday. Stocker steers and heifers fully steady. Stocker cattle still benefiting from the usual bout of spring fever and enjoy excellent demand. Quality of supply plain to average. Weigh-ups average to full, few gaunt. Flesh condition of feeders continues to deteriorate with most in fairly abundant to maximum flesh as well as an increase in lot fed cattle; few in medium to slightly thin flesh but this a definite minority. Bulk of stocker weight cattle in thinner flesh conditions. Rains began Sunday night and continue through Tuesday with 2-4 inches so far. Slaughter cows and bulls steady to 1.00 lower. Demand from packers moderate to good with wide spread buyer participation. Total of 306 cows and bulls sold with 60 percent to packers. Receipts this week 16,925; last week 11,712; last year 12,469. Supply consisted of 83 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 15 percent calves under 600 lbs; 2 percent cows and bulls.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

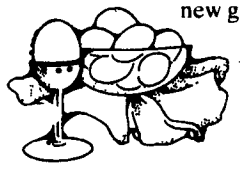
VERNAL EQUINOX, MARCH 20.

OF EGGS AND SEASONS

The vernal equinox occurs at 9:14 P.M. EST on March 20 this year. At that time, the Sun crosses the equator, moving from the Southern Hemisphere to the Northern Hemisphere. This first day of spring signifies harmony and balance in nature as the days are briefly equal to the nights before the longer days of spring arrive. Eggs, an ancient symbol of fertility and new life, figure in many spring rituals. The ancient Chinese may have originated the custom of egg balancing. An old legend says that fresh eggs will stand upright, unsupported, on their "fat" ends at the time of the equinox. In 1984, thirty dozen eggs reportedly balanced for 15 minutes in New York City. Those who take part in the ritual are said to have good luck in the new growing season.



Don't say that spring has come until you can put your foot on nine daisies.

TIP OF THE WEEK

CRAB AND TOMATO BISQUE

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups whole milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup flaked crabmeat
1 cup tomato juice
1 tablespoon chopped parsley, or 4 parsley sprigs

Melt butter in a saucepan; add flour and blend. Add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add seasonings and crab and simmer for a few minutes. Meanwhile, heat tomato juice in another pan. Gradually add hot juice to soup and serve immediately, garnished with parsley.

Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

As are the wind and weather at the equinox, so will they be for the next three months.

If near the equinoxes it blows in the day, it generally hushes towards evening.

Special Offer: Handy chart full of interesting weather proverbs. Send $3 to Weather Chart, Dept. UF, The Old Farmer's Almanac, Box 520, Dublin, NH 03444.

When farmers like you have financial needs, you don't have to come to us, we'll come to you. After all, running a successful farm doesn't leave much time for running to the bank. It's this kind of personal attention that farmers in Lancaster County and surrounding areas have been getting from Bank of Lancaster County for over 125 years.

So if you need working capital, a way to finance machinery, land, livestock, buildings, or a loan tailored to specific needs, look to the bank that's committed to your industry and to our area. At Bank of Lancaster County, decisions are made locally. And for you that means fast turnaround and flexible terms.

Why not give Bob Badger or Stan Michonski of our Agricultural Loan Division a call at (717) 397-7941? We're looking forward to talking to you about banking on your terms...on your farm.

OPINION

Agriculture Important Every Week Of The Year

Agriculture is Pennsylvania's number one industry. And this week, March 19-25, is National Agriculture Week, a good time to remember where our good food comes from.

"Growing Better Everyday in Partnership with Nature" is the theme for this year's celebration. It highlights the important contributions our farmers make in protecting the environment and conserving natural resources. Since air, soil, and water are the mainstay of their existence, our farmers practice stewardship of these resources to sustain their livelihood into the future.

The hard work and dedication of Pennsylvania's 51,000 farm families continue to keep agriculture the number one industry of the Commonwealth. With $3.67 billion in cash receipts, our Keystone farmers and agribusinesses are the leading agriculture producers in the northeastern United States and some of the most productive in the country.

Agriculture generates an additional $40 billion annually in related economic activity and creates jobs for one out of every five Pennsylvanians. This includes support services such as food processing, marketing, transportation, as well as manufacturing all the products and equipment used on the farm.

Milk production is the leading segment of our agricultural industry, with annual sales of $1.43 billion. Pennsylvania's milk production is 10.2 billions pounds.

The total value of all cattle, hogs, and sheep on Pennsylvania farms is $1.53 billion. Actual cash receipts from the sale of meat animals during the past year was $561 million, making livestock the second leading segment of Pennsylvania agriculture.

The combined value of Pennsylvania's poultry production from broilers, eggs and turkeys, plus the value of chicken sales was $500.6 million last year. That's a nine percent increase over the previous year. Laying flocks produced a record 5.64 billion eggs, and turkey producers raise 8.6 million poults.

We join Pennsylvania Governor Tom Ridge in making a state proclamation to coincide with the national event. But we go farther. Because of the impact of agricultrue on Pennsylvania's economy, we proclaim every week of the year Pennsylvania Agriculture Week.

To Celebrate Agricultural Week

Gov. Tom Ridge has declared March 19-25 as Pennsylvania Agriculture Week. This week is a salute to the men and women who provide our neighbors around the world with an abundance of food and fiber products.

"Growing Better Everyday in Partnership with Nature" is the theme for this year's celebration. It highlights the important contributions our farmers make in protecting the environment and conserving natural resources.

Air, soil, and water are the mainstay of agriculture's existence, and our farmers practice stewardship of these resources to sustain their livelihood into the future.

According to the Agriculture Council of America, each year, one American farmer provides food and fiber for 129 people—97 in the United States and 32 abroad. American agriculture employs 21 million people or 18.5 percent of the labor force. A family of four eats about 5,000 pounds of food each year. And Americans spend 11.4 percent of their personal income on food, compared with Japan — 21 percent; Italy — 26 percent; Greece — 42 percent; and China — 53 percent.

To Vote In Tobacco Referendum

United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced that tobacco growers in various parts of the country will be given an opportunity to vote for tobacco support programs to be in effect for the next three years.

If more than two-thirds of the growers who vote in Pennsylvania favor the program for the state, then USDA will set quotas for the state and growers will be able to obtain price support loans for the next three years. If quotas are disapproved, production will not be limited and price support loans will not be available to Pennsylvania tobacco growers.

Pennsylvania has never voted in favor of quotas for the Pennsylvania Type 41 tobacco. The Maryland Type tobacco grown in Pennsylvania and Maryland was last grown under quotas in 1965. Pennsylvania farmers who grew tobacco in 1994 are eligible to vote in the referendum. They can vote at the Consolidated Farm Service Agency office (formally the ASCS office) between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on March 27-30.

To Study Rural Leadership

Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences will host a series of seven seminars aimed at preparing municipal officials for leadership roles within their communities.

The seminar, entitled "Rural Municipal Officials Leadership Academy," will use interactive television to link classrooms at nine sites across the state. The academy will focus on weekly themes such as community decision making, community cooperation and economic development, expanding a community's financial base, how to use volunteers and organizations within a community, and how to communicate effectively.

Participants will also discuss such issues as working with the media, running effective meetings, land use, and public safety. By using telecommunications technology, attending officials can listen to instructors at other classroom sites and ask them questions.

The course will be held on seven Saturdays from April 1-June 3. Each session lasts from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Lunch and instructional materials are included in the $135 registration fee. The registration deadline is March 20. For more information and registration, contact Ann Southard at (814) 863-4679.

Are You Standing Or Falling
March 19, 1995

Background Scripture:
1 Corinthians 10:1-17
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 6:10-18

Now that I am no longer preaching—at least on a regular basis—I have occasion to reflect on the sheer audacity of preaching. Not that I regret or would take back most of what I have preached over the years, but that I would proclaim the gospel with more humility than I did, particularly as a young man fresh out of seminary. (I stayed "fresh" for quite a while.)

Assurance is a good thing for preachers and others, but it can so easily turn into smug self-deception. Paul seems to understand the pitfalls of self-assurance and he warns the Corinthians: "Therefore let any one who thinks that he stands take heed lest he fall" (10:12). I'm afraid there were times when I thought I was standing on the word of God when, in fact, I was falling flat on my face...or some other anatomical feature.

The problem is not assurance, but in what we are assured. Paul cited the example of the Israelites in the wilderness of Sinai. They all participated in this marvelous experience and because of that they became overconfident. "Look what we've experienced!" they thought to themselves, and that was soon transformed into look who or what we are! Because they had the experience they thought they had a no-fault guarantee. But Paul says, "Nevertheless with most of them God was not pleased" (10:5).

Why? Paul gives us four reasons: (1) idolatry; (2) immorality; (3) they put the Lord tc the test; and (4) they grumbled, grumbled, grumbled—all the kinds of stupid things that people do when they think they have it made. They were tempted and most of them thinking they were honor roll students, got failing grades.

Making Whoopee!

Paul sums up their attitude as, "The people sat down to eat and drink and rose up to dance" (10:7). The problem is not in the eating, drinking and dancing, but their smug attitude. They thought they were standing on God's promises and in reality they were falling to temptation! Proudly assured they were God's chosen few, they felt free to be "making whoopee."

Today in psychology there is a considerable debate between victimologist—who believe that people who fail are largely victims of forces which they cannot control (admittedly an oversimplification of their position)—and those who believe that very often we have control over the choices we make. Both on the basis of my theology of free will and my experience as a counselor, I choose the latter position. Without over-generalizing from my experience, I can truthfully say that I have never succumbed to a temptation over which I had no control. When I failed, I made a choice. Professor Martin E.P. Seligman of the University of Pennsylvania says, "Victim explanations are readily adopted because they provide one psychological boon: They generally shift blame from the self to some larger, more impersonal cause" (The devil made me do it!).

Short of physiological addition, there is no temptation over which we do not have the power to say no. So Paul says, "God is faithful, and He will not let you be tempted beyond your strength, but with the temptation will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it" (10:13).

You can stand; you don't have to fall.

THE ONLY ENCAPSULATED PREMIX THAT GETS THROUGH RESIDUE

In no-till corn, you only get one shot at season-long weed control. That's why it pays to load up with Bullet® herbicide. Bullet is encapsulated to shoot through heavy crop residue. So while others volatilize off the surface or get tied up in residue, Bullet gets into the soil to stop germinating weeds.

ENCAPSULATED FOR SUPERIOR CROP SAFETY

Instead of releasing its power in a single shot, Bullet meters out its active ingredient throughout the entire growing season. In doing so, it delivers unsurpassed crop safety — especially when your young corn plants are most vulnerable to herbicide stress.

ENCAPSULATED FOR SEASON-LONG GRASS AND BROADLEAF CONTROL

Unlike other atrazine premixes, Bullet is micro-encapsulated for timed-release, season-long control. The kind of control you need to stop tough grasses and broadleaves like foxtails, fall panicum, cocklebur, lambsquarters, pigweed and velvetleaf.

This year, ask your dealer for the no-till premix that combines stopping power with staying power. Bullet herbicide from Monsanto.

Young Cooperator Contest

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.)—Ten young farmer members of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative will compete in the 25th annual Pennmarva Young Cooperator Contest March 22-24 at the Holiday Inn in College Park, Md.

Sponsored annually by the Pennmarva Dairymen's Federation, the contest recognizes outstanding leadership skills and knowledge of cooperatives. A panel of three judges will select an outstanding young cooperator winner and four runners-up. The 10 contestants, known as young cooperators, were selected to participate in the program based on their dairy proficiency and community leadership.

The contestants and the Atlantic districts they represent are: Theodore C. and Patricia H. Miller of Pilesgrove N.J., District 2; Axel J. and Susan W. Linde of Oxford, District 3; Jeffrey F. and Cindy H. Moore of Centreville, Md., District 4; J. Robert and Beth E. Ranck of Paradise, District 12; and Glenn and Kathy Pugh of Shippensburg, District 15.

Also, Kenneth E. Kehr of Littlestown, District 16; Allen P. Kretzing of Loysville, District 18; Steve R. and Melissa J. Snyder of Pitman, District 19; Dale W. and Jane L. Ray of Williamsburg, District 20; and I. Dwayne Musselman of New Enterprise, District 21.

Atlantic's Young Cooperator program is designed to educate young farmer members about cooperatives and the dairy industry. The yearlong program, which includes attendance at board of director meetings, the annual delegate meeting and educational seminars, develops leadership among cooperative members, ages 21 through 40.

One other member of the Pennmarva Dairymen's Federation—Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Inc.—also announces its Outstanding Young Cooperators during the three-day contest.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents nearly 4,000 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

has been working with commission staff to draft proposed regulations.

To date, there has been little that has kept the board from working to develop the regulations. Winter storms during early 1994 caused the board to cancel a meeting and temporarily pressured staff to keep the momentum. Also, despite a drastic change in the administration of state government and the resulting uncertainty, the board has continued to work to develop regulations.

A goal set in 1993 was to have nutrient management regulations proposed by last July, and finalized by July this year.

As it appears, the advisory board is expected to have a final draft of proposed regulations ready for the commission at least by the end of May.

Discussion during Wednesday's meeting of the board resulted in a rough estimation that a final set of proposed regulations most likely will be available for board approval during its May meeting.

The next meeting of the advisory board is set for April 19, and the possibility was held out during Wednesday's meeting that if members can get clean copies of the draft to review, as well as agreeable definitions and wording in two areas, the board could possibly approve a draft. Though that scenario is less likely.

Debate Wednesday was somewhat controversial dealing with the frequency of review of nutrient management plans.

In effect, a nutrient management plan is nothing more than a plan for using nutrients followed up with an accounting system. The goal of the plan is to control the flow of nutrients, nitrogen in this case, so as to nearly as possible prevent abnormal losses from the farm into the surrounding environment.

The proposal of the majority of the board is to require an official review of a nutrient management plan once every three years. However, an argument was made that the mandatory review should be annual because a nutrient management plan is dynamic and because conditions and manure use can vary widely every year.

The majority of the board, however, expressed the opinion that a three-year interval would better suit because current crop rotations generally use a three-year cycle for major crops, and it was also expressed that requiring annual reviews of all with plans would create a nightmare for those trying to keep track of who has complied with the requirement.

Except for a handfull or less of issues still needing to be resolved, the board has drafted language to cover all the areas required under the Act, and those which resulted out of necessity to make the regulations understandable, fair and workable.

The regulations fall under Title 25, Environmental Resources, State Conservation Commission, Subchapter D, Chapter 83.

Regulations are created under an outline system that uses chapters, subchapters, and is futher broken down through normal outline procedures, depending on the amount of clarity needed to cover an issue.

Under the working draft regulations, there are 18 different subchapters, which are relatively few considering existing regulations covering many other governed activities.

Although the wording of the proposed set of regulations is to be completely redrafted to reflect the inclusion of rules for voluntary nutrient management plans, and also to make the terms more concise and consistent, it may be helpful to review the subchapter titles for understanding what is the general range of issues being considered under the draft regulations.

Brown Swiss Calf Sale

FREDERICK, Md. — The Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf sale has been set for Saturday, April 29, at the Frederick Fairgrounds, and there's still time to consign a calf.

According to Cindy Warner, a member of the sale committee, the deadline to consign a calf is Friday, March 24, in order to complete the sale catalog in time for potential buyers to review.

The sale is set to start at 10:30 a.m. and Warner said, "We are looking for a strong group of calves that combine a unique blend of production and sound type. This sale has been a great place to buy a 4-H project (calf) and has also provided some top-pedigreed calves for the merchandising and investment buyer."

In other news, the Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Association has scheduled its annual meeting for 7 p.m., March 25, at New Midway fire hall, also in Frederick County.

An election of officers, a business meeting, a review of the calf sale and a special guest speaker are among the activities on the agenda.

The guest speaker is to be Donald Leishear, of Damascus, Md., who is to talk about his trip to Nicaragua.

Also, those interested in the Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity, won last year by an entry by Gary Mase, of Lebanon, Pa., should be aware that it is soon approaching.

For more information about the calf sale, meeting, or futurity, call either Warner at (301) 371-5206; Howard Flemming at (301) 475-3440; or Harold Long, (301) 271-7577.

WARNING!

An odorless, colorless, invisible--and costly-- forage thief!

You can't see it--and you can't stop it. Storage losses in forage can steal your valuable crop--how much is lost depends upon how you store your feed:

- Tower Silos have Up to 8% loss*
- Bunkers have Up to 45% loss

If the average difference in feed lost between tower silos and bunkers is 30%, then storage of 1000 tons will mean 300 tons MORE lost in a bunker. If silage is valued at $30 per ton, the additional losses from bunker storage would be $9000 a year.

For information on losses for all types of crop storage methods, contact the Crop Storage Institute for your free copy of " Methods of Crop Storage" and "Know the Facts."

Fruit Growers Get Hands-On Look A[illegible]

ate professor of entomology at Penn State. "It's a process."

That process involves the gathering of extensive amounts of information about weather, crop grown, the environment, the type of pests, knowing the lifecycle of pests, and using that information to form strategies that deal precisely with the problem, according to experts who spoke to 32 growers on Wednesday.

Dealing with the problem can prove time- and money-saving in the end through the use of pest monitoring and technology that is readily available to growers. That technology was explored at the one-day intensive workshop at the Ag Center.

The technology of IPM goes back to the 1930s, when an Arkansas entomologist used scouting for bugs in cotton to determine what to do, according to Rajotte. In fact, growers made use of IPM through the 1950s to apply economic decisions to pest handling. In the late 1960s-early 1970s, because of political activities, growers became aware of the importance of protecting the environment. That renewed interest in the environment, after the economic considerations of the 1980s, came about in the last decade and into the 1990s, according to Rajotte.

What IPM strategies do is require the fruit grower "to think why you are doing certain pesticide . . . activities and reason it out to a certain extent." Rajotte said that in the past, growers simply sprayed "every Thursday" regardless of whether the crop needed it. With IPM, growers must seriously examine the need for spraying and pinpoint when, in what way, and how.

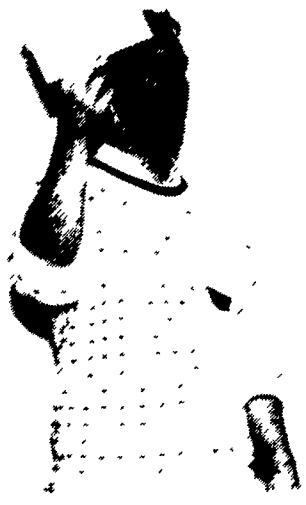
Another reason IPM tactics may be necessary is the potential for increased biological resistance to pesticides that insects can build up over time. This phenomena is growing and "we have to pay attention to it," said Rajotte.

IPM technology, making use of weather, monitoring through the use of traps, biological controls, and other methods, continues to improve. "IPM technology will become more prevalent, useful, economic, and environmentally friendly as time goes on," he said.

At the workshop, researches examined ways growers can utilize IPM effectively in orchards. Rajotte emphasized the importance of key IPM elements: gathering information, looking at thresholds, keeping mindful of multiple tactics, using pest and crop biology, scouting, and most important of all, crop record keeping.

Record keeping is "a big tool in pest programs," said Rajotte.

Tactics growers can use include "biotactics" or using the interaction of natural pests (a natural organism such as the stethorus beetle and larvae control in attacking overwintering European red mite eggs on Red Delicious apple trees). Another would be the use of wasps that can attack the coddling and tufted bud moth larvae, of which the adults are prime culprits in apple trees.



If growers "think ahead and have the management system in place," they can make use of pheromone controls to stop the coddling moth and tufted apple bud moth from creating major apple orchard damage, according to Glenn Koehler, associate scientist-IPM at the University of Maine Cooperative Extension Service.

Kelly Anon, research technologist, provides data for the growers at the workshop.

Rajotte examined using pest monitoring and calculations to determine whether the count showed "economic" threshold levels (where treating the problem equals the cost in terms of lost crop totals) or crop injury levels (where more money is lost from crop damage than it would cost to treat the pest).

Growers should understand that biological controls, such as using stethorus or other parasites on apple trees, "need time to build up," he said. "It may need some active management tactics by growers beforehand."

In diagnosing plant disorders, growers should take time to look closely at various possible causes of the problems before making a decision to use IPM. That includes extensive inspection of the parts above ground, cultural practices used, looking at the root systems, checking the "microclimate," and looking at soil and leaf tests.

The most important consideration, according to Mena Hautau, Berks County extension agent and coordinator of the workshop, is to "have an open mind toward diagnosis," she said. "Don't blame it on one thing and jump to conclusions."

There are no black and white answers, according to Hautau. "Diagnosis is a lifelong-type process, a skill you improve with time," she said.

Growers now can make use of a free plant disease mailing kit available from Extension. Growers need to complete a form about the specimen to obtain advice. Hautau told the growers that they shouldn't be afraid to say "I don't know" about the cause of a particular disease problem.

At the workshop, growers took part in pest scouting hands-on activities. A simulated orchard put red mites on an array of simulated trees, and growers were tasked to count the mites in the tree (marked on simulated leaves with a red pen) and the amount of stethorus beetles and larvae on the tree (marked on bags with Xs and squiggles). A worksheet allowed them to calculate threshold levels.

At the simulation, growers learned how to identify the mite eggs and were shown the damage it does to tree bark on the Red Delicious variety. The simulation of the apple orchard system tested their knowledge and understanding of how to measure the pest thresholds and what exactly to do about them — to spray or not spray.

Scouting forms the basis of many IPM programs, either using spraying or beneficial insects. Growers should carry a hand lens with them at all times and some kind of record keeping system, using a counter and sheets of paper, to properly record pest infestation. "You have to be in the orchard on a weekly basis to assess information about mite/stethorus populations," said Rajotte.

"The main task as a grower is to make the orchard hospitable to stethorus," he said.

The natural propagation of the stethorus species can aid growers in a big way. The adults can readily be introduced to an orchard and can play a big part in reducing mite population, if growers keep careful tabs on spraying and scouting.

If growers "think ahead and have the management system in place," they can make use of pheromone controls to stop the coddling and tufted apple bud moth from creating major apple orchard damage, according to Glenn Koehler, associate scientist-IPM at the University of Maine Cooperative Extension Service.

Koehler examined several studies undertaken at Penn State. They showed that making use of pheromone disruption costs less than pesticide applications and was more effective, in the long run, in keeping red mite populations low in orchards.

Koehler explained that pheromones are hormones that are secreted outside the body of the insect to attract mates for reproduction. By using synthetic pheromones, the pests are "confused" by the lures and cannot reproduce.

In Maine, Koehler said, growers raise about 4,000-5,000 acres of apples for a total of two million bushels per year. On a regional level, including six states in New England, growers manage about 12,000 acres of apples and have their share of pest problems. But each state has an IPM program.

Koehler told the growers to assume the perspective of the bug and what bugs have to do to survive. Knowing the lifecycle of the pest opens up ways to deal with it.

Growers who use IPM can track, capture, and scout bugs in the orchard. Using pheromones, traps can be set to lure pests in. Counts can help determine what the thresholds are and how an IPM strategy can be implemented. Also, using "kairomones," or natural plant attractions, pests can be captured for scouting and counting purposes.

In the past, many growers had a rough estimate of when a pest would emerge. But that rough estimate varied according to weather. Rather than relying on imprecise estimates of emergence, for control of the tufted apple beetle moth (TABM), growers can more effectively and precisely apply controls using the concept of "degree

Bill Serfass, Allentown, counts the spots representing mites at the hands-on workshop.

Growers now can take advantage of a free plant disease mailing kit available from Extension. Growers need to complete a form about the specimen and send in the specimen to obtain advice. Dr. Ed Rajotte, associate professor of entomology at Penn State, holds the kit.

A simulated orchard put red mites on an array of simulated trees, and growers were tasked to count the mites in the tree (marked on simulated leaves with a red pen).

IPM At Berks Workshop

days" (DD). The DD amount, which is based on the internal temperature lifecycle of an insect, can pinpoint when the best time is to apply a control.

Koehler demonstrated to the growers how to set up a pheromone trap for the coddling beetle at the hands-on portion of the workshop. The inexpensive trap provides a big advantage in an IPM strategy, according to Koehler. "The trap is always out there looking so you don't have to," he said.

The traps are good only for scouting and counting, and not for trapping out the insect pest. But Pennsylvania remains on the forefront of using a method of mating disruption using pheromone placements for the TABM. When using disruption, growers need to make sure the site is isolated from non-control areas and site-specific. And using mating disruption blocks against the red mite in Adams County plots kept population low compared to standard miticide treatments in the blocks, according to the scientist.

Setting up traps and pheromone disrupters can be labor-intensive. One of the "exciting" projects Penn State is working on is the use of techniques to put the pheromone disrupters in a sprayable format, putting them on right from the tank.

Once growers have the information from scouting, there are "expert" systems, such as the Penn State Apple Orchard Consultant, that can be used if growers would invest in a computer.

According to Dr. Janice E. McClure, Penn State expert systems coordinator, the Consultant is available for any grower to use with a Mac computer (1 megabyte of RAM and a hard disk drive required) or an MS-DOS system (1 megabyte of RAM and a VGA monitor required). She demonstrated the latest version of the software, Ver. 6.0 (1995), at the Workshop. The cost of the software is about $400.

The system, developed about seven years ago, allows growers to incorporate a wide variety of information on the pest or disease problem. The important thing to remember about the diagnostic tool is that much information is needed, including weather, variety, plot layout, and other factors, to make an accurate diagnosis.

Rajotte said that another tool to be available to users in June this year is the "Orchard Monitoring Guide," a 200-page compilation of pests, disease, and other problems growers experience, and full-color plates to ID and control the problems.

Workshops in the future will focus in-depth on selected grower IPM techniques and strategies, according to Rajotte.

"IPM has a very bright future," said Rajotte. "It is not going to go away. It's here. New choices demand more information on the part of the user . . . and a demand for more knowledge."

A worksheet allowed them to calculate threshold levels.

Grassland FFA Holds 36th Annual Recognition Banquet

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Grassland FFA president Connie Zeiset told about 300 persons attending the chapter's 36th annual banquet held March 10 at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland that FFA is like a banana split.

She compared the alumni to bananas because they laid the foundation for FFA, the parents who drive members to meetings and support the many activities are the ice cream, the guests are the varied toppings because of sharing various gifts to help the organization, and other FFA chapters are likened to the whipped cream and cherry that offer color and sharing while enjoying the sweetness of this favorite dessert.

Theresa Inhof, FFA vice president for the state eastern region, challenged members and guests to set goals, dream dreams, but to remember that it's determination and steady dedication that will see them at the top of the success ladder.

Awards and recognition went to both FFA members and supporters of the program.

Star Greenhand awards went to Wanda Fox, Sheldon Hoover, Junior Zeiset, and Amy Petrax.

Star chapter awards were given to Ken Martin and Dan Laudermilch.

Star Red Rose degrees were given to Jess Weaver and Jon Beaver.

Star Keystone, the highest state level degrees, were earned by Linda Huber and Connie Zeiset.

Shawn Eberly, a 1991 Garden Spot graduate, and known for his "I can do it" attitude was recognized for achieving the 1994 American FFA Degree and for being a Pennsylvania Star Farmer candidate.

Jason Reifsnyder, a former graduate of Garden Spot and a sophomore at Penn State, was also recognized for achieving the 1994 American FFA degree.

Other award recipients included FFA Foundation scholarship awards to members who achieved a 3.75 during a marking period this past year.

Achievement awards went to Linda Huber who was named the top salesperson for citrus fruit sales and to Jess Huber, who received a monetary award for his habitat project from D. Steven Martin of the Pennsylvania Game Commission. Martin said that it was the second year that the Grassland Chapter had submitted more wild life record books to the contest than any other chapter.

Certificates of appreciation were given to the following for helping the Grassland Chapter in many different ways: Fred Brown, PVATA legislative lobbyist; Jeff Riddle, student teacher; Elsie Carraway, poultry team resource person; Ron Ramus, Tyson Foods; Charles Kessler, county FFA advisor; Ernie Orr, ag teacher; Andy Roy, plumbing consultants; Harvey Buzzard, maintenance department; Mr. and Mrs. William Shirk, cooperators aquaculture project; Mussleman's Lumber, greenhouse project supporter; Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Esbenshade, officer retreat cabin hosts; Erika Neidermyer, receptionist and mailroom; Sandra Lane, program committee; and Dan Falvey, math teacher.

Honorary Chapter Degrees were given to the following persons: Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Huber, parents of four Keystone degree winners;

Jeff Stoltzfus, adult farmer instructor; Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming writer; Nevin Greiner, resource conservationist; Jan Burke, media librarian; Steve Kline, West Snyder FFA advisor; DeElma Kline, bookkeeper;

Cynthia Shaffer, West Snyder FFA advisor; and Mr. and Mrs. David Kunkle, parents of FFA chapter president Connie Zeiset.

AJCA Provides Youth Awards

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — In conjunction with its ongoing youth programs, the American Jersey Cattle Association sponsors awards for junior shows and for state, regional, and national judging contests.

Ribbons for three places in each individual female class and a rosette for the grand champion female are available for county, district, state, and regional junior Jersey shows. There is also an award presented in state and regional Jersey showmanship classes.

Awards available for the National Intercollegiate Dairy Cattle Judging Contest include a rotating trophy for the high team members and their coach. The high individual in Jersey judging is presented a model Jersey cow. Awards for the National 4-H Dairy Cattle Judging Contest are the same except there is no rotating trophy.

Awards for collegiate, 4-H, and FFA regional contests at Eastern States, National Cattle Congress, Pennsylvania All American, North American, Pacific International, and Mid-South Fair include a color plaque of the Ideal Jersey cow for the coach of the high team in Jerseys and a pen for team members. The high individual in Jerseys receives a model Jersey cow.

The coach of the high team in Jerseys at two-year and technical intercollegiate contests receive a color plaque of the Ideal Jersey cow; team members receive a pen.

The high individual in Jerseys is presented a color plaque of the Ideal Jersey cow. This plaque is also presented to the high individual in Jerseys at state judging contests.

AJCA awards are available only by annual request. Contact Sara Gaetz at the American Jersey Cattle Association, 6486 East Main Street, Reynoldsburg, OH 43068-2362, 614/861-3636, at least four weeks before the event.

culture land in Pennsylvania and produces almost 25 percent of the ag products in the state. "Lancaster County is clearly a leader in agriculture in the state," he said. Shirk will do all he can to promote agriculture products while working to ensure that regulations don't end up "hurting the Lancaster County farmer," he said.

The 1988 graduate of Garden Spot High School emphasized the fact that Lancaster County is growing in terms of "niche" or specialty markets. He said that 20 years ago, there were few farms that raised ostrich or lamas or grew specialty crops and vegetables for national markets. Now, the county is growing in terms of the specialty markets, and those need to be promoted state- and nationwide.

Shirk was one of the organizers and chairman of the first Lancaster County Conservation Expo held in Elizabethtown last year. The Expo, with the theme "We're All In This Together," drew about 120 people, he said, including farmers, homeowners, "a wide variety of people" with various backgrounds. The Expo was featured on newspapers, in television, and on radio. The next Expo will be held in the county park at the demonstration farm on Saturday, July 15 this year.

Shirk said the Expo stands out as a "jewel" in terms of the time and effort put in to it by the spirit and camaraderie of the conservation district and other organizations interested in conservation in the county. He also coordinated the county's slit tiller program (now at 200 acres per year). For the past seven years, he has served as a Lancaster County Youth Conservation School instructor, which teaches youth about the importance of conservation.

Shirk was previously employed by the Fulton County Conservation District. With a bachelor's in environmental resource management from Penn State, Shirk takes over a position that has been in place since 1990 at the Chamber, according to Nora Weder, vice president of government affairs at the Chamber. Shirk's "high profile" position, she said, emphasizes the importance of the county's small farms as businesses, acts as a liaison to the legislative and regulatory community, and promotes Lancaster County agriculture.

One of the Chamber's premier events is the annual Farm Financial Management School, according to Weder, which emphasizes farm owners and their relationship to human resources and the management of the family that helps run the operation.

Weder said the Chamber likes Shirk's "enthusiasm and amount of energy" he brings to the full-time position, which is funded 60 percent by the Chamber and 40 percent through the county. Weder explained that the Lancaster position is the only full-time position at a local Chamber of its kind in the country.

A Full Season Of Grass Control In Every Micro-Capsule.

If you could look inside a micro-capsule of Partner® herbicide, you'd see something remarkable. A full season's worth of grass control plus the added bonus of superior crop safety.

TIMED-RELEASE, SEASON-LONG GRASS CONTROL IN CORN AND BEANS.

Because of its unique encapsulated formula, Partner "meters out" grass control throughout the growing season. The kind of effective preemergent control you need to stop yield-robbing grasses like foxtails, fall panicum and barnyardgrass.

Plus, the timed-release action of Partner provides maximum crop safety. Especially when young plants are most susceptible to herbicide stress.

CONVENIENT DRY FORMULATION MIXES QUICKLY AND EASILY.

Unlike other grass herbicides, Partner comes in an easy-to-handle dry formulation. And while it mixes quickly and completely in your tank, there are no meters to mess with; no pumps to replace and no containers to rinse.

This year, ask your dealer for timed-release Partner herbicide from Monsanto.

Beef Skillathon Draws Juniors To Beef Expo

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Last Saturday marked the second annual Pennsylvania Beef Skillathon, held during Pennsylvania Beef Expo festivities at the Farm Show Complex.

The event, coordinated by the Pennsylvania Beef Council, provides challenging and learn-by-doing activities to help the development of project skills of junior cattlemen. Activities included mini-learning stations that tested participants' knowledge and ability to perform specific tasks, including identification of beef breeds, feeds, equipment, and beef cut, food safety, and animal health care.

At the Quiz Bowl, a Berks County showdown took place, with Berks County Team A, B, and C competing. The winner of the event was Berks Team A, consisting of Ben Weist, Kelley Dietrich, Lee Gauker, and Justin Levan. Second place went to Team B, comprised of Emilie Miller, Cathy Levan, Kristy Dietrich, and Brian Hartman. Team C was third, consisting of John Hartman, Matt Manbeck, Anita Manbeck, and Dave Newpher.

At the Skillathon, Ben Weist was named junior division champion.

Beetles, Parasites Can Reduce Poultry House Flies

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — There's hope for egg producers who have difficulty controlling flies in layer houses if they use the hister beetle (scientific name: carcinops) and keep controls on pit moisture, according to a Penn State entomologist.

Dr. Charlie Pitts, Department of Entomology at Penn State, spoke about university studies of the hister beetle and the use of parasites that can be effective in controlling the common house fly in layer houses.

Pitts told about 50 poultry producers and related agri-industry representatives that the hister beetle "is one friend we ought to take care of" when using integrated pest management (IPM) for fly control. The beetle can be a big player in a successful IPM fly control program and has the "potential to be an augmentation to other controls," said Pitts, for layer house pests.

Pitts spoke Monday at the Penn State-sponsored Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider's Restaurant.

Researchers are looking at different techniques to identify and monitor flies in poultry houses. The Penn State study observed fly populations through the use of spot cards placed in layer houses and pullets.

One, a 120,000 layer house, looked at mulching as a possible control. Another looked at a parasite that scientists call Mucidifurax vaptorellus.

First, researchers had to find a way to thoroughly identify fly type and population. An effective way, according to Pitts, is through the use of spot cards. But a quick and easy way for producers to do a rough fly type and population check is by using simple sticky tape fly traps. The tape can be attached to a stick and a producer can move through the house to see approximately how many flies emerge from the pits.

The study compared one untreated house to a beetle-treated house. In the untreated house, common house fly populations peaked at week 6-7 and again at 9-10 weeks, then fell off. In the treated house, "a very wet house," according to Pitts, the hister beetle was released the first week. The beetle eats the common house fly pupae. The surge in the amount of beetles corresponded with a rapid decrease in fly population in the house, proving that the beetles were dramatically effective in controlling flies.

What is surprising is that the beetles even survived adversely wet conditions. Normally, according to Pitts, dry conditions must be present for the beetles to thrive.

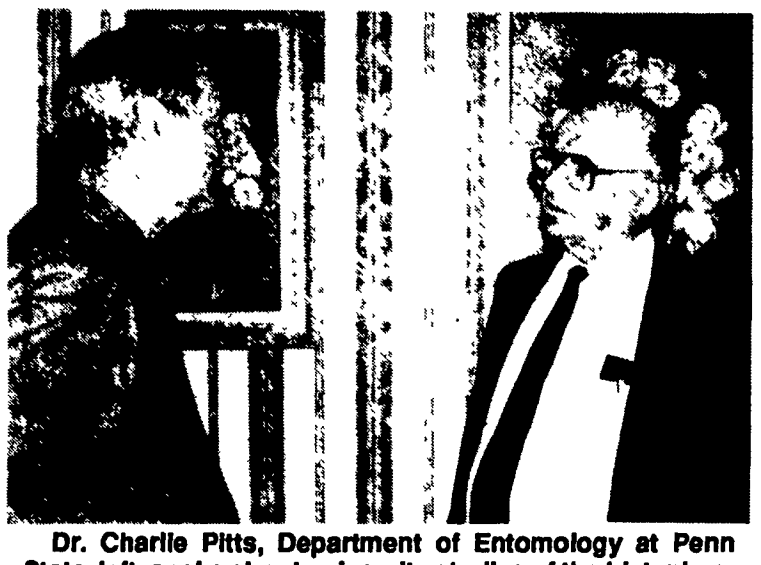
Used in conjunction with other spray control methods, hister beetles can prove useful as an option for house managers.

"The key is to get the pits as dry as you can as quickly as you can to get activity as early as possible," he said.

Also, producers should show some restraint on spraying to ensure that the beetles aren't totally eliminated from the program. And while some producers carry over beetles from the previous manure in a house, Pitts cautioned that this can violate good biosecurity practices. It is best to clean out a house entirely, keep the pit moisture low, and release fresh beetle populations by the first 3-4 weeks.

"The beetle is a key player and can save you money if you protect it," he said.

If using parasites in addition to spray programs, it is best to make use of local types of parasites, which will do better than the ones from California. Parasites work like the hister beetle to eat the fly larvae.



Dr. Charlie Pitts, Department of Entomology at Penn State, left, spoke about university studies of the hister beetle and the use of parasites that proved effective in controlling the common house fly in layer houses. Here, he talks to Jack Vanderwende, quality assurance manager for PMS Inc. Heritage, at the poultry meeting.

Pitts reviewed some of the other work under way at Penn State to control house flies:

- This summer, entomologists will be studying how tillage practices reduce fly populations after manure applications. At the Lancaster County research site, plots measuring 20 feet by 500 feet had manure applied at the rate of three tons per acre. Researchers used 10 traps per plot to collect flies in pint-sized jars. Using no tillage, there was an average of 320 flies collected per trap for a total of 10.97 million flies per acre. Discing the manure proved of little effectiveness, bringing the population to an average of 219 per trap and a calculated per acreage total of 7.54 million flies per acre. Chiseling the manure had some effect, reducing the average per trap to 74 and a calculated average of about 2.53 million per acre. However, the best practice was moldboard plowing, from which 34 flies were collected per trap for a total of only 118,331 flies per acre.
- Entomologists are looking at ways to use microwave equipment to kill insects in the field.
- Electrical "zapper" studies will determine how effective they are in reducing house fly populations.
- Studies are examining the use of photoactiviated dies that are absorbed through feed into flies. Once the flies go into sunlight, the "photoactivation" process kills them.

Pa.DHIA Sets Spring Conferences

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — It is time once again for the Pa.DHIA technicians to meet for their annual spring conference.

Each year Pa.DHIA holds three seasonal sets of conferences (spring, summer and fall) to further update and educate each technician.

Spring conference allows time for each technician to interact and to exchange ideas with each other, as well as being able to interact with the guests who attend each meeting, such as extension agents and artificial inseminator personnel.

There are a total of 14 conferences held at different locations. Each technician selects the appropriate conference closest to his or her area. This allows each group of technicians to be relatively small, which contributes to better interaction as well as being able to assist in keeping traveling time at a minimum for most technicians.

This year's conference promises to be as exciting as ever with the ability for each technician to give their dairymen Westfalia Dairyplan reports on test day.

The conference agenda includes a round-table discussion facilitated by Dean Amick, Pa.DHIA director of field operations. This discussion is set up in a way that each technician has the opportunity to ask quesitons or voice any concerns.

The topics of discussion during the round-table forum are to include the new Innovative Program, flexibility of programs, as well as scheduling.

The highlight of the conference is to be the introduction of the revised Herd Summary I, which allows the dairymen more flexibility in the recording of his feed information.

A new update will be implemented on each technician's computer to assist in handling the new revisions.

Each of the meetings is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. and end at 3 p.m.

Technicians should remember to bring their laptop computer, Westfalia Dairy Plan Manual, and their DHIA technician manual to the conference.

M-D R&W Cattle Association To Meet

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — The Mason-Dixon Red & White Cattle Association is to meet 1 p.m., Sunday, March 26, at Spangler's Restaurant, near Gettysburg.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect directors, make plans for a summer picnic, and to consider the possibility of an organized tour to Madison, Wisconsin in October to attend the World Dairy Expo.

All are welcomed to attend the meeting or to join the organization.

Membership dues at $10 per year and should be mailed to: Mason-Dixon RWDCA, c/o Kenneth Myer, Secretary-Treasurer, 393 Ridgeview Road North, Elizabethtown, Pa., 17022.

For those going to the meeting, the restaurant is located near the intersection of routes 15 and 394, approximately four miles north of Gettysburg.

For more information, call Jack King, association president, at (717) 294-3345, or Myer at (717) 367-3344.

Northwest Calf Sale Canceled

MEADVILLE (Crawford) — Due a lack of sufficient consignments, the 1995 Northwest Pennsylvania All-Breed Calf Sale has been canceled.

The sale had been scheduled to be held April 15 as a way for youth to purchase quality purebred dairy calves to use in their 4-H projects.

However, the extension service in Crawford County has provided a list of names and phone numbers of representatives for each of the six recognized dairy breeds so that those interested in buying 4-H project animals can locate breeders with stock available.

According to a news release from Larry Labowski, Crawford County extension agent, the sale was canceled because, "Unfortunately, prospective consignments were down and additional insurance costs would raise the needed commission charge to over 10 percent.

"In prior years, the insurance was provided at no cost to the county. However, as the 4-H liability insurance guidelines currently read, all 4-H sales will be charged an insurance fee based on the gross amount of each of the sales," Labowski wrote in the news release.

Further, he wrote, "The insurance fee would have added $350, or $10 per head for a sale of 35 calves, to the expense of the sale. With fewer numbers, the cost would increase on a per head basis."

Labowski provided the names of breed representatives who can help prospective buyers link up with sellers, without forcing youth to pay the insurance fees associated with the sale.

Jersey Breed Breaks Production Records

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Once again, the average milk production for Jerseys has leaped over 15,000 pounds nationally, setting another record year for the breed! With the increased emphasis on protein in the past few years, Jersey producers are also excelling in keeping up in the market place by increasing protein production.

During 1994, 691 Jersey herds were enrolled in Dairy Herd Improvement Registry and averaged 15,567 pounds milk, 719 pounds fat, and 573 pounds protein.

These mature equivalent (m.e.) averages are based on a total of 46,122 records. This production shows an increase of 2 percent for milk, 2 percent fat, and 2 percent protein over the 1993 breed average.

In addition to a record high average for the Jersey breed, the 1994 DHIR m.e. averages brought good news for individual herds.

IS YOUR CORN STATE-OF-THE-ART?

It is when you start with advanced IMI-Corn™ hybrids. New IMI-Corn is specifically designed to be used with today's modern herbicides. Advanced herbicides like RESOLVE™ CP herbicide. The contact and residual control of RESOLVE can put down your toughest broadleaf weeds and key grasses — with 60 to 90% less active ingredient per acre than standard corn herbicide programs. And it does it all with no atrazine. So insist on state-of-the-art performance.

Lancaster Holstein Enthusiasts Tour Chester County

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HOMEVILLE (Chester Co.) — A review of the history of successful Pennsylvanian Holstein breeding operations and a presentation about strategies for the future were among the many highlights of last week's Lancaster County Holstein Club tour into Chester County.

About 75 Holstein enthusiasts participated in a planned bus tour of five registered Holstein herds in Chester County, and the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine's New Bolton Center. They also had dinner at the West Fallowfield Christian Day School, in Atglen, on the return trip.

A major purpose for conducting the tours is to allow Holstein enthusiasts to see daughters of certain sires in various stages of maturity, but especially in milk.

Another important reason for the tours is to allow participants to see different operations, different equipment uses, setups, feeds, and to hear successful people explaining some of their decisions, strategies, and outlook.

Tours also provide an increasingly rare opportunity for dairy people to talk to each other.

The farms visited inlcuded Dunwood Farms, Melwood Farm, Caernarvon Farm, Glen Valley Farm, and Wallmoore Farm.

While all farms exhibited well-functioning operations and interesting aspects, of special note were the tours of the Dunwood and Melwood farms.

Those familiar with the Dunwood prefix would also recognize that the family farm, started in 1953 by Jacob Stoltzfus, developed the Golden cow family, and had a widely known herd dispersal in 1979 that featured the sale of Dunwood Chief Carmel and 60 animals from the Golden family.

The farm is now under the operation of Jacob's son Alvin, while Jacob's other son Melvin Stoltzfus operates nearby Melwood Farm, with a herd that currently leads Chester County in average production.

In fact although the two operations are separate, Alvin and Melvin work together on certain projects.

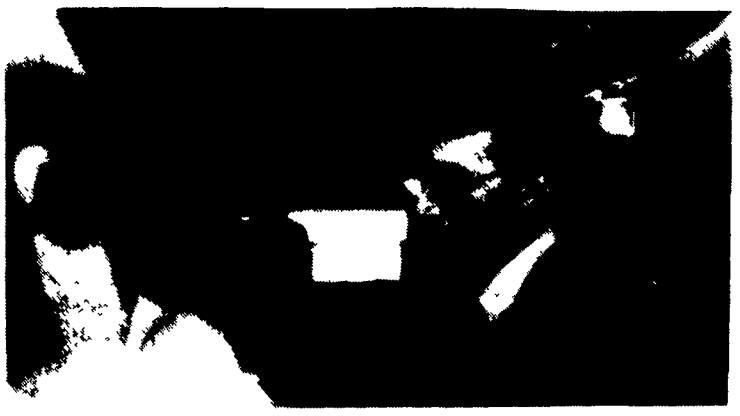
At Dunwood Farm, Alvin introduced his family — wife Lily, daughter Rose, and their four boys, Marling, Steve, Nathan and Dwayne — and then introduced the farm's mission statement.

Alvin said that he and his wife came up with the mission statement, and they have it posted on the wall of the barn office.

The statement is three-part: "to properly manage and maintain all that God has entrusted in our care; to provide a comfortable standard of living, job opportunities and character training for the family; and to produce a product (milk and breeding stock) that will benefit others."

Jacob talked about starting with 16 cows and a farmstead that had a bit of timber on it. The wood was used and sold and when Jacob was done with cutting wood, they decided to call the farm "Dunwood" as in "done with the wood."

He said he went to Canada to look for a brood cow that had at least three generations of production of 4 percent butterfat and that had classified as Good Plus, or Good for three generations.



Melvin Stoltzfus discusses some of his management strategies which have enabled the Melwood Farm to have the Chester County herd with the highest rolling herd average and perhaps one of the lowest overheads.

Jacob Stoltzfus talks about how he and his wife started the Dunwood Holstein farm and how he developed the famous Golden cow family line.

Jacob said that he breeds for conformation and type and that getting milk production is a matter for management.

He said that, at the time he paid $700 for the cow which he said would translate in today's prices to spending about $2,500 to $3,000.

The first calf from that brood cow was Dunwood Daisy, which became the farm's first Gold Medal dam. He then added Golden to the herd. Since then he had nine generations of Gold Medal cows in that line.

He said his bull selection strategy was to use bulls which balanced out the existing cow conformation. For example, he said that a short length cow would be crossed with a bull that would correct for longer length.

According to Jacob, when he was breeding, artificial insemination was just getting started and he wanted Ragapple sons, but settled for grandsons and greatgrandsons. He said that he would keep crossing back on those bulls with the succeeding generations.

When the barn was expanded from 27 cows to the current 60-stall barn, he got Dunwood Chief Carmel, daughter of his Cola cow, an Apollo daughter. Carmel then gave Jacob his Coco cow, all of which became fairly well known.

Carmel was especially recognized, as she became the first cow of the breed to have recorded five consecutive lactation productions of more than 1,100 pounds of butterfat. She was sold for $53,000 during the 1982 All-American to Dr. Alan McCauley, owner of Em-Tran, and embryo-transfer business in Elizabethtown. A photograph of Carmel is in the Dunwood barn office.

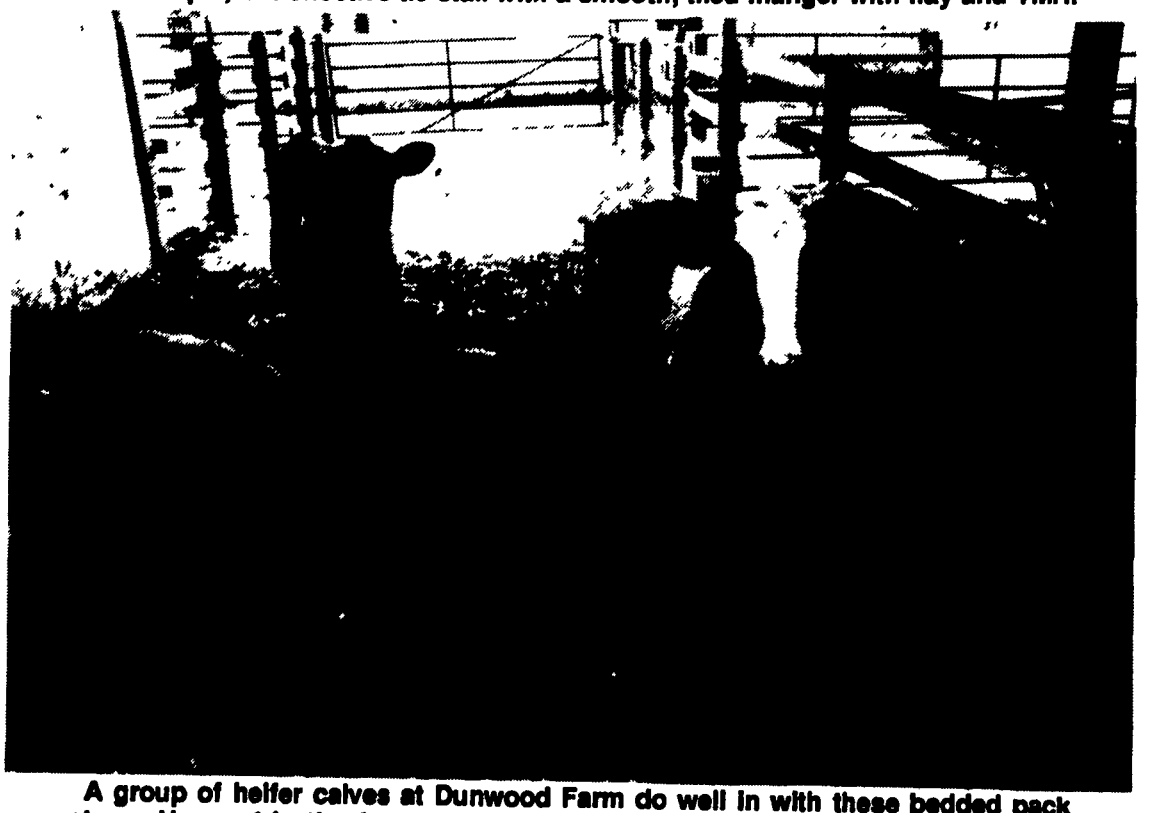
According to Alvin, he got married in 1974 and was working for his father who gave him the option of cash or calf in payment.

By the time of the 1979 herd dispersal, Alvin had 20 animals in the herd that he was able to sell and recoup his earnings. Alvin said Melvin got started by using surplus heifers from the Dunwood farm and those became his foundation cows, up until Melvin had his own dispersal seven years ago.

Melvin then did church-related work for three years, before getting back into dairying four years ago.

(Turn to Page A29)

The Dunwood herd is calm despite a group of about 75 people walking around them in the simple, but effective tie-stall with a smooth, tiled manger with hay and TMR.



A group of heifer calves at Dunwood Farm do well in with these bedded pack setups. Unseen, in the front of the stall is a series of wooden head gates.

Lots of high-producing, clean, groomed cows with good udder attatchments, good rear ligaments, nice legs and feet, and lots of dairy character, make up the Dunwood herd.

During the Dunwood dispersal, Melvin and Alvin each bought seven head of the herd to start up again.

Alvin said he was planning to build up the herd, when John Stoltzfus, not a family member, saw all the empty stalls and asked if he could bring a couple cows in to be milked and cared for, and he would bring potential buyers.

According to Alvin, John brought seven to eight cows at a time into the herd. "We sold more cows that following year than we did at the sale," he said. "I almost felt like a dealer, and I wanted to be a breeder," Alvin said.

He said people brought in to look at John's animals also got a look at the main herd, and that stimulated additional sales that may never have happened otherwise.

Alvin said that the experience has helped him tremendously in being able to sell and price animals. In fact, he said every cow in the herd has an price established, even if it is not for sale.

Just prior to the tour, Alvin said group of buyers from Brazil had come to see the herd, and after experiencing the sales generated through the arrangement with John Stoltzfus, he said he felt more confident talking with potential buyers.

Alvin said he does buy some calves and will bring them into the herd, with a mind that it may be sold later. He said that he buys calves, because the investment is relatively small compared to potential outcome, and even if the calf doesn't pan out, he can still sell her as a milking animal without losing money.

"I do buy calves and seldom a cow. The reason is the heifer barn will hold more than I can milk. When I have extra heifers, it's easier to sell when (buyers) comes in."

Alvin said always having animals for sale helps sell animals. It is a strong marketing tool, adding that during the three years the herd was closed, the traffic of buyers slowed, and sales slowed, even though the quality of cattle remained.

Alvin also reviewed some of the changes implemented on the farm over the years, and how each change resulted in an increase in milk production. For example, he said that in 1981 they incorporated high moisture corn, in 1984 a silo, in 1988 an invitational sale, in 1992 a mixer to make totally mixed rations (TMRs), and last year they had the barn outfitted with a tunnel ventilation system.

"The point is we keep doing things very carefully and our production responds. (With each change) Every time the production increased," Alvin said. "Right now, I don't know how we got along without tunnel ventilation."

Alvin said he has been using a similar breeding strategy to that of his father's, called the "AAA" system which rates types.

"We breed back and forth, and shoot for the center or balance, when mating. Helps to use the top TPI bulls without seeing the daughters," Alvin said, explaining that saleability of offpsring is the reason for using the top 15 TPI bulls.

Alvin also keeps some bulls at the farm sometimes for bull studs. During the tour had two housed there, one with awaiting a proof and the other being looked at by a bull stud.

Something else unique about Dunwood is that they are currently involved in an experiment with a device that its attatched to the milking unit that is to test milk and tell whether or not the cow is cycling or not.

At another invitational sale at the farm in 1988, at which time Melvin dispersed his herd, there were 60 members of the Golden family included.

Presently, there are about 40 members of the family in the herd, representing the 13th generation at the farm. Of those 40, one was a 3-year-old Southwind daughter that freshened February and is milking about 100 pounds of milk per day.

The herd also included cows such as Cherio, a Tradition daughter out of Dunwood Proud Cherry, that is an Excellent-91 with her last three 365-day lacations at more than 30,000 pounds of milk. On a chart above her stall was posted a 10-10 lactation with 34,194 pounds of milk, and 1,264 pounds of butterfat in 365 days.

This group of heifers at the Dunwood Farm is kept in loose housing with a clean bedded pack of straw and sawdust.

Melwood Holsteins

The Melwood farm is home for Melvin, his wife Mary Ellen, and their seven children.

After Melvin got back into dairying, he bought some cows from surrounding farms, and got a group from Dunwood. In recognition of his brother's management, Alvin said that he sent a couple of cows over to Melvin that Alvin thought he got to produce about as much as he could.

Under Melvin's program, which is called a type of organic dairying, production increased. Alvin said he intended to use the same type of management at his farm, and in fact hired the consultant that has been working with Melvin in the organic use.

The organic dairying at Melvin's 45-cow operation is based on not using pesticides, and also feeding a TMR with a supplement that includes lacto-bacteria to boost populations in the rumen.

The herd averages 26,278 pounds of milk, 1,038 pounds of fat, and 861 pounds of protein, with a BAA of 106.

Melvin's herd is genetically sound, with five Blackstar daughters, and five Leadman daughters, including a Leadman from the Cola/Carmel family fresh at 3 years, and milking 143 pounds milk.

In addition, the farm has a "New York" style heifer raising facility.

Currently, the milk is being sold as milk, though the consultant, who was on hand said that organic milk buyers are growing, primarily in the cities. Melvin said he hopes to supply the niche market which pays more for milk.

Melvin said that he has a half dozen cows in his herd that he intends to breed for cow families, while others were brought in for milking.

"Eighteen years ago I started with Dunwood's Cola and a group from Maryland that I paid $350 each. They really milked. You want to be careful buying high-priced breeding stock," he advised.

Melvin also talked about the Cleitus daughters and the high production he has gotten from them.

SRBC Holds Hearing, Approves Projects

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Susquehanna River Basin Commission held its bi-monthly meeting on March 9 at the Radisson-Penn Harris Hotel and Convention Center, Camp Hill.

In addition to regular business activities, the Commission held a final public hearing on the non-consumptive use portion of the omnibus package of regulatory revisions, a rule making action of the Commission that has been pending since May 1994.

After reviewing the comments received at this hearing, the Commission will consider adoption of the non-consumptive use package at its May 1995 meeting.

Eight previous public hearings were held on the package during June and July of 1994. As a result of comments received at those hearings, the Commission decided to defer action on the portion of the proposed rules dealing with the consumptive use of water. The existing consumptive use regulation, found at 18 CFR §803.61, will be retained and a suspension of that regulation for agriculture will remain in effect.

The rule making package implements a number of much needed administrative and organizational improvements.

The package also contains new requirements for approval of new surface water takings in excess of 100,000 gpd and registration of water withdrawals in excess of 10,000 gpd.

Special efforts will be made during the next two months to work with the New York State Farm Bureau on its objections to the registration requirements.

In other meeting action, the Commission adopted a resolution supporting full funding of the Susquehanna River Basin Flood Forecast and Warning System often referred to as the "Susquehanna Initiative." The President's proposed budget contains $669,000 for the system, but about $1.3 million will be needed to maintain the system's viability.

The Commission also approved an application of J. Makowski Associates, Inc. for a natural gas storage project near Avoca, N.Y. The project will draw three million gallons per day (mgd) from ground water which will be used to solution-mine gas storage chambers from underlying salt formations.

As a condition of approval, the Commission imposed pumping restrictions to protect local streams during periods of low flow and other restrictions to protect existing well owners.

"Shrinking cow numbers and changes in demographics, not to mention decreasing milk prices, challenges the DHIA system we have known," Orner said. "There is little doubt that DHIA of the future will look somewhat different. The board and staff are taking a leadership role in moving toward the future. We are trying to be proactive rather than reactive.

"The organization has downsized. Cost cutting measures have had an impact on the bottom line. The reality is Pennsylvania DHIA has done a lot of things right; however, we must continue to do all that we can to shape our future. Let us work together to prepare our cooperative for the dairy industry of tomorrow," Orner said.

David Slusser, general manager, reported a number of cost cutting steps that have been taken this year. The downtown office was closed. Some staff positions were cut, and the membership development and laboratory manager positions were combined. In addition, the laboratory staff became Pennsylvania DHIA employees rather than university employees.

In other developments, Ted Brown was hired as director of finance and human resoruces, and all field technicians are now using laptop computers.

"The results of these changes improved our efficiency of operation without affecting the quality of service," Slusser said. Quality control reports from National DHIA maintained the same high standards that our lab, DRPC, and field service were always use to, and turn around time has improved."

Slusser said the fee structure changes to members last fall encouraged large numbers of members to switch to A/P testing and innovative test programs. Presently, about 25 percent of the association's members test their herds 2X and the remaining herds are on A/P or some other innovative program. This has led the association to reduce field staff mostly through attrition, thus improving efficiency. Indications are that cow numbers on test are holding if not improving, and the cash flow of the cooperative is positive and improving.

Brown gave the financial report saying that in the current year the financial picture is much improved. But past debts continue to weigh on the books of the association.

Jim Boyer, DRPC manager, said 1994 brought an extensive number of accomplishments for the data processing department. A major achievement was bringing all technicians online with laptop computers. Several programming systems were finalized, including a herd locating system, a problem tracking system, the interface to Westfalia's dairy plan, and Calf-ID exchange with the Jersey Cattle Club.

Dean Amick, field operations manager, said all technicians are sending information to the service center electronically, and dairymen can now receive reports via the dairy plan after each test. About 85 dairymen have switched to the new innovative programs offered by National DHIA. The association's Am/Pm program has attracted more than 70 percent of the members.

Receiving herd management awards at the Pennsylvania DHIA annual meeting last Friday in State College were Susan Kulp, herdsperson, Ardrossan Farms, Chester County, Ayrshires; Albin and Betty Wester, Wester Jersey Farm, Mercer County, Jerseys, and Harold and Joan Stump, Montgomery County, goats.

Dixie Burris, laboratory services and membership development manager, said members met the continued challenge of supporting their association programs despite the pressures of new technology, price of milk, social issues and family pressures, and the challenges of the day to day dairying.

The quality of the laboratory is working more efficiently with less people and less expense for the association. The lab runs six days per week with ten hour shifts. They average 235,751 samples per month.

Burris said the goal is to be efficient and effective in meeting the current needs of members but at the same time anticipate the future needs. "Communication is a two-way street," Burris said. "The challenge we are faced with is for you, the members of DHIA, to tell us how we can be of better service to you presently and in the future."

Exchange Needs Families

MANITOWOC, Wis.—American Intercultural Student Exchange, a non-profit, tax-exempt educational foundation, is looking for families for exchange students—people willing to share their home, time, love and family with a foreign teen.

As Americans, we are honored to live in a country that students from around the world are eager to visit. They attend high school for 10 months while living with an American family. They study our government and political systems and take their first-hand knowledge back to their home country to share with their peers, teachers, and families. Their lives will never be the same after living in America.

Pa. Farm Bureau Members Talk To Washington Legislators

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The leader of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau this week urged Pennsylvania's congressmen and U.S. senators to support bills aimed at protecting property rights from government intrusion and stopping costly and unnecessary regulations.

Keith Eckel, president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, spoke about concerns during a breakfast meeting with lawmakers and about 200 farmers participating in Pennsylvania Farm Bureau's Washington Legislative Tour held March 15-16. The farmers had visited their congressmen and senators the day before to convey Farm Bureau's position on regulatory reform and other issues affecting agriculture.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is a voluntary farm organization which represents 26,167 member families in 54 county units. It is affiliated with the nation's largest general farm organization, the 4.4-million member American Farm Bureau Federation.

"American Farm Bureau estimates that compliance with federal regulations is costing farmers from $18 to $20 billion dollars a year," Eckel told the lawmakers. "That's 3.5 percent of our net income . . . and does not include the cost of state regulations." Eckel said 55 different sets of laws and regulations have been identified at the federal level with which farmers must now be in compliance.

"What does Farm Bureau want from Congress?" Eckel asked. "First, we want you to hold some field hearings out where we live, not in Washington, D.C. We want you to learn from ordinary citizens who cannot afford to come to Washington to tell you how they've been smothered by excessive regulations."

Farm Bureau is urging passage of H.R. 450 which would put a moratorium on new regulations except those affecting human health and safety. While regulations are on hold, Congress should undertake real regulatory reform, Eckel said. "We need to apply a cost/benefit analysis to regulations, to make sure that the cost of a regulation to government and business does not vastly exceed any benefits it would provide. We also need the use of good science on regulations proposed to reduce risks to make sure the dangers being prevented are real and not hypothetical."

In addition, Eckel said, "We also must have built-in protection for private property rights in any regulations coming out of Washington. Finally, the federal government has to redirect its policy from the overuse of the regulatory 'stick' in reaching goals to the use of the 'carrot' of incentives for agriculture and private industry."

Eckel also voiced support for legislation aimed at protecting property rights "The Fifth Amendment's 'takings' clause, based on James Madison's belief that property rights are fundamental and inviolable, bars the government from taking private property 'without just compensation'," Eckel said. Recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings, such as Lucas v. South Carolina Coastal Council and Dolan v. City of Tigard, have made the high court an ally of property rights advocates. "The Supreme Court is saying that governments cannot ride roughshod over property owners," Eckel said.

"Yet," he added, "with the advent of extensive environmental regulation in the past two decades, regulators and the lower courts have increasingly abandoned the principal that property owners have the fundamental right to use and pursue profit from their land, absent harm to others."

Farm Bureau is supporting property rights protecion legislation which was recently passed by the House H.R. 925, approved on March 3 by a vote of 277-148, would require federal agencies to compensate private property owners for federal actions that reduce the value of any section of their property by 20 percent or more. Compensation would not be required if the regulatory action was undertaken to protect the public health or safety, to prevent damage to other specific property, or the federal action was in agreement with state law.

Eckel also expressed disappointment over the defeat of the balanced budget amendment in the Senate, even though both senators Specter and Santorum supported the measure. Farm Bureau strongly believes Congress must take action to balance the federal budget.

The budget should be balanced through spending restraints and cutbacks — not tax hikes. All programs, including all entitlements, should be considered for spending controls.

"Yes, these are exciting times," Eckel told the lawmakers. "There are some really tough decisions facing us. Your vote is sought. We want you to support us. We look forward to working with you."

USDA Names Oertly Pa. State Conservationist

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Janet Oertly, originally of Pennsylvania, has returned to take the top job in the state office of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS).

Formerly called the USDA Soil Conservation Service, the agency was renamed after reorganization of the USDA in the fall. The name change was also made to better reflect the mission of the agency, and the fact that several programs were transferred to its purview, including the USDA Wetlands Reserve Program and the Forest Stewardship Program.

Oertly, originally from Johnsonburg, in Elk County, has been named to be the next state conservationist — a new title for the top administrative position for the NRCS.

The position was left vacant with the January retirement of Richard Duncan, who retired from the agency after 32 years, serving six years as its chief.

In her new position, Oertly is to oversee the agency which employs about 200 people and which has a main office in Harrisburg, four regional offices and 70 field and special project offices.

She began her career in 1979 as a soil scientist in Faulkton S.D., after receiving a bachelor's degree in geology from Thiel College, in Greenville, and a master's degree in agronomy from Penn State University.

She worked as a soil scientist in various locations in South Dakota, and then headed east to Maryland with a promotion to area conservationist. Another career advancement came with a move to the Midwest to Indiana where she became a district conservationist.

She was promoted again in the meantime to her current position as an area conservationist, a post she will leave to take the Pennsylvania state conservationist job on March 20.

ting tools and interaction of the seminar participants.

The second result of the first forum has been the organization of a professional dairy farm managers group to exchange ideas and develop skills. To date, the group is small and loosely organized. But plans call for expansion of the group as direction is established.

Since the objective of the original Pennsylvania Dairy Industry Future Committee was to encompass the entire dairy industry from farm to consumer, suggestions for the second forum indicate the need to focus on consumer needs and the limits that may prevent manufacturing plants and distribution systems to function in the Commonwealth. The final direction of the forum is still to be decided, but it can be said that everyone agreed the forum must conclude with action goals for the next year or there will be no third forum. Work is being done to arrange the forum at the same time the new dairy research facility at Penn State is dedicated.

Various topics were discussed at the planning meeting this week, all related to the concern that the dairy industry may not remain a viable enterprise in Pennsylvania even in the near future.

Of course, the usual concerns about the diminishing number of farms and the cost/price squeeze to the farmer were expressed. The old line about producers becoming more efficient has about run its course in many farmers' minds. Many believe they are already about as efficient as they can get.

But the concern reaches deep into the distribution chain as well. Right now, a major supermarket chain is faced with changing state regulations that may force it to buy milk outside of Pennsylvania to meet competition.

Many such questions remain:

- "Why can supermarket chains buy milk cheaper outside of Pennsylvania?.
- "Why don't manufacturing plants want to build in Pennsylvania?"
- "Who speaks for Pennsylvania's dairy industry when a united voice is necessary to attract industry or develop markets?"

In the end, there was a lot of impatience with just talking. It's time for action to bring all segments of the dairy industry and maybe even other enterprises into a united front for Pennsylvania agriculture. Action! Now! Immediately!

And the next action will be a forum in June at Penn State to decide what next action to take.

Lebanon Holstein To Tour Somerset County

NEWMANSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Holstein Club has scheduled its 1995 farm tour to be held March 28 for a visit of Somerset County farms.

Somerset County has a number of registered Holstein herds on test, and is a strong dairy county, located in southwestern part of the state. The northern border is just below Johnstown, while the southern edge of the county is the Mason-Dixon Line.

The cost of the tour is $18 each, with a half-price discount for all consignors to last year's county Holstein sale. Also, additional money will be needed to buy lunch during a scheduled stop. The deadline for reservations is March 23 for a seat on the bus tour. To reserve a seat, call Kirby Horst at (717) 949-2331.

There are two departure points, as a locational convenience for tour-goers. The schedule for the all-day, four-farm tour is to leave from the D.B. Fisher Bus Service, at 1715 Grace Avenue, Lebanon, at 7:30 a.m., and then stop at the Quentin UCC Church parking lot about 7:45 a.m. to pickup up other passengers.

When calling for reservations, tell Horst which pickup location has been determined to be more convenient.

The first farm to be visited, with arrival at about 11:15 a.m., is Carrdale Holsteins, of Somerset. Owned by Gerald Carr and family, there are four farms included in the operation, with 350 acres.

There are 90 registered Holsteins in the milking string, and the herd was 10th in the county last year for production, out of 81 herds listed for the county in the Dairymen's Association 1995 Yearbook. The Carrdale herd had a rolling herd average (RHA) of 22,799 pounds of milk.

The herd's current RHA is 22,700 pounds of milk, 867 pounds of butterfat and 736 pounds of protein.

The Carrs have a BAA of 106.4, and their strategy is to breed for solid cow families, with little index. There are 15 Blackstar daughters and some Mascot daughters in the milking string.

A lunch stop is scheduled for 12:15 p.m.

The next farm to be visited is Hillmont Holsteins, with a scheduled arrival of 1:30 p.m.

Hillmont Holsteins, in Berlin, is owned by Jay and Kirk Hillegass, and consists of 300 acres with 120 in corn and the rest in alfalfa and grass. The 110-cow herd has an RHA of 22,234 pounds milk, 853 pounds fat, and 728 pounds protein. The BAA is 103.7.

Another top herd, it features Hillmont Enhancer Peach, a fourth generation Excellent Gold Medal Dam, with many family members in the herd.

At 2:30 p.m., the tour is to arrive at Berkline Holsteins, owned by Lewis and Barbara Berkley. With an all-registered Holstein 70-cow herd with a BAA of 105.5, the production is reported at 23,400 pounds of milk, 934 pounds butterfat, and 770 pounds protein. There are eight Mascot daughters milking in the herd.

The Berkleys also conduct an active flushing program and have sold 50 bulls into stud for artificial insemination. They have 620 acres, 300 tillable, and they rent another 150 acres.

North View Farm, in Berlin, is the last stop of the day with an estimated arrival at 3:30 p.m.

The top herd on test in the county, North View is owned by Calvin Will and sons Dan, Jim and John. With 110 cows milking, and operating on a milking three-times-per day schedule for 10 years, the farm RHA is currently 27,933 pounds milk, 971 pounds butterfat, 923 pounds protein.

The herd BAA is 104.9, and there are several Blackstar daughters included. The Wills also have an active flushing program.

The tour bus is scheduled to leave North View at 4:30 p.m., and arrive back at the D.B. Fisher Bus Service lot at 7:30 p.m., stopping first at the Quentin UCC Church.

For more information, call Horst.

Also announced by the Lebanon Holstein Club, consignments are being sought for the county Spring Promise Calf Sale, to be held 7:30 p.m., April 13, at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds.

Those with consignments should contact Horst, Dale Maulfair, or Pat Arnold as soon as possible.

The club also offered its appreciation for the work of three recent directors — Marlin Getz, Dan Groff, and David Lentz — and announced reorganization.

Duane Nolt is president; Bruce Bollinger, vice president; Dan Brandt, treasurer; Nelson Bomgardner, secretary; and Mike Fair, reporter.

Other officers include Reid Hoover, state director; Kirby Horst, director; Donald Krall, director; Connie Hoffer, sales representative; and Vince Wagner, Profiles advertising.

Committee memberships were also announced.

On the club Show Committee, Nelson Bomgardner is chairman, with members Roy Miller and John Bomgardner.

On the Tour Committee is Kirby Horst, chairman, Jay Weaver, Dave Groff, and Vince Wagner.

On the Sale Committee are Dan Brandt, chairman, Marlin Getz, Mike Kunkle, Roy Miller, Gene Martin, Jeff Zuck, Chris Anderson, Pat Arnold, and Bruce Bollinger.

On the Field Night Committee are Mike Fair, chairman, Curvin Good, Gary Lentz, Dale Weaver, Rick Bashore, Christine Williams, Calvin Miller, and John Kline.

ADADC Celebrates 35 Years Of Dairy Promotion

LIVERPOOL, N.Y.—Over 200 dairy farmers came together last month to celebrate 35 years of dairy promotion at the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council's Annual Meeting at the Sheraton Inn, Liverpool, New York. Accomplishments of ADADC's retail, nutrition education and publicity divisions of 1994 were highlighted through a video presentation, showing producers the value in generic advertising and promotion.

To increase space and sales for dairy products in the dairy case, retail specialists worked with grocery stores representing 40 percent of sales in New York, northern and central New Jersey and northeastern Pennsylvania. Waldbaums, a 103-store chain in metropolitan New York, increased milk sales from six to nine percent after working with ADADC. The Association will continue to work with the following supermarket chains throughout 1995: Waldbaums, Wakefern/Shoprite, Price Chopper, King Kullen, C-Town, Pathmark and P&C.

The nutrition education division placed programs in elementary schools which teach students to choose nutritious foods like cheese, chocolate milk, yogurt and pudding for snacks. As a result of their efforts, 55 percent of fourth grade teachers and 43 percent of second grade teachers in ADADC's marketing area have ordered and are using the programs. Geared to the appropriate age level, both versions teach students the nutritional benefits of dairy products.

Throughout the year, Dairy Counci sponsors medical and nutrition seminars to teach health professionals the importance of dairy products in a healthy diet. In 1994, speakers reached more than 1,250 physicians, medical students and dietitians on the subjects of calcium, hypertension, lactose intolerance and children's health issues.

Last year, the publicity department generated 552 positive news articles on milk and dairy products worth over $275,000. In addition, they generated extensive television and radio news coverage on hot chocolate made with milk, milk shakes and milk's new advertising campaign.

Part of the publicity division, the dairy princess program generated 923 news articles on food publicity, special events and pageants worth over $236,000. The enthusiastic volunteers presented almost 2,000 school presentations to over 40,000 elementary students teaching them, at an impressionable age, the importance of milk and dairy products in a healthy diet. In addition, they recorded 1,990 radio and television public service announcements, demonstrated at 281 supermarkets and banks, presented at 112 non-farm and 238 farm meetings and participated in 1,088 special events.

The "Service to Dairying Award" was presented in memory of Bob Harrison, a former director and treasurer of ADADC. A lifetime dairy farmer, he held many leadership positions in the dairy and agricultural industries. His family of Skaneateles, New York accepted a plaque in his memory.

In his president's report, Ray Johnson spoke about both the national and local dairy promotion organizations' commitment to deliver efficient programming. At the national level, he cited the merger between United Dairy Industry Association and the National Dairy Board as evidence of cost savings to dairy farmers. Locally, he said, ADADC's board of directors has made decisions on programming which have streamlined the Association's goals resulting in a plan of action that focuses only on those programs which deliver the greatest return on investment to members.

ADADC is an advertising and promotion organization representing dairy farmers in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

MILK AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

"When we were looking for a milk market, we chose Atlantic Dairy Cooperative because of its financial stability. ADC is a progressive cooperative that concentrates on what it does best – marketing milk."
—John Mayer
Taneytown, MD

ADC Is the Place To Be

Financial stability and expertise in milk marketing – the outstanding benefits that John Mayer refers to – are among the strengths of the premier dairy cooperative in the region.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has a 78-year history of excellent service to its members. Financially strong, ADC guarantees a market for all member milk and excels in maximizing returns. ADC is a leader in providing equity payments, quality bonuses and over-order premiums to members.

Nearly 4,000 dairy farmers agree that "ADC is the Place to Be."

Farmers Sought For Direct Marketing Booklet

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Acting State Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius is inviting farmers who market their products directly to consumers to be included in a revised consumer's guide to Pennsylvania farm markets.

"Many people want to get agricultural products right from the producers, but they may not know where to find them," Brosius said. "This booklet helps to make both residents and visitors aware of the many products that are available directly from our producers."

To be included in the directory, farmers who sell their products directly to consumers must complete an information sheet describing the farm and the types of products that are sold. Farmers listed in the current guide have already been contacted by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture to obtain update information.

Farmers who sell directly to consumers and are not listed in the current edition of the directory should contact the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Division of Commodity Promotions at (717) 787-5086 to have a form mailed to them. The completed forms are due back to the Department by April 14.

A CLEAN START IN NO-TILL STARTS WITH ROUNDUP.

ECONOMICAL PRICE

- Roundup herbicide fits right in with the lower input costs of no-till farming.

BROAD-SPECTRUM PERFORMANCE

- Roundup controls over 100 different broadleaves and grasses.

RELIABLE RESULTS

- Thanks to its unique roots-and-shoots activity, Roundup works the first time ~ every time.

APPLICATION FLEXIBILITY

- Roundup lets you eliminate emerged weeds anytime before planting, at planting or after planting (but before crop emergence).
- Roundup can be tank-mixed with most residual herbicides and liquid nitrogen fertilizers.
- See us to discover how a clean start with Roundup herbicide can give you a head start to higher yields.

Eastern Awards 15 Scholarships

SYRACUSE, N.Y.—Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, based here, presented scholarships to 15 college and technical school students recently as part of its continuing commitment to serving its members' needs.

The scholarships were offered to students whose families were Eastern members or the employees of Eastern members.

Eastern offered 15 scholarships, one in each of its districts, plus four more in areas with unusually high application rates or quality. Current college students were eligible to apply for the $500 scholarships.

The winners were:

Matthew R. Close, Worcester, N.Y., a sophomore at Hartwick College, who is studying economics and environmental science. He is the son of Rich and Connie Mravlja.

Sheri Marie Degon, Malone, N.Y., a junior at Cornell University majoring in Natural Resources. She also works as a lab assitant in the dairy nutrition lab. She is the daughter of Donald and Angela Degon.

Patricia Elliott, Towanda, a junior at Mansfield University, who is majoring in special education. She also works as a volunteer with disabled children. She is the daughter of Thomas and Diane Elliott.

David Edward Gilbert, Rushford, N.Y., a senior at Bob Jones University studying pre-law. He is the son of Edward and Jane Gilbert.

Steven S. Haney, Franklin, N.Y., currently enrolled in the dairy production and management program at S.U.N.Y. Cobleskill. He is the son of Ben and Laura Haney.

Shippensburg University junior Jason Herr, Lancaster, who is majoring in public administration. He is the son of Donald and Linda Herr.

Lori Houser, Woodward, a second-year graduate student at the University of Delaware. She is enrolled in the masters of physical therapy program. Lori is the daughter of David and Cecelia Houser.

University of Vermont student Kathryn Montagne, St. Albans, Vt., who is studying professional nursing. She is the daughter of J. Frank and Annette Montagne.

Heather Dayle Paulhamus, Jersey Shore, who is a freshman at Messiah College, also majoring in nursing. Her parents are Stephen and Pamela Paulhamus.

Catherine Pirrung, Ulysses, who is a second year student in Utah State's Dairy Science program. She is the daughter of Gerald and Constance Pirrung.

Northeastern University student Jeremiah Rathbun, Bristol, Vt., is a freshman in mechanical engineering. He is the son of Allen and Helen Rathbun.

Robert Salak, Waymart, who is a freshman education major at Pennsylvania State University. He is the son of Donald and Christina Salak.

Justin Storrs, Williamstown, Vt., currently a freshman at the College of St. Joseph. He is the son of Gary and Susan Storrs.

Penn State sophomore Emily Weaver, Marble, who is majoring in microbiology. She is also employed by a Penn State plant pathology research laboratory. Emily is the daughter of Raymond and Karen Weaver.

Terry Widrick, Croghan, N.Y., a sophomore studying computer engineering at Clarkson University. He is the son of Arlon M. Widrick.

This is the fourth year that Eastern has offered scholarships to its cooperative members.

Eastern Milk Producers is a cooperative which markets nearly two billion pounds of milk each year for its 3,700 members throughout the Northeast.

NAFTA Should Help Improve Mexican Environmental Standards

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — For agriculture, the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) should eventually improve environmental standards in Mexico, rather than pull down environmental standards in the United States, according to a Penn State expert.

"Environmental groups fear that, because of NAFTA, fruit and vegetable production will be transferred from the United States, where standards on the handling and application of pesticides are strict, to Mexico, where they are weak," said Dr. David G. Abler, associate professor of rural sociology and agricultural economics.

"But by promoting job growth and raising per capita income in Mexico, NAFTA will give the Mexican government incentive to upgrade environmental quality in that country."

A developing country with per capita income below $4,000-$5,000 will spend little on environmental protection and carry out few effective environmental policies. The result is often extensive air and water pollution, as well as deforestation.

"Without question, the environment is valued far more in the United States than in Mexico or any other developing country," Abler said. "The first concern for developing nations is economic survival. For them, the environment is a luxury good.

"However, once the economy improves, things change very quickly," he said. "Environmental problems such as water pollution, inadequate sanitation and most types of air pollution all diminish rapidly as per capita income increases.

"The explanation is that only wealthy countries like the United States can afford to devote scarce resources to environmental protection. Poorer countries like Mexico have other priorities that they perceive as more important."

Fortunately for Mexico, it is close to reaching a per capita income level of $4,000-$5,000. If the average income continues to rise, then it is logical to assume that water and air pollution will be less prevalent as public attitudes and policy change, says Abler.

"Americans have to remember what environmental conditions were like in this country in the 1930s and 1940s, when average incomes were far less than those of today," he said. "Most of the key legislation protecting the environment dates from the 1960s and 1970s."

The Penn State professor is author of the article, "NAFTA, Agriculture and the Environment," which appeared in the University of Tulsa Law Journal.

"Pesticide application practices in Mexico have often been critized and justifiably so," Abler said. "There are few Mexican regulations on pesticide handling and use, and those that do exist are widely ignored." Mexican workers hardly ever wear protective gear and are rarely given safety information. They generally cannot understand the information that they do receive because they are illiterate or the information is printed in English. There are no official statistics on pesticide poisonings in Mexico, which reflects the low priority assigned by the government to this problem.

"NAFTA will not affect U.S. environmental practices, which are governed by regulations already in place," Abler said. "In addition, Mexican and U.S. standards for pesticide residues on fruits and vegetables are largely in agreement, and NAFTA calls for elimination of the few remaining differences.

"The positive side to this is that unskilled farm workers in Mexico may well find better employment opportunities elsewhere, or opportunities for acquiring skills that would lead to better jobs," he said.

Either of these scenarios would improve the negotiating position of those who remained farm workers, making the unenviable choice between health and a job unnecessary.

"Some environmentalists maintain that the environment is unique and irreplaceable, and therefore no price can be or should be assigned to it," Abler said. "This argument is typically used against policies that trade off environmental objectives against economic interests, such as the 1992 controversy surrounding logging in the American West and the spotted owl. The argument has no merit, however, because, if taken literally, it would make daily living impossible."

FMC To Build New Herbicide Plant

PHILADELPHIA — A new family of herbicides will be produced in a new state-of-the-art facility that will cost FMC Corporation an estimated $88 million to complete by mid-1996.

The FMC Corporation board of directors recently approved the investment which will dramatically expand operations at the company's Baltimore, Maryland plant. FMC is a leading supplier of crop protection products worldwide, and has announced a commitment to expand the Agricultural Chemical Group's portfolio of products during the next few years.

"The new plant will produce a new family of herbicides with unique properties to provide farmers with safe, effective and more convenient ways to control troublesome weeds," says Robert N. Burt, FMC Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer. "Growth within the Agricultural Chemical Group is being supported wholeheartedly by the FMC board of directors, and we look forward to introducing products that meet the needs of today's farmers."

He also notes, "Expansion at the Baltimore site should increase employment by 30 to 40 persons once the production facility is at full capacity."

Plans are that the first new herbicide to be manufactured at the plant will be Authority™, a new broad-spectrum preemergent herbicide for control of weeds in soybean fields. Authority has yet to be registered for sale. FMC earlier this fall submitted the registration package for Authority to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

"We expect the new manufacturing plant to be completed by July 1996, in time to supply product for the 1997 soybean-growing season. Site preparation is already well under way," says Bill Schumann, Director North American Agricultural Chemical Group.

"Authority is a preemergent soybean herbicide that is mainly taken up by the weed's root system. In weeds, it disrupts an enzyme system critical to the production of chlorophyll," explains Sid McDaniel, North American Development Manager for FMC Agricultural Chemical Group. "It will be an important addition to the arsenal of products that farmers have available to fight weeds because it has a different mode of action to kill weeds than products which are now widely used in soybean fields." He notes that the herbicide is highly active against morninglories, nutsedges, nightshade, pigweeds, cocklebur, smartweed, lambsquarters, barnyard grass, crabgrass, fall panicum and many other weeds.

Research On Stream Crossings May Be Bridge To Better Forestry

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Conventional wisdom might suggest that placing a portable bridge over a stream or installing a culvert in a creek might have significant impacts on stream ecology, but a study at Penn State has found that correctly built stream crossings have little short- or long-term effect on streams and wetlands.

According to David DeWalle, professor of forest hydrology in the College of Agricultural Sciences' School of Forest Resources, portable bridges caused less stream sedimentation than culverts during installation, but during actual use there were no important differences between the two types of crossings.

Loggers often encounter streams when building roads or skid-trails. Streams are obstacles that must be crossed to get logs from the cutting site to a landing area, where they are loaded onto trucks and transported to lumber mills. In Pennsylvania, De Walle said loggers are required to get a permit to cross streams, which means they have to install a culvert or build a bridge. Culverts — large pipes covered by clean rock fill — are most common.

Historically, culverts have made good crossings. A previous Penn State study examined 70 crossing sites that had not been in use for at least two years and found few detectable long-term impacts.

"We never really saw any erosion," DeWalle said. "After at least two years, channel stability, stream bank stability, species diversity and abundance of vegetation remained the same above and below the crossings."

The researchers, funded by the National Council of the Pulp and Paper Industry for Air and Stream Improvement, then built test crossings in Penn State's Stone Valley Experimental Forest in Huntingdon and on land owned by Glatfelter Pulp Wood Company in Fulton County to study the potential short-term impacts on water quality. Building test culverts caused significant sediment increases in the stream, but water quality returned to normal after periods ranging from several hours to four days.

"The short-term installation impacts are negligible at low stream flows," DeWalle said. "After construction, it was hard to find any effects caused by the installation. We subsequently took readings at high-flow periods and there was only minor degradation.

"The use of local soil and rock as fill is not recommended," DeWalle said. "Clean gravel or shale, which can be difficult to haul to a stream crossing, should be used."

The portable bridge tested by the researchers had less environmental impact during installation than a typical culvert. The bridge, which weighs from 7 to 24 tons depending on its size, can be hauled to the crossing by tractor and be installed in a few hours. The bridge model tested folded in half lengthwise, had guardrails to keep logs from slipping off and could be hauled by a standard logging truck.

"Any changes to the stream caused by installation of the portable bridge disappeared within 24 hours," DeWalle said. "The portable bridge caused less disturbance since its installation doesn't require digging in the channel. In addition, the bridge can be used over and over again."

Openings in the bridge decking did allow organic debris and mud to fall into the stream during use, but such impacts had little significant effect on stream ecology.

"Using a portable bridge is probably good business for the logger because it saves on equipment, it's re-usable, and it's better for the environment in the long run," DeWalle said.

Association To Conduct Beef Quality Assurance Program

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.)—The public is demanding a safe food supply. It is our responsibility to provide it to them. Consumer confidence in our beef product is one of the most valuable assets for a beef producer. By proper management at all levels of production, we can gain the trust of consumers and enhance and expand on those assets.

To assist local beef producers, the Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association is conducting a Beef Quality Assurance educational program, with the opportunity for producers to become certified.

On Thursday, March 23 at 7 p.m. at New Bolton Center Kennett Square, Chet Hughes, Lancaster County extension agent, is going to present the classroom portion of the program. Hughes will discuss beef quality issues such as food safety, proper vaccine handling and administration, as well as proper animal restraint and handling.

The classroom portion will be followed by a hands-on practice session on Saturday, March 25 at Herr Angus Farm Nottingham. The hands-on will cement what is learned in the classroom. Both portions must be attended if you wish to receive certification.

Anyone involved in any portion of the beef industry is welcome. Reservations will be needed for the Saturday, March 25 hands-on portion. For information or reservation, contact Bobbi McMullen, Secretary, Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association, (717) 548-3282.

Beauty For Ashes Arises At Caernarvon Farm

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MORGANTOWN (Berks Co.) — Hanging on a beautiful stone wall in Lucille and Andrew Stoltzfus' home is a plaque with the words, "Beauty for Ashes," carved into it.

The oak plaque is a reminder that one year ago, ashes and a fire-damaged shell was all that remained of the landmark house that had been built in 1785.

The damage was so extensive and the job looked so overwhelming that many people advised the Stoltzfus' to bulldoze down the shell and built a new home on their Caernarvon Farm.

"I guess we were too attached to it, to do that," Lucille said of the house that had been in Andy's family for generations.

Instead, the Stoltzfuses with the help of neighbors and friends rebuilt the home with its wide windowsills and unique drawers inserted in the walls.

Although the home is beautiful, it has not been restored to its former stateliness with its three-story mansard roof, gables, and plaster hand-carved medallions and wide crown moldings in every high-ceilinged room.

"It would have cost a fortunate to rebuilt it exactly as it was," Lucille said.

It is said that when the 1785 house was reconstructed in 1845, many extras features were added to the house in order to provide employment to those in the area.

"Although we loved it the way it was, there are things we like about this one, too," Lucille said.

Hence, the plaque with its words "Beauty for Ashes," remind the Stoltfuses and their visitors to look at the positive outcome of the fire instead of mourning the home's former beauty.

The plaque itself hangs on an original stone wall that previously had been covered with plaster. It wasn't exposed until the fire burned away layers of plaster. A stone mason said that it is the most beautiful stone he has ever seen.

Other positive feature include a light, airy, and spacious kitchen, which had been shaded from an enclosed porch. Also, a few indoor walls were eliminated, which allows for larger rooms when entertaining company.

The Feb. 10, 1994 fire originated in the attached garage. That was the morning that the family had difficulty starting one of their cars. A battery charger was used and the car engine was allowed to idle. When the car ignition was turned off, the engine continued to sputter.

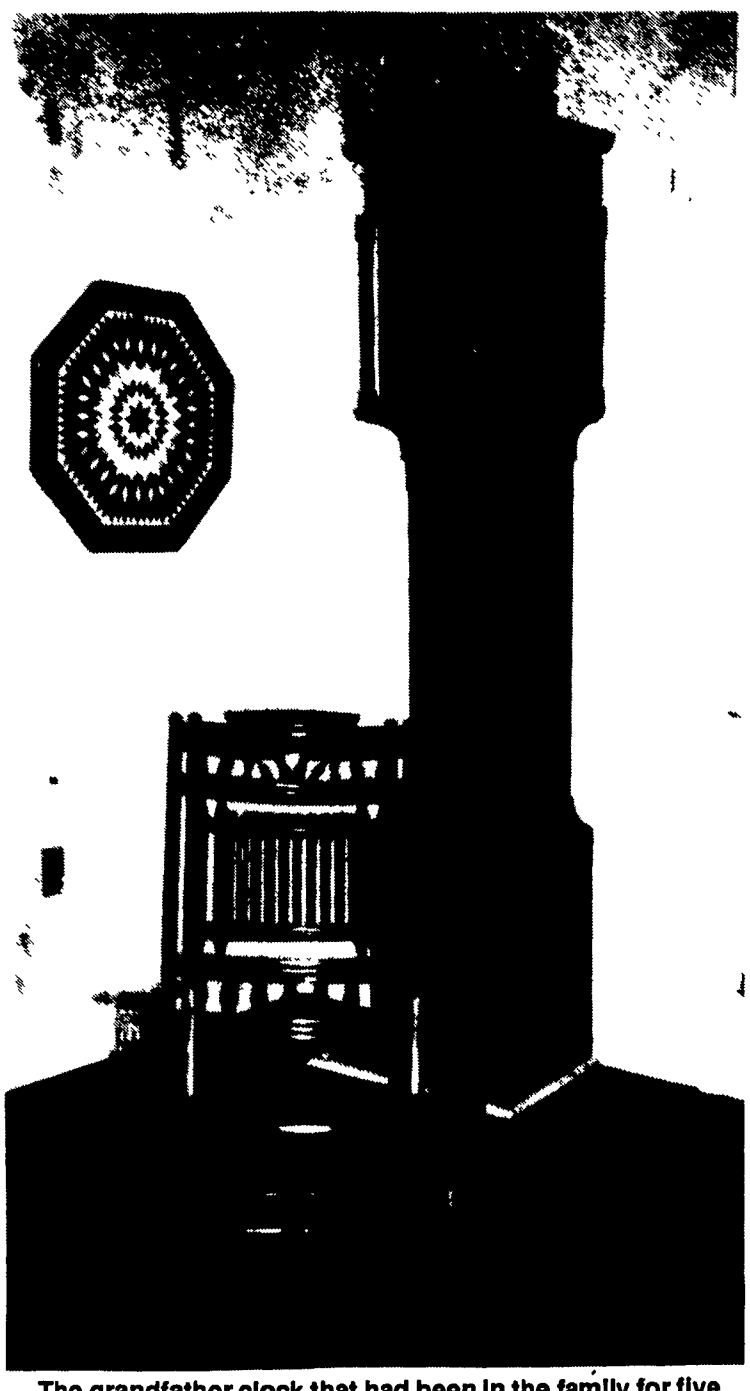
Lucille thought it was unusual for the car to do that, but she remembered that one of their former trucks always sputtered along after the key was removed but soon stopped.

Lucille and Andy Stoltzfus concentrate on the beauty that resulted from the fire that destroyed their home and not on the things they lost. This stone wall between their kitchen and dining room was exposed after fire burned away its layers of plaster.

Muriel Mack is content to be settled into her own apartment that was rebuilt after the fire. At 81-years of age, the fire is one of the most terrifying experiences of her life.

Because Andy was gone for the day and Lucille was in charge of feeding the calves, she hurried to the barn to feed a new-born calf. When she returned about 3 minutes later, she peeped into th garage to check on things.

(Turn to Page B4)



The grandfather clock that had been in the family for five generations and this antique rocking chair were rescued from the fire.

Homestead Notes

Be Prepared For Fire

Ten years ago, the historical barn and three other buildings on the Stoltzfus property were destroyed by fire.

After living through two fires, the Stoltzfuses have some advice to fellow farmers: Make sure your insurance is continually updated and know exactly what it will cover.

Lucille said that they thought they had plenty on the house, but it was not enough to restore it to its original look. They did find their insurance company easy to work with unlike some horror stories they have heard from acquaintances.

After the barn fire, the Stoltzfus family kept two sets of records, one in the barn and the other in the house. But the night before the house fire, the barn records had been brought into the house to recopy onto the records stored in the house. Lucille and Andy worked until after 11 p.m., and then closed the books, planning to continue the work the next evening.

Unfortunately, when the fire began the next day, Lucille did not remember to save the records.

Although all the animals and equipment had been saved in the barn fire, insurance coverage did not nearly cover the hugh losses to the buildings.

"We had never had a mortgage but to rebuild the barn, we needed to take out one. It was a devastating time for my husband," she said.

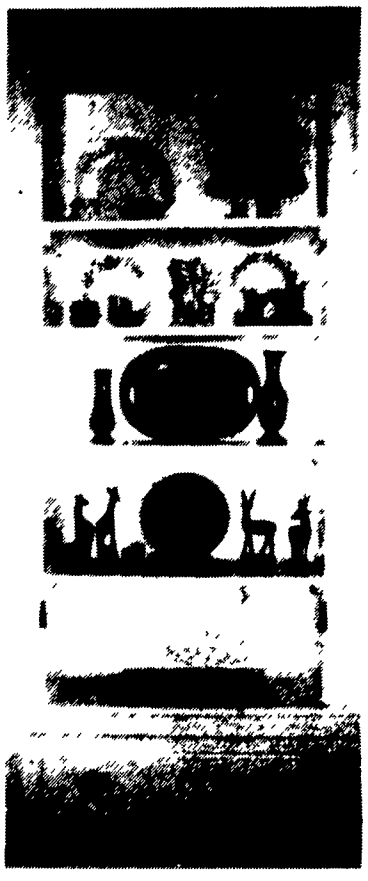
To her horror, flames were shooting inside the car. Lucille grabbed a large nearby fire extinguisher and sprayed until the contents were empty.

The fire seemed to be completely distinguished and Lucille signed with relief, "That was a close call."

No sooner had she breathed those words than the whole car burst into flames.

Lucille called the fire company, but within minutes an explosion rocked the garage, blew out the kitchen windows, and the house filled with boiling black smoke.

Lucille shut the doors that separated the addition from the original stone structure.



Although everything seemed destroyed at first glance. These shelves and drawer built into a wall remained standing. Inside the drawer were many photographs protected from the fire. It took a lot of scraping and sanding to restore the fire-ravaged wood, but it's a feature its historic beauty.

She grabbed her 81-year-old widowed mother, Muriel Mack, who lives with them. Lucille begged her to stay outside while she tried to rescue some heirlooms from the smoke-filled house.

"It was wicked weather with ice, snow, and wind," Lucille said. "And I had difficulty carrying things outside."

It was also difficult to think what should be saved first. If she had been able to think clearly, she said that she would have saved the registration papers kept on their purebred herd and embryo transplants. But, she didn't. And, years of careful record-keeping on the well-known Caenarvon Farms herd were destroyed in the fire.

A hired man working in the barn helped Lucille carry out an antique rocker and a grandfather's clock that had been in the family for five generations.

Then Lucille noticed her mother was no longer outside. Frantically Lucille screamed for her mother as she searched throughout the smoke-filled rooms on her mother's side of the house. She found her with her arms filled with clothes. In their terror to find their way through the dense smoke, the clothes were dropped.

Lucille placed her mother into a parked vehicle near the barn. By this time, it was too dangerous to enter the house that was completed engulfed in flames when the fire company arrived.

Fire fighters had a difficult time fighting the blaze because fire crept between the open spaces between the old structure and the four additions. The roof caved in and made it even more dangerous for fire fighters.

Not only was the house destroyed, but a spacious family-room in the basement ended up with 60,000 gallons of water poured into it. Before the fire, the basement room was considered the most beautiful part of the old house and the most live-in area. It has not been rebuilt, but an old hutch and many old dishes that were kept in the basement were able to be salvaged.

"Friends washed and washed to removed the smoke and grime from those pieces," Lucille said.

Some quilts and clothing in chests were blackened by smoke but otherwise intact. Much of this was professionally cleaned, but friends did wash and rewash items for days to remove the smoke damage.

The framed original deed was scorched but was able to be reframed and now hangs in the hallway.

A friend also sorted through the debris to salvage many old framed photographs and pictures. Although many still show smoke and water damage, it only adds an aged look to the portraits.

The former kitchen with its old barn beams had been only 12 years old when the fire destroyed it. Although Lucille regretted that the old beams were destroyed by the fire, the Stoltzfuses were pleased that they had valuable old chestnut wood stored in a barn. This wood was used to build cupboards and wainscoating for Andy's office.

Before the fire, the family had painstakingly remodeled the house room by room until the last room was completed. The Victorian-style house had wall papered rooms.

"But I'm learning to like plain walls," Lucille said of the painted dry wall.

"Another good thing that came from the fire," Lucille said with a twinkle in her eye, "was that it got rid of a lot of junk that several generations had accumulated over the years."

Andy had been born in the house that was passed down through his side of the family. The dairy farm sets on 120 acres and adjoins the farm where his brother lives. Caernarvon Farms is known for raising genetic-purebred cattle where they do a lot of flushing embryo work. Many of the embryos have been sold to Japan, France, England and other countries. The records destroyed during the fire were painstakingly reconstructed by researching records kept by DHIA and several dairy organizations.

These bay windows reflect the Victorian style of the home that was originally built in 1785 and reconstructed in 1845 and again in 1994.

While many unique family heirlooms were lost in the blaze, Lucille said, "To me, things are only things."

"Our greatest blessing still exists," Lucille said in reference to their four adult children and seven grandchildren. "We have four of the nicest kids and the most special in-laws in the world. We couldn't have picked nicer ones if we had chosen them ourselves.

"More important than things is family, friends, and so many people in the community who rallied around us during this difficult time."

Immediately after the fire, a sister-in-law set up a schedule to

Ostrich, Emu Seminar

MATAMORAS (Dauphin Co.) — The Northeast Ratite Association (NERA) will be holding its Spring Seminar titled, Emu-Ostrich-Rhea: Profits and Products for Today and Tomorrow on April 22 and 23 at the Best Western Inn at Hunts Landing in Matamoras.

The U.S. has been sporadically ranching these flightless birds since the late 1800s but in the last 10 years enterprising Americans have joined the fever in large numbers and the public's general knowledge of ratites is growing.

Today the ratite industry is growing rapidly attracting passive and active investors alike as well as providing a diversified agriculture for the U.S. Ratite products are slowly trickling down into mainstream America. For instance, the ratites' red meat looks and tastes like beef but with lower fat and cholesterol than turkey. The premium leather products are durable and exotic and are in much demand throughout Europe and the U.S. Emu oil, although not new to the Australians, is the revolutionary new product in the U.S. that is being researched for use in cosmetics and pharmaceuticals.

Keynote speaker will be John A. Crawford, managing editor of the Ostrich News Magazine and managing director of the Ratite Research Foundation. Other speakers will include Alan Strickland, noted pharmacist, Michael Reeves, general manager of Outback Secrets, Vern Brackett of Creole Bird Ranch, and Kenneth Copans, C.P.A.

On-site pre-registration will begin April 22 at 6:30 p.m. followed by a social gathering and cash bar at 7:30 p.m. for registered attendees. Ostrich, Emu and Rhea meat will be served.

Registration will open at 7:30 a.m. on April 23. The seminar runs from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., with lunch being served from 12 - 1. Lunch is included.

If you pre-register off-site there is a substantial savings. For registration information please call (914) 986-6925. Pre-registration seminar fees are $50 for members and $60 for non-members.

Vendor tables will be open at 8 a.m. on April 23. There will be a silent auction available during the seminar. Please call (914) 482-5083 to reserve a vendor table or donate an item to the silent auction. Vendor tables are $25 plus a donation to the silent auction of an item with a value of $25 or more.

The Best Western Inn has blocked a number of rooms for seminar participants. Please reserve your rooms early as there are few other accommodations in the area. Mention that you are with the seminar and you will get a discount room rate. Call (717) 491-2400 to make your reservations.

For more information about the Northeast Ratite Association and/or the Spring Seminar, contact Ann and Bill Cissel, 182 Elbow Lane, Elkton, MD 21921. (610) 255-5191 Pennsylvania, (410) 398-2432 Maryland.

Beauty For Ashes

involve volunteers to supply meals and serve them to the hundreds of people during the clean up and rebuilding phrase.

While the actual fire is terrifying enough, it's the uprooting from a normal day-to-day living that is most exhausting.

A neighbor offered a rent-free house to them during the rebuilding. They used a snowmobile to travel across the treacherous snow and ice-covered fields to care for the dairy herd on their farm.

Many friends, churches, and the community brought furniture, housewares, and donated money toward rebuilding.

"It was a hodge podge of things. When you're without anything, you aren't picky. You're just glad for every piece donated."

Lucille continually remarked on the helpfulness of neighbors and friends during the clean up and rebuilding. She and her husband were amazed by the outpouring of help.

"I was better dressed after the fire than I ever was in my life," Lucille said.

She owes that to a friend who wears the same size clothing. This friend gave — not loaned — her best clothing to Lucille.

"She didn't give me partially worn out clothing but her newly-purchased wardrobe," Lucille said.

Spring and summer brought a host of outdoor work in addition to the rebuilding and farm work.

A family came and hoed their garden, pulled weeds, roto-tillered the soil.

"It was such a boost to have someone do the outside work," Lucille said.

"We are blessed to be part of a wonderful, unselfish community. It was a devastating experience and loss. I can't pretend that it wasn't stressful financially and physically, but the support of the community, of churches, of individuals, was such an encouragement. We could not have rebuilt without the help of so many people. We are tremendously blessed and can never repay the community for all they've done."

Eight months after the fire, the Stoltzfuses held an open house for all people who helped in a multitude of ways.

Cooking With Barley

Barley is a wholesome grain loaded with carbohydrates, contains very little fat, and is cholesterol free. Like other whole grains, barley is a rich source of soluble and insoluble dietary fiber. Laboratory studies show that the insoluble fiber found in barley can be extremely effective in maintaining regularity and in helping to reduce certain types of cancer. Barley can help lower blood cholesterol levels and reduce the risk of heart disease.

To cook barley: Bring 1 cup regular pearl barley and 3 cups water or other cooking liquid to a boil. Reduce heat to low, cover, and cook 45 minutes or until barley is tender and liquid is absorbed. Makes about 3½ cups. Note: Quick cooking barley requires only 10 to 12 minutes cooking time.

Barley may be cooked in advance and frozen in 1-cup containers. Just before serving, defrost in microwave for about 2 to 2½ minutes on high.

For a free recipe brochure featuring pearl barley, send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to the National Barley Foods Council, W. 905 Riverside, Suite 501, Spokane, WA 99201.

BEEF 'N BARLEY SOUP

2 pounds lean ground beef
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 cups diced carrots
2 cups diced onion
2 cups diced celery
2 cloves garlic, minced
3 cups cooked pearl barley
8 cups beef broth
2 14-16-ounce cans Italian-style stewed tomatoes
½ cup red wine
1 teaspoon thyme
Salt and pepper, to taste
¼ cup minced fresh parsley
Sour cream, optional

In Dutch oven, cook ground beef over medium-high heat until browned, breaking up with fork. Remove meat from pan and set aside. Add oil, carrots, onion, and celery to pot; cook about 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Add beef and remaining ingredients except parsley and sour cream. Bring to boil; reduce heat, cover and simmer 20 minutes. Stir in parsley just before serving. Spoon a dollop of sour cream atop each serving, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

HARVEST BARLEY MEDLEY

2 tablespoons olive oil
¾ cup pearl barley
1 large onion, sliced, separated into rings
1 clove garlic, minced
2 cups chicken or beef broth
2 large tomatoes, cut into wedges
2 large carrots, sliced
1 medium green sweet pepper, cut into 1-inch strips
1 medium zucchini, sliced
1 cup cauliflower florets
1 cup broccoli florets
10-ounces frozen peas
1 teaspoon Italian herbs
Salt and pepper, to taste

Heat oil in large skillet. Add barley, onion rings, and garlic. Saute over medium heat about 5 minutes or until barley and onions are golden. Add broth; cover and cook 30 minutes longer or until barley is partially cooked, stirring occasionally. Add remaining ingredients; cover and continue to cook 15 minutes or until vegetables and barley are tender. Adjust seasonings. Makes 6 servings.

BARLEY CHEESE TIMBALES

1 cup pearl barley
3 cups chicken broth
⅓ cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper
10-ounce package frozen broccoli, thawed and drained
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups milk
1½ cups grated Cheddar cheese

Place barley, chicken broth, onion and butter in saucepan. Bring to boil. Cover, reduce heat to low and cook 45 minutes or until barley is tender and liquid is absorbed. Combine cooked barley with broccoli, ½ teaspoon salt, pepper to taste, eggs, milk, and cheese; mix well. Spoon mixture into 6 oiled 8-ounce custard cups. Place cups in a shallow pan of water. Bake at 325 degrees for about 45 minutes or until set. Unmold timbales onto serving plates. Serve with fresh tomato salsa or warm tomato cream sauce, if desired. Makes 6 srvings.

Note: To serve casserole-style, spoon barley mixture into a 2-quart baking dish and bake, uncovered, at 325 degrees for 1-1¼ hours.

BARLEY APRICOT SALAD

1 cup pearl barley
2 cups chicken broth
2 cups apple juice
1 tablespoon mustard seed
1 tablespoon coriander seed
1 teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon allspice
½ cup dried apricots, chopped
½ cup dried dates, chopped
½ cup sliced celery
¼ cup chopped green onion
¼ cup minced parsley
¼ cup slivered almonds
3 tablespoons lemon juice
Salt and pepper, to taste

Combine barley, broth, apple juice and spices in large saucepan. Bring to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 45 minutes or until barley is tender. Drain barley; reserve broth. Cool barley to room temperature. In large bowl, combine barley with remaining ingredients and ½ cup reserved liquid. Cover and chill several hours or overnight. Serve chilled or at room temperature. Makes 6 servings.

Although spring is in the air, a warm meal containing real dairy products is always in season.

Tracy Post, Crawford County Dairy Maid, offers this variation on the traditional St. Patrick's Day meal of corned beef and cabbage, based on the popular Reuben sandwich.

REUBEN CASSEROLE

16-ounces undrained sauerkraut
2 cups Swiss cheese (shredded)
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ cup pumpernickel or rye bread crumbs
12 ounces corned beef
½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup Thousand Island dressing

Place sauerkraut in 1½ -quart dish. Top with beef, then cheese. Combine both dressings and spread over cheese. Combine butter and bread crumbs. Sprinkle over top. Microwave at 70 percent for 12 to 14 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before serving.

Consuming Thoughts

by

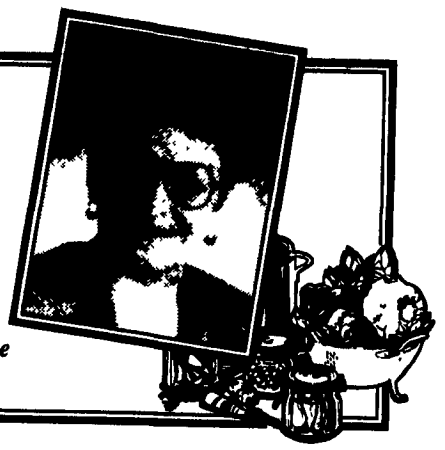
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Eggs can be "eggcentric" at Easter time unless you know the secret of success in handling them. Just a few simple rules will ensure eatable and beautiful Easter Eggs without making a disaster of your kitchen.

The secret begins with the boiling, or hard-cooking, of the eggs. To prevent egg breakage while cooking, use eggs that are four or five days old. Be sure that they are at room temperature before cooking. Cover eggs in a pan with water, at least one inch above the eggs. Bring rapidly to a boil and turn off the heat. If necessary, remove pan from unit to prevent further boiling. Cover and let stand in the hot water for 15 minutes, then cool immediately in cold water. This makes the shell easier to remove and helps prevent dark surfaces on yolks.

A few tips for dyeing eggs, which can be helpful whether you are using a "home brew" or the commercial dyes. If the dye seems weak and does not penetrate as well as expected, often times it is caused by the oil surface of the egg. To improve penetration, increase the amount of vinegar and reduce the amount of water. Cold water may be used, but hot tap water prolongs the life of the dyes. A simple homemade dye can be prepared by placing one to three teaspoons of food coloring into four tablespoons of vinegar and 1/3 cup of hot water.

During the dyeing process do not use aluminum containers; they counteract the process. When decorating your eggs for Easter, a little imagination can transform ordinary eggs into something special for that special child.

Keep your decorated hard-cooked eggs fresh for later use by storing them in their cartons in the refrigerator. When hiding eggs, consider hiding places carefully. Avoid areas where the eggs might come into contact with pets, wild animals, birds, insects or lawn chemicals.

Refrigerate your eggs again after they've been hidden and found. Don't eat cracked eggs or eggs that have been out of refrigeration for more than 2 hours. If you plan to use hard-cooked eggs as a centerpiece or other decoration and they will be out of refrigeration for many hours or several days, cook extra eggs for eating and discard the eggs that have been left out as decoration.

You can also turn your decorated Easter eggs into a nutritious post-Easter meal or snack. The most popular use for decorated eggs after Easter is salad. Egg salad, a basic all-purpose recipe, can be "spiced-up" to make a variety of nutritious meals and snacks. A dash of chil' powder or any other spice can add extra zest to egg salad. Serve it on tomato or lettuce cups, use it as a dip for crackers or as a dressing for green salads.

Be as creative in serving your left-over Easter eggs as you were in creating them. Why not think up your own new serving idea!

Area Crafters Invited To Rib Cook-Off

YORK (York Co.) — Area crafters are invited to participate in a juried craft show and sell their handmade creations at the second annual Keystone National Rib Cook-Off and Music Fest, scheduled July 27-30, at the York County Fairgrounds.

Event organizers expect dozens of artisans and crafters to take part in the four-day festival, which is expected to attract more than 70,000 people to the fairgrounds.

This event will feature competition among 16 "ribrateurs" who will sell their specialties to the public and compete in a judged competition; musical entertainment including performances by Mark Chestnutt and Ken Mellons and other national acts; pig races; Jack Russell dog races; a carnival; and a variety of other activities, including a special children's area.

For more information on reserving a craft booth, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Keystone National Rib Cook-off and Music Fest, P.O. Box 194, Landisville, PA 17538, or call (717) 898-0238, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

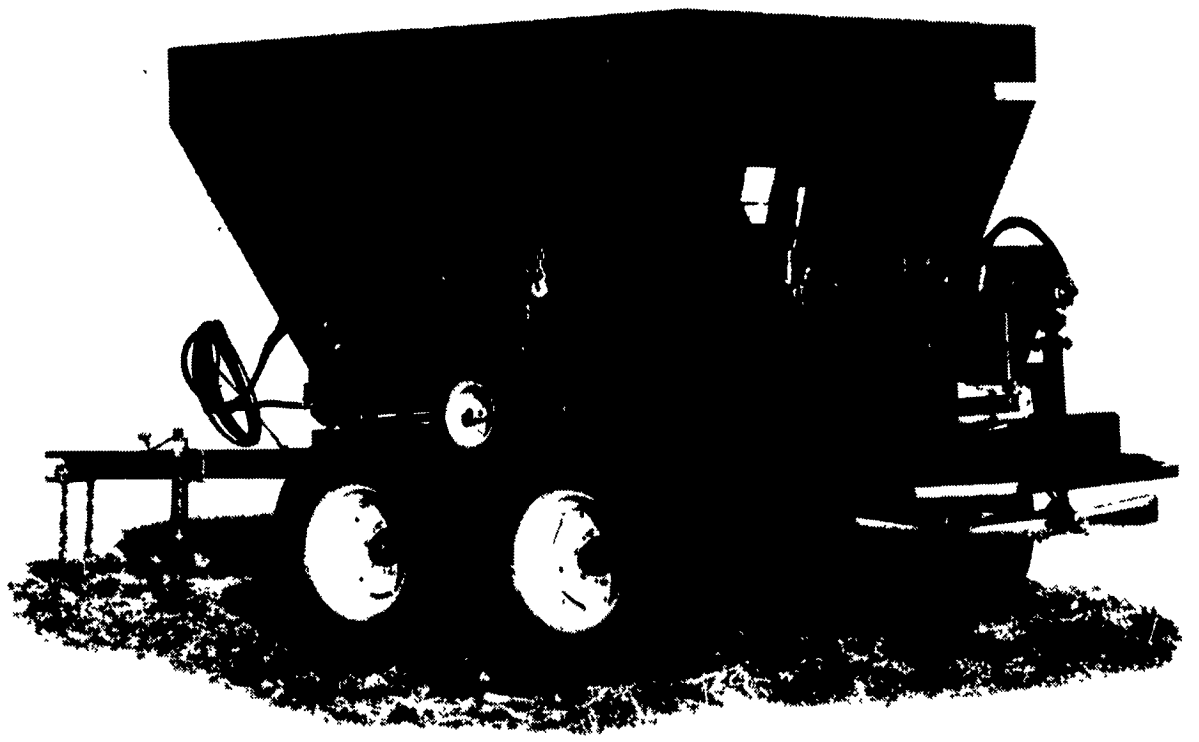
The One Spreader Rugged Enough For Lime, Precise Enough For Fertilizer.



You know how tough it is to spread wet lime. And fertilizer is too expensive to waste. Our new 56i spreader does both jobs with ease. Plus, it has no equal when it comes to spreading "sloppy" material.

Stoltzfus Spreaders have been known as unique, "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders since 1947.

Farmers are still using Stoltzfus Spreaders they've had 20 years or more. That means your investment in a versatile Stoltzfus Spreader will add up to a very smart buy indeed.

HERBED BARLEY PILAF MIX

¼ cup pearl barley
2 chicken or beef bouillon cubes
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
½ teaspoon dry basil leaves
½ teaspoon dry oregano leaves
¼ teaspoon garlic powder

Place barley in zip-top plastic bag. Combine remaining ingredients for seasoning and place in a smaller plastic sandwich bag; seal and place in zip-top bag with barley. Seal bag and attach directions for preparation. Store pilaf mix in a cool, dry place until ready to use.

Stove-Top Directions:

Place barley and contents of seasoning packet in medium-size saucepan. Add 2 cups water and 1 tablespoon butter. Bring to a boil; reduce heat to low, cover and cook 45 minutes or until barley is tender and liquid is absorbed. Makes 4 servings.

Microwave Directions: In 2-quart casserole, combine barley, seasonings, 2 cups water and 1 tablespoon butter. Cover and cook on high 6 to 8 minutes or until mixture comes to a boil. Stir with fork. Cover and continue to cook on high for 15 to 18 minutes or until most of the liquid is absorbed and barley is tender. Let stand, covered, 5 to 6 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

BEEF AND BARLEY SOUP

1 tablespoon cooking oil
2 pounds beef short ribs
2 medium onions, chopped
3 large carrots, sliced
3 celery stalks, sliced
28-ounce can whole tomatoes with liquid
2 quarts water
4 chicken bouillon cubes
⅓ cup medium pearl barley

In a large Dutch oven, heat oil over medium-high heat. Brown beef. Add onions, carrots, celery, tomatoes, water, and bouillon. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer for about two hours or until beef is tender. Add barley. Simmer another 50 to 60 minutes or until barley is done. Yield: 10 to 12 servings.

BARLEY HOT DISH

1½ pounds ground beef
1 pint peas
½ bay leaf
1 can mushroom soup
2½ cups water
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup chopped onion
2½ teaspoon salt
1 quart tomatoes, optional
¾ cup barley

Brown beef and onion. Stir in remaining ingredients and put in a 9x13-inch baking dish. Bake at 375 degrees for 1¼ hours. May need to add more water as casserole bakes.

BARLEY BLACK BEAN SALAD

⅓ cup pearl barley
2 cups water
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons vegetable oil, divided
1 cup chopped tomato
½ cup cooked corn kernels
½ cup diced green bell pepper
⅓ cup diced sweet onion
2 tablespoons chopped cilantro or parsley
1 tablespoon minced jalapeno pepper
2 tablespoons white wine vinegar
2 tablespoons lime or lemon juice
15-16-ounce can black beans, drained
Salt and pepper, to taste
Prepared tomato salsa, optional

Combine barley, water, salt and 1 teaspoon oil in saucepan. Bring to boil. Reduce heat to low; cover and cook 45 minutes or until barley is tender. Rinse cooked barley under cold water and drain well. In a bowl, combine tomato, corn, bell pepper, onion, cilantro, jalapeno pepper, vinegar, lime juice and remaining oil. Add barley and beans. Stir well to combine. Adjust seasonings. Serve at room temperature with prepared tomato salsa on the side, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

MEXICAN BARLEY TOMATO SOUP

¾ cup pearl barley
8 cups water
2 teaspoons salt
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 small whole chicken
1 medium onion, chopped
14½ -ounce can Mexican-style or plain stewed tomatoes
½ teaspoon ground cumin
Dash cayenne pepper
½ cup fresh cilantro sprigs

Place barley, water, salt, garlic, chicken and onion in large soup pot. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until chicken is tender and barley is cooked. Remove chicken; let cool slightly. Add tomatoes and cumin to soup in pot; simmer 15 minutes longer. In the meantime, remove chicken meat from bones; cut meat into bite-size pieces. Return chicken pieces to soup; heat through. Season to taste with salt and cayenne. Serve in bowls garnished with fresh sprigs of cilantro. Makes 6 servings.

BARLEY SHRIMP TOSS

2 cups broccoli florets
1 tablespoon olive oil
6 ounces cooked shrimp
1 cup diced fresh tomato
¼ cup chopped olives
¼ teaspoon crushed red pepper
3 cups cooked pearl barley

Saute broccoli florets in olive oil until tender crisp. Add cooked shrimp, tomato, olives and red pepper. Stir into cooked barley; heat through.

Nat. Barley Council

BARLEY BREAKFAST BOOSTERS

1 cup chopped Golden Delicious apple
2 teaspoons honey
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 cups cooked barley

Add apple, honey, and cinnamon to cooked barley. Heat through and serve with a dollop of vanilla-flavor yogurt.

QUESTION — Karen Kinnane, Shartlesville, would like a recipe for clear cranberry jelly that can be molded in shapes; for a yeast bread shaped like a dragon, which is sold every year at an antique shop on Church Lane, N.J.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.Va., would like a recipe for pancake syrup that is light in calories.

ANSWER — Sarah Clark, Breezewood, wanted recipes for angel hair fudge and for white bark fudge. Thanks to Ralph Sanger, Lebanon, for sending a recipe.

Maple Vanilla Swirl Fudge

2 11-ounce packages premium white chocolate pieces
⅓ cup half and half
½ teaspoon maple extract
1 cup chopped toasted walnuts

Line a 10x7-inch baking pan with aluminum foil, coat lightly with vegetable oil cooking spray. Melt white chocolate pieces in top of double boiler over hot not boiling water. Stir white chocolate until melted. Add half and half. Stir the mixture until smooth and glossy. Mixture may separate at first but will become smooth and glossy as it's stirred.

Stir together one generous cup melted white chocolate with maple extract and nuts. Spoon white chocolate and maple mixture alternately in prepared pan and swirl together with knife. Refrigerate until set for 2 to 4 hours. Cut into 24 squares. Refrigerate up to one month.

ANSWER — Beth Ehrisman, Richfield, wanted a recipe for Catalina sweet and sour red dressing. Thanks to Donna Wilson, Port Royal, and to Tina Forry, Palmyra, for sending recipes.

Catalina Sweet and Sour French Dressing

1 cup oil
½ cup vinegar
1¼ cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 can tomato soup
3 tablespoons ketchup

Mix together ingredients. Store in jar and refrigerate. Shake or stir before using.

Sweet And Sour Dressing

1 cup sugar
1 cup ketchup
1 teaspoon celery seed
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon onion salt
½ cup vinegar
1½ cups cooking oil

Blend together.

Control Your Finances

Flemington, N.J. — To obtain financial security, you must be able to take control of your money instead of allowing it to control you. The only way your money situation will improve is to improve your self-awareness. Hard work alone does not obtain financial security. It comes from being an effective planner.

Rutgers Cooperative Extension is offering a two-part money management series to help you become an efficient money manager. On April 27, 7-9 p.m., Barbara O'Neill, Extension Home Economist of Sussex County will conduct a program called Cash Flow 101: Developing a Spending Plan That Works.

On May 4, 7-9 p.m. Kathleen Klotzbach of Hunterdon County will present, Controlling Your Finances: The Emotional Aspects of Managing Money.

Both programs will be held at the Extension Center, Route 31, Flemington. Pre-registration is required, the fee to attend both courses is $5, to attend one course, the fee is $3. For further information and registration, please call 788-1342.

MILK AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Remember?

Remember what you were doing last year this time?

Drying out endless pairs of soggy gloves and damp boots. Scrounging around the stores for what little ice-melting salt might still be in stock somewhere. Removing snow for the twenty-umpteenth time from your porch, walks and driveways. Dreaming of the first crocus.

Dream no more.

Our first crocus made its cheerful, yellow-gold appearance nearly a month ago, poking up through a mat of dead, brown, soggy maple leaves. Since then, it has been joined by sprightly little neighbors garbed in bright-purple and pale-lavendar.

These tiny, chill-defying blooms are planted just outside the southwest corner of the greenhouse. That site was chosen specifically because it's the warmest spot in the yard and one we pass by numerous time each day traveling back and forth to the dairy barn. So, we can't miss those spirit-lifting, colorful blooms almost the moment they spread their petals to bask in the sunshine.

Not quite so far along, but thinking about it, are the buds of the forsythia bushes. With each day of lengthening light and warming temperatures, the tight, brown buds swell fatter with the promise of cascades of sunshiny-yellow stems and the tips turn green with the push of new life.

One thick hedge of forsythia bushes had outgrown its location, stretching high above my head and shading out the strawberry bed laid out nearby on a south-facing bank. Then, The Farmer decided some trimming was in order and judiciously pruned the forsythia jungle with the chainsaw. Not recommended by horticultural specialists, but effective. And fast.

Pussywillow buds likewise have grown fat and full, covering the branches of our 30-plus-feet-tall "shrub or small tree" as one plant identification book describes it. Naturally, the nicest branches for cutting to display in a vase are all the way up in the top third of the "small tree."

Picking a bouquet with any size to it becomes a ladder adventure. The adventure part comes in because pussywillow branches tend to be slender, very flexible, and grow mostly straight up in the air - not the best prop for a ladder. A brisk, March breeze sways in the pussywillow branches as I study the tree's upper level, eyeballing the best spot to park the top of the extension ladder.

After careful consideration, I bag the ladder idea and settle for a few short twigs of catkins from just above my head. God put the nicest branches at the top of the tree; common sense says to just leave 'em there for His enjoyment.

Daffodils and early tulips already have plentiful foliage pushed up out of the dark, moist ground, awaiting the warmth of still brighter sunshine. Daylilies, iris and last year's exuberant stand of horseradish likewise poke tentative shoots up to test the season.

And if all those aren't convincing enough, one good glance at Tiger, the affectionate kitten who moved into the bank barn last fall to help with mouse patrol, should present the final clinching evidence as to where the season is heading.

Like the shrubbery buds, Tiger's tummy is swelling more every day. And when kittens are on the way, Spring is generally waiting close by to the delivery.

Welcome crocus. Welcome baby kittens. Welcome, Spring!

Farm Animals Can Be Endangered Species

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

Today we hear a lot about "endangered species." Animals such as whales, California condors, whooping cranes, American bald eagles, chimpanzees, Russian desmans, or blackfooted ferrets are only a few of the wild animals that are on the list.

"Endangered" means there aren't any of this type of bird or animal left anywhere on the earth.

Domestic or farm animals also have an endangered list.

They include nearly 100 breeds of cattle, goats, horses, donkeys, sheep, swine, and poultry.

Reasons for abandoning certain breeds center on large changes in the way farming is done today.

The number of farmers, therefore the number of farm experts, has declined which means we have fewer farmers interested in a smaller number of breeds.

At least one group, the American Livestock Breeds Conservancy, thinks it is important to keep some of the genes or characteristics of all breeds alive.

Holstein cattle, for instance, are very productive cows. However, in order for them to give large quantities of milk, it is necessary to give them a good diet which is based on grain.

The first dairy cows in America needed only a grass diet to give milk.

These early breeds of cows did not give as much milk, as, for instance, today's Holsteins, but they did provide good quality milk.

The American Livestock Conservancy believes it might be a disaster to the milk industry if the price of energy became so high it would be difficult for farmers to grow grain. Then, keeping milk cows that need a lot of grain in order to produce milk would not be cost efficient.

Breeds of milk cows which are on the list of declining domestic animals will probably surprise you.

If an animal is on the "critical" list, it means there are fewer than 200 in North America and fewer than 2000 in the world.

"Rare" means there are fewer than 1000 in North America and less than 5,000 in the world.

If an animal is on the "Watch" list there are fewer than 2,500 in North America and 10,000 in the world.

Ayrshires, Guernseys, and Milking Shorthorns, all milk cows which are shown at local fairs and dairy shows, are on the "Watch" list.

The populations of Guernseys is now less than half what it was in 1970.

Another danger of having fewer cows of these species is, as the numbers decline, improvement of the breed becomes more difficult.

To demonstrate the importance of continuing many of these old breeds, the American Livestock Conservancy gives these examples:

"Irish potatoes," were once the potato source for a large portion of the world. Then, in the 1840s, a blight hit the Irish potato crop. Had there not been another type of potato being grown in Mexico, we might not be eating French fries today.

Or, as recently as the 1960s, when many of your parents were young, "stripe rust" attacked the wheat crop in the western United States. Prior to this, a type of wheat being grown in Turkey had been ignored because it did not bake as well. However, it was this wheat which helped the farmers to eventually overcome the stripe rust.

There are sheep parasites in North America which do not react to any modern day antibiotics.

The Escherichia coli scour which invades the bodies of some Northern American hogs does not phase the Chinese hog.

A number of 4-H members raise Finn sheep because the mothers usually have multiple births. A few years ago, this breed had all but been discarded. They were being raised only by Finnish peasants.

Or, several weeks ago we wrote about Leicester Longwools, the breed of sheep that has recently been revived in America at Colonial Williamsburg.

Another animal on the "Watch" list with which many young people are familiar is the miniature donkey. Because machines fast replaced mules and donkeys in the 1930s and 1940s, many of these animals began to die out. Now, they are making a comeback mostly for recreational purposes.

Large horses such as Clydesdale and Lipizzan are on the "rare" list and it has only been in recent years that some farmers have realized how valuable horses can be on a farm.

We live in a complex world and, for more than 10,000 years, farmers have depended on domestic animals as a part of their agriculture.

How important is it to keep some of the genes going from the original animals which helped to create farming as we know it today?

It is a question that can only be answered by time.

For more information on "endangered" domestic animals, write to The American Livestock Breeds Conservancy, Box 477, Pittsboro, NC 27312.

These two breeds of swine, the Essex and Suffolk, are already extinct.

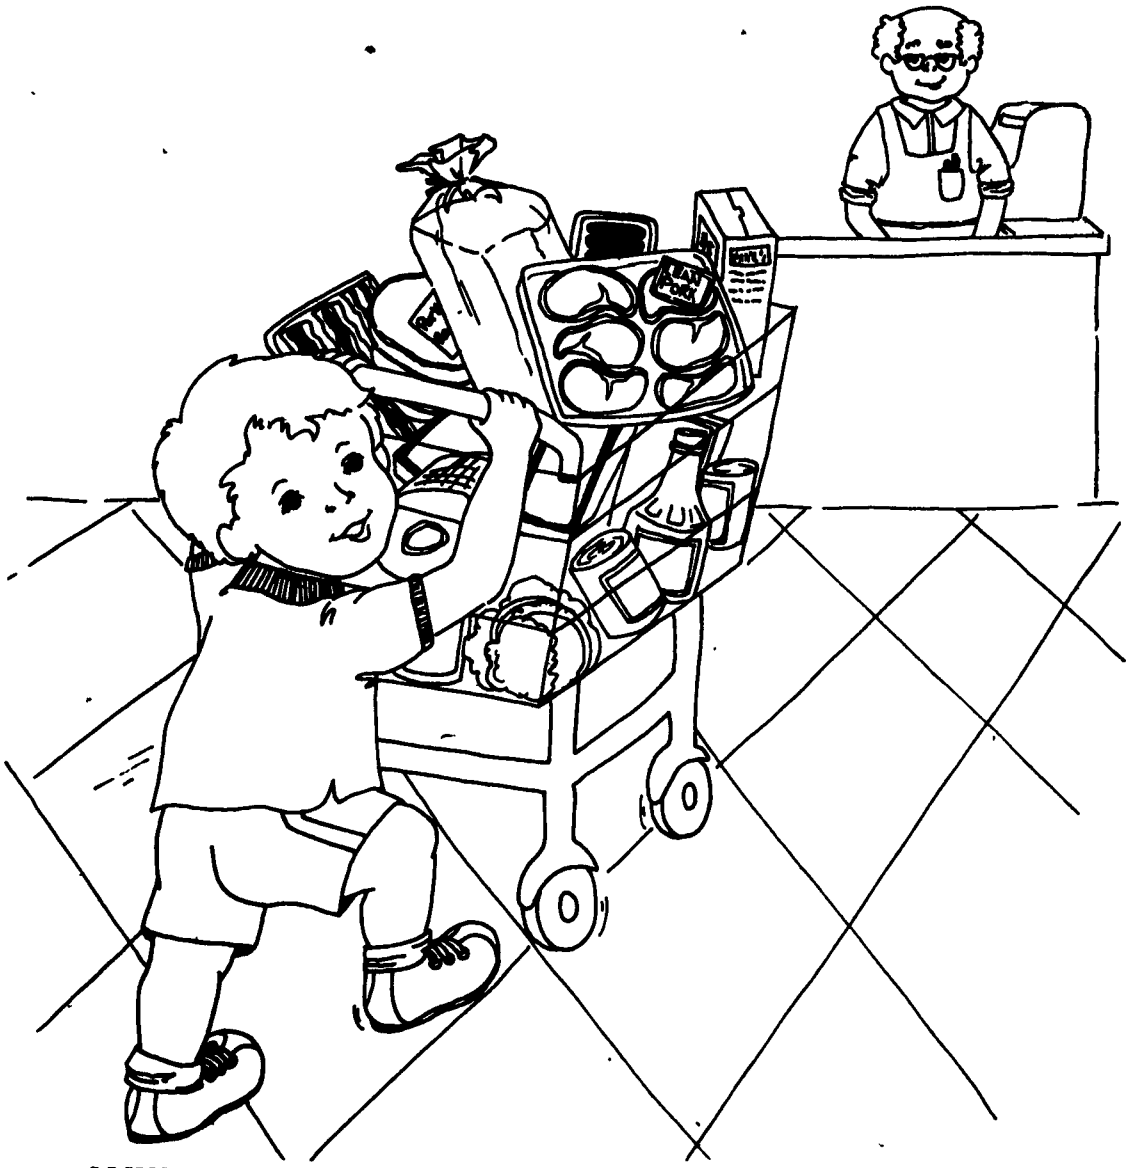
The sketches are from "Taking stock," The North American Livestock Census.

Pork, please.
It's an important part of a well-balanced diet.



Willa Wonka And The Chocolate Factory

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — An imaginary candy factory is the theme of a special Saturday morning program scheduled for April 1, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Hershey Museum. Following the screening of the 96-minute film "Willie Wonka and the Chocolate Factory" visitors can participate in a number of short, candy-related activities in the museum's galleries. The program, appropriate for children ages 5 and up is free with museum admission. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

The film, with its lively music, fast action and imaginative sets revolves around the story of the mysterious owner of a fabulous candy factory who offers a tour and a lifetime supply of chocolate to the finders of five golden tickets hiden inside Wonka candy bars. However, the winners are in for some thrills and excitement before they can claim their prizes.

Women's Health Seminar

FLEMINGTON, N.J.— Women's health is in the forefront today more than ever. Healthy aging for women will be based on disease prevention and minimizing the effects of chronic diseases when they develop. Rutgers Cooperative Extension will present a two-part mini-series on women's health, "Healthy Guidelines for Women."

The first part "Transitional Years" will be presented by Dr. Corrado Altomare of the Women's Health Center of Hunterdon County in Flemington. Dr. Altomare will discuss important health topics facing women today. Participants will hear the latest information on cancer screening, osteoporosis, infertility, hormone replacement therapy, endometriosis.

The second part "Super Nutrition for Women" presented by Kathleen Klotzbach, interim home economist, will address the important nutritional issues facing women as they go about their busy lives. Attention to proper diet, exercise, and lifestyle changes will make the transition into mid-life easier. Topics such as Yo-Yo Dieting, the calcium connection, "female minerals," "women and sugar" will be discussed.

The two-part program will begin on Thursday, March 23 and 30, 7-9 p.m. at the Rutgers Cooperative Extension Center, Route 31, Flemington. Those interested may attend one or both sessions. The fee for the series is $5 or $3 for one program. Preregistration is required. Please phone 908-788-1342 for further information and registration.

MUELLER THE MILK COOLING SYSTEMS SPECIALISTS

ANSWER — Helen Spencer, Troy, wanted recipes for spaghetti salad. Thanks to Tina Forry, Palmyra, and to Donna Wilson, Port Royal, for sending recipes.

Spaghetti Salad

16-ounce bottle Wishbone Italian Dressing
1 teaspoon sugar
½ bottle Salad Supreme
1 medium cucumber, chopped
2 medium tomatoes, chopped
1 small onion, chopped
1 cup chopped celery

Break spaghetti into quarters. Cook and drain. Add dressing, sugar, and Salad Supreme mix. Add cucumber, tomatoes, onion and celery; mix. Let set overnight in refrigerator. Do not eat before it is marinated.

ANSWER — Shirley Jean Ash, Bridgeport, W.V., wanted recipes using 1½ pounds ground beef. Thanks to Patty Ashton, Schellsburg, for sending one of her family favorites.

Burrito Bake

1 cup Bisquick
¼ cup water
16-ounce can refried beans
1 cup thick salsa
1½ pounds ground beef, drain well
1½ cups shredded cheddar cheese

Grease 10-inch pie plate. Mix together Bisquick, water, and beans until smooth. Spread in pie plate. Layer meat, salsa, and cheese on bean mixture. Bake 25 to 30 minutes. Serve with sour cream and chopped garden onions.

ANSWER — Ann Wiegle requested a recipe for pickled herring. Thanks to Irene Greer, Richwood, W.V., who sends two recipes that she received on a trip to Denmark. She writes that after enjoying a Danish smorgasbord for 21 days, getting a recipe book tht contained these recipes was a must.

Marinated Herring

Brine:

4 cups water
⅔ cups coarse salt
4 tablespoons sugar

Marinade:

1⅓ cups pickling vinegar
2 cups water
1½ cups sugar
1 tablespoon whole allspice
1 teaspoon whole pepper
½ teaspoon ground pepper
2 teaspoons dill seeds
1 teaspoon whole cloves
4 onions (1 leek or 3 spring onions)

Wash fillets and drain. Boil ingredients for brine and cool. Pour brine over herring fillets and chill for two days. Remove fish from brine, wash and drain. Mix ingredients for marinade and boil. Cool. Put herring fillets and sliced onions and leek into a crock or deep dish and pour cold marinade over them.

Fish may need to be weighted to stay in marinade. Use a small plate and a jar filled with water or a small clean rock. Marinate in refrigerator for 3 three days before serving.

Pickled Herring

4 fillets salt herring
1 piece horse radish (about 1-inch long)
1 carrot
2 red onions
2 bay leaves
2 teaspoons allspice
2 teaspoons mustard seeds
2 small pieces dried ginger or 1 teaspoon ground ginger

Marinade:

¾ cup pickling vinegar
⅔ cup water
1 cup vinegar

Soak herring overnight. Wash, drain, and cut into one-inch pieces. Boil water, vinegar, and sugar for marinade and cool. Peel horseradish, carrot, and onions. Cut into thin slices. Layer herring with onions, carrots, horseradish, and spices in a tall wide-mouthed jar or crock. Cover the fish with marinade.

Marinate in refreigerator for one day. Fresh horseradish may be hard to find. A tablespoon of ready-made grated horseradish may be sprinkled between herring layers instead.

ANSWER — Sherry Cramer of Bridgeton, N.J., wanted a recipe for the best meatloaf. Thanks to Michelle Milis, Knoxville, for sending this one from her mother. She said her mother experimented a lot to come up with a meatloaf that her dad would eat. The family thinks this one is the best.

Best Meatloaf

2 pounds ground beef
1 cup milk
1 cup uncooked rolled oats
1 beaten egg
¼ cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients. Mix well. Press firmly itno an ungreased loaf pan. If preferred, pour a little more milk over the top. Bake at 350 degrees for about one hour. Let stand 5 minutes before slicing.

This recipe also makes excellent meatballs. Omit the milk and add one more egg.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted cabbage recipes. Here are some from Fay Leslie, Woodstown, N.J.

Cabbage Pie

2 cans refrigerated crescent rolls or biscuits
1 pound ground beef
1 onion, chopped
1 small head cabbage, chopped
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese

Brown meat and draing. Saute onion and cabbage in 1 tablespoon oil for several minutes. In a 9x13-inch pan, layer meat, top with cabbage and onion. Spread soup over top. Spread cheese over top. Unroll rolls or separate biscuits. Arrange on top of cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Put a scant ⅓ cup of this mixture on each cabbage leaf. Roll leaves up around ham filling, starting at side of leaf where vein was cut away. Tuck in the ends of the cabbage leaves so that the meat is tightly wrapped. Add the cabbage rolls to the sauce after it has simmered for the first 15 minutes. Cover the pan and simmer 30 minutes.

Add carrots and simmer 15 minutes. Add green peppers and simmer 10 minutes more. Add water to sauce if liquid has evaporated.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted more recipes for salad dressings. Here are some from D. Horst, N.Y.; Barbara Shirey, Ligonier; and others.

Mexican Salad Dressing

½ medium chopped onion
⅔ cup sugar
1 teaspoon celery seed
1 teaspoon mustard
1 cup oil
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
⅓ cup vinegar

Chop onion in blender. Add remaining ingredients and blend. May be stored in refrigerator for one month. Shake well before each use as it separates.

Thousand Island Dressing

½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1 small onion
⅓ cup vinegar
½ cup vegetable oil
⅓ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup catsup

Blend all ingredients well and refrigerate. Shake well before using.

Dutch Cupboard Salad Dressing

4 slices bacon
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 beaten egg
¼ cup vinegar
1 cup water

Fry bacon slowly until browned and crisp. Drain off all but one tablespon bacon fat.

Mix sugar, salt, and cornstarch. Mix together beaten egg, vinegar, and water and add to sugar mixture.

Pour mixture into skillet with bacon and one tablespoon fat. Cook to desired thickness, stirring constantly. Chop a small onion into the dressing before placing on greens such as endive or lettuce. Also good as a dressing for hot potato salad.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know how we determine whose answer to use when we receive duplicate answers. Generally we try to use recipes from a variety of readers. Some readers send in batches of recipes on a regular basis. If we haven't received other answers, we will use those, but we don't like to limit printing recipes from a few readers. Sometimes, answers are printed and later more answers are received. If there is room, we sometimes print additional answers. If not, we file them to use at a later date. Some appear several months later but if too many similar recipes are received, it may never appear. Sometimes one person sends in a batch of recipes to the same answer and we receive no answers from other readers. In that case, several recipes appear by the same reader. We appreciate those who send in recipes regularly but hope they understand that we cannot print all of them. We do not keep the full addresses of those who ask questions or send in recipes. We do not have the time to send personal replies.

The reader also wanted to know how we select feature stories. We are always looking for ideas. We want our readers to send in suggestions for features or people who they think will make an interesting subject.

The reader also wanted to know if visitors may tour the office and see how the paper is put together. Yes. Tours are given, but call in advance. Our staff will be happy to answer your other questions then.

ANSWER — Dolly Getty, Oxford, wanted recipes for muffin mix and quick bread mix in which the dry ingredients may be combined ahead of time and stored until ready to bake. Thanks to Mrs. Anthony Hathaway, Pittstown; Sarah Pine, Altoona, and others for sending recipes.

Master Mix (like Bisquick Mix)

9 cups flour
⅓ cup baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ cup sugar
2 cups shortening
1 cup milk powder

Mix together all dry ingredients. Cut in the shortening. Store in a cool place in air-tight container.

For biscuits: 3 cups Master Mix plus ⅔ cup water. Mix together, roll out dough, cut into shapes. Bake in 400 degree oven until lightly browned.

Muffins: 3 cups Master Mix, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup water, and 1 egg. Mix together and drop into greased cup cake pans. Bake at 425 degrees.

Waffles: 3 cups Master Mix, 1 egg, 1½ cups water. Bake in preheated griddle.

Corn bread: 1½ cups Master Mix, ¾ cup cornmeal, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup milk, and 1 egg. Bake in greased pan at 450 degrees.

Coffee Cake: 3 cups Master Mix, ½ cup sugar, ⅔ cup milk, 1 egg. Top with mixture of ½ cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, and 1 tablespoon butter.

Basic Quick Bread Mix

1¾ cups unbleached all-purpose flour
½ cup whole wheat flour
½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt

Mix all ingredients until thoroughly blended. Store in an air-tight container at room temperature until ready to use. Stir before measuring for recipes. Ingredients may be doubled or tripled and stored as directed above. Makes 3 cups.

Lehigh Holds Mini Farm Show

Smiley the Hatfield Pig was a big hit at the Mini Farm Show.

NEW TRIPOLI (Lehigh Co.)—More than 5,000 people attended the weekend celebration of the Lehigh County Mini Farm Show held at the Trexlertown Mall on March 4, 5, and 6. The event was sponsored by the Women's Committee of the Lehigh County Farm Bureau. General chairman of the event was Diane Schlauch, Slatington and Priscilla Greiss, Slatington, served as Vice-Chairman.

The kick-off of the event was the huge ice cream sundae made by Turkey Hill Farm. The masterpiece contain.d 126 gallons of ice cream, 5 gallons of chocolate syrup, 5 gallons of strawberries, and 20 pounds of pecans. The sundae's were then dished out b.' the Women's committee with help from the other Farm Bureau Board Members. More than 2,600 ample servings were given away to the public in less than 90 minutes.

The mall was filled to capacity with agriculture exhibits and displays; sampling of ag commodities; demonstrations; 20 farm animals to pet as well as other activities.

Sampling was being done by Hatfield Qualitiy Meats, showing off their new micro-wave ham; Leidy with their country sausage; Beatrice foods with samples of many kinds of cheese; Atlantic Dairy Coop and Weis Markets with strawberry milk.

Education of the non-farm consumer was on the mind of the ladies in the planning of the show. All of the major players in agriculture in the Lehigh Valley were present with educational displays. Groups included were Agriculture Extension, Farm Credit, PA Livestock Association, Soil Conservation Service, Lehigh/Northampton Dairy Princess Program, Lehigh County Holstein Club, Lehigh County Potato Club, Lehigh Valley Beekeepers Assn., Trexlertown Grange, ASCS, PA Department of Agriculture and Schnecksville Community Fair.

The 4-H Club Program in the valley was well represented at both ends of the mall. The Wildlife and Livestock Clubs had a petting zoo with many sheep and pigs, a horse, a baby calf, rabbits, guinea pigs, chickens and goats. The sheep club leader, Mrs. Gressley was demonstrating spinning and the clubs had decorated the wall with a beautiful mural of rolling farm land. 4-H leaders, Darlene Brosky and Tina Roth coordinated the zoo and conducted children's story time.

At the other end of the mall, the traditional 4-H clothing and foods projects were being demonstrated. Members were sewing on state-of-the-art sewing machines and the

French Spice Loaf

3 cups Basic Quick Bread Mix
1 tablespoon anise seeds
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
¾ teaspoon grated orange peel
¾ cup hot water
¾ cup plus 2 tablespoons honey
3 tablespoons rum
½ cup coarsely chopped blanched almonds
⅓ cup dried diced pineapple
⅓ cup golden raisins

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Butter and flour 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Combine Quick Bread Mix, anise seeds, cinnamon, ginger, allspice, pepper, and orange peel in a mixing bowl.

Pour ¾ cup hot water over ¾ cup honey in a separate large mixing bowl and stir until just blended. Stir in rum. Add flour mixture and stir until smooth. Fold in almonds, pineapple and raisins. Pour into prepared pan.

Bake 50-55 minutes or until it tests done. Let stand on wire rack for 5 minutes.

Meanwhile, heat remaining 2 tablespoons honey in a small saucepan over low heat.

Turn bread out of pan onto a wire rack. Using a pastry brush, coat top and sides with honey. Let cool completely. Flavor improves if wrapped and allowed to stand for 2 to 3 days before serving.

Pignoli Fig Bread

3 cups Basic Quick Bread Mix
½ teaspoon ground ginger
1 large egg, slightly beaten
⅔ cup buttermilk
⅓ cup unsalted butter, melted
8 ounces moist dried figs, finely chopped
½ cup pignoli (pine nuts)

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Butter and flour a 9x5x3-inch loaf pan.

Combine Quick Bread Mix and ginger in a mixing bowl.

Whisk egg, buttermilk, and butter in a large mixing bowl until blended. Add flour mixture and stir just until smooth. Fold in figs and pine nuts. Pour into prepared pan.

Bake about 45-55 minutes, until done. Let stand on a wire rack until cool enough to handle, then turn bread onto a rack and cool.

Apricot Orange Loaf

½ cup fresh orange juice
⅓ cup honey
1½ cups dried apricots, quartered
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
3 cups Basic Quick Bread Mix
1¼ teaspoons ground cardamon
1 large egg, lightly beaten
½ cup unsalted butter, melted
⅓ cup buttermilk
¾ cup hazelnuts, toasted and finely chopped

Heat orange juice and honey in a small saucepan to boiling. Combine apricots and orange peel in a medium bowl and stir in honey mixture. Let stand for 20 minutes.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Butter and flour a 9x5x3-inch loaf pan.

Combine Quick Bread Mix and cardamon in a mixing bowl. Whisk egg and buttermilk in a large mixing bowl until blended. Stir in apricot mixture and flour mixture. Fold in nuts. Pour into prepared pan.

Bake until it tests done, about 45-50 minutes. Let stand on a wire rack until cool enough to handle, then turn bread onto rack to cool.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Executive Society

The Berks County Farm Women executive board met on March 6 at the Ag Center with 21 in attendance. President Lingle reminded members that the Berks Heim Bingo will be held on April 6, at 7:00 p.m. in the main building, and that each group should bring an angel food cake. Fern Phillipy, state historian, is asking members to provide information on each group. Thank you notes were received for the basket centerpieces made by our county groups for the State Convention in January. The next meeting of the executive board is May 1.

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Farm Women No. 8 met on March 8 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mary Anne Spangler in Marietta. Ruth Drager gave devotions. Guest speaker was Judge Wilson Bucher who gave a talk on wills, estates, power of attorney and reported on what's current in legislation. The April 12 meeting will be held at Reich's Church in Marietta at 1:30 when members will entertain Society No. 15.

foods club members were selling wonderful homemade baked items.

A new incubator was made by Orrin Fink for this year's show and baby chicks were hatching to the delight of many of the youngsters and adults.

Scattered throughout the mall were country crafters. They were selling anything from beautiful hand-crafted wind socks to intricate hand made lace items. All crafters were required to have a country theme.

Days of Yesteryear was shown by two county organizations. The Old Time Plow Boys had on display old tractors and various pieces of equipment, as well as toy farm equipment for sale. The second group present was the Antique Engine, Tractor and Toy Club with a display of Hit and Miss Engines, and other antique items.

New equipment, both large farm type as well as lawn and garden was on display from a variety of dealers in the area.

The Trexlertown UCC Quilters demonstrated quilting during the show, and the East Penn Fiber Guild were spinning and weaving as well as answering questions about the craft.

Organized events included a square dance on Friday night after the Turkey Hill Sundae. The music was provided by the Majestics from the Mertztown area.

On Saturday afternoon a Fashion Show was held on the Main Stage. Daryl Wolf coordinated the show of approximately 50 outfits modeled by 15 of the Women's Committee Members and their families. Fashions were provided by Bon Ton and Fashion Bug.

Following the Fashion Show, Andrea Semmel conducted games for the kids. The games included "Animal Calling" and a "Milk Mustache" Contest just to name a few.

The Sunday activity was line dancing. It was also a well attended event.

To assist in funding this event, an auction is held on Saturday evening. Farmers, Agri-business people and Mall Merchants all give items to be auctioned. Approximately $1,300 was earned from the auction. Another funding source this year was chances on a quilt. The quilt was won by Dora Boyd of Mertztown.

The women's Committee had two educational exhibits. One was a market basket where people were to guess how much money a farmer receives from the $40 paid at the supermarket for the items in the basket. The person with the closest guess won the food. A gentleman won the basket with his guess of $8.31.

The second display was one on Ag in the Classroom. The display showed the many lessons taught through this summer program at Penn State University. Last year, Lehigh County Farm Bureau sponsored three teachers for this vital program.

This marks the 16th year for the Mini Farm Show. The Women's Committee is made up of Nancy Semmel, Schnecksville; Janet Bachman, Schnecksville; Karen Boyd, Mertztown; Elaine Dietrich, New Tripoli, Sonia Fink, Germansville; Priscilla Greiss, Slatington; Dawn Lennon, New Tripoli, Frances Lictenwalner, Macungie; Annette Pattishall, New Tripoli; Diane Schlauch, Slatington; Claire Shelly, Zionsville; Daryl Wolf, Kutztown and Minnie Young, Emmaus.

The "Huge" Turkey Hill Store Sundae was served to more than 2,600 people at the mall show.

Samantha Gressley, from the Lehigh County 4-H Club, shares her lamb with Jed Gruber, New Tripoli.

Toddler Topics

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.)—Toddler Topics is the title of a series of learning packets.

These six packets feature articles of interest to parents of preschool children. The series has been coordinated by the extension home economists in the central region of Pennsylvania. The articles included have come from various sources: local experts in the field of parent education, family life specialists of the Cooperative Extension Service at Penn State, and extension home economists.

To receive these packets, send your name and address to Toddler Topics, PO Box 150, Somerset, PA 15501 or contact your county extension office. The deadline for requesting this information is March 15. The mailing will begin soon after that date and will continue every two weeks until all six packets have been sent.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

QUESTION — Jenny Palovitch of Lancaster County would like to purchase a wrought iron bench that wraps around a tree. It may be new or used.

QUESTION — Several years ago, Harold R. Stoudt of Hamburg purchased aluminum clad electric fence wire by direct shipment from South Star Industries in Tenn. The dealer discontinued his business. Does anyone know of the company or one that sells similar high quality aluminum clad maleable steel wire. It did not recoil when unspooled and could be hand spliced.

QUESTION — Brenda Fouts wants to know how to removed baked on grease from an electric frying pan. It's aluminum so oven cleaners cannot be used. She asks, how and why the outside of the pan gets a grease cooking?

QUESTION — Carl Humer, Dover, writes that one of his meadows is being choked out of a natural pond setting by multiflower rose. The plant already covers about 1½ acres and is spreading. Is there a herbicide to kill it? Someone suggested he burn it, but he is concerned about several nut trees that are nearby. How about leasing several goats to rid the problem? Please send suggestions.

QUESTION — Brenda Fouts would like to know the best method to remove manure stains from clothes.

QUESTION — R.B. Beiler, 862 Valley Rd., Quarryville, PA 17566, would like to purchase old Hardy Boy books — not new versions.

QUESTION — Nancy E. Cummings, Bolivar, wants to know where to purchase lye that is used for making homemade soap?

QUESTION — Anne Mitzler, Alum Bank, would appreciate the names of Pennsylvania suppliers for wheel carts for dachshunds with paralyzed hind quarters. She writes that both she and her Ginger would appreciate the answer as soon as possible because Ginger is disabled and needs the exercise.

QUESTION — Naomi Becker, Walnutport, would like to know where to purchase netting to cover a fenced in area for pheasants, quail, etc.

QUESTION — A Pennsylvania reader would like to buy the books, "The 'Mysterifying' Twins," and the "Secret of the Mystifying Twins." Books may be new or in good condition.

QUESTION — A Lehighton reader would like to know the market price for goose and duck eggs.

QUESTION — Fay Leslie, 46 Witt Rd., Woodstown, N.J., would like to know if anyone is interested in exchanging old-fashioned seeds and cuttings from their gardens. She loves to save seed for next year's gardens.

Enter Chicken Cook-Off Contest

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — From heartwarming chicken and dumplings to chicken pot pie to chicken corn soup, the food of Lancaster County has earned a worldwide reputation for its hearty goodness.

In honor of the traditional Pennsylvania Dutch dishes that feature chicken as their main ingredient, Pennfield Farms will host its third annual Chicken Cook-Off event on Saturday, June 24, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Lancaster County Food, Farm, and Fun Fest at the Artworks Expo Center at Donecker's in Ephrata.

The Pennfield Farms Pennsylvania Dutch Chicken Recipe Cook-Off is open to all cooks who wish to enter their favorite recipe for a traditional Pennsylvania Dutch dish and compete for $1,025 in cash prizes. Past events have featured chicken pot pie and chicken corn soup, but officials have decided to widen the competition to include a variety of chicken dishes.

"That could include chicken and waffles, chicken and dumplings, stuffed chicken, and, of course, the classics — chicken pot pie and chicken corn soup. The only limitations are that the dish features chicken and that it has traditional roots," said Tim Horn, marketing director for Pennfield Farms.

"Chicken is an essential ingredient in many popular Pennsylvania Dutch dishes and this contest is growing into a favorite tradition here in Central Pennsylvania. It's a great opportunity for people to show off the traditions that have been passed along through families for generations," added Horn, noting that several of the past winning chefs have won by adapting a family recipe and making it all their own.

The Pennfield Farms Pennsylvania Dutch Chicken Recipe Cook-Off is part of the county-wide 1995 Pennsylvania Dutch Food Festival sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dutch Visitors Bureau. Five finalists will compete in the June 24 event, with the first place winner receiving $500, second place $250, third place $150, fourth place $75, and fifth place $50.

The preliminary judging of recipes will be done by Pennfield Farms and home economist, Mindy Rottmund. The written recipes will be narrowed down to select the finalists who will compete in the cook-off, which will be open to the public. Visitors will have the opportunity to watch the top cooks prepare their favorite recipes and to sample their efforts following the judging.

To enter the contest, entries for the Pennfield Farms Pennsylvania Dutch Chicken Recipe Cook-Off must be postmarked and received by May 22. The entries will be narrowed down to five finalists by June 7. All recipes must be original and not previously published. They should include Pennfield Farms chicken. The final judding will be based on flavor, appearance, texture, ease of preparation, and quality. Those entering the cook-off should send their neatly typed or printed recipe on an 8½ x 11 sheet of paper, accompanied by their name, address, and telephone number to: Pennfield Farms Pennsylvania Dutch Chicken Recipe Cook-Off, P.O. Box 70, Fredericksburg, PA 17026. For further information, call Pennfield Farms at (717) 865-2153.

4H HAPPENINGS

At the last meeting of the Clover Bunch 4-H Prep Club Amelia Thatcher's family of Stockton presented an interesting program on bees. Mr. Thatcher is a beekeeper and showed the members his special beekeeper's suit, a bee hive (no bees!), honeycomb, and other tools. The group learned how helpful the bee is for pollinating our gardens. The members had the opportunity to tase honey, too! Amelia's mom helped the group make a craft project - a mobile with pictures of fruit, vegetables, and honeybees.

You Ask, You Answer

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., wants to know where to purchase flaked hominy. She writes that a company called Pleezing used to sell it. She has inquired about this product for years and hasn't been able to find out if it was removed from the market, and, if so, why?

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, is looking for a wire jig that can be used for making patterns in any shape and size by bending the wire.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, would like paper puzzles that were sometimes given away by the John Deere tractor franchises. The puzzles were made either out of thin cardboard or thick paper. The puzzle pieces were packaged inside a letter-sized envelope with instructions to solve the puzzle printed on the outside of the envelope.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill, would like to know where to purchase gift boxes for jellies and breads. Candy boxes are too small.

QUESTION — Mrs. Lloyd Weaver, Lancaster, would like to know where to buy a paring knife that has a curved blade. She wants one that curves to the left to insert into fruit and potatoes to remove undesirable parts.

QUESTION — Blanche Hertzler, Mt. Wolf, would like to purchase some old readers used in public school in the 1930s. She wants the third through sixth reader of the Baldwin and Bender series, copyrighted 1911 by American Book Company. She has the second reader. One of the readers has the poem "Taming the Colt," which she wants.

QUESTION — Shirley Jean Ash, Bridgeport, W.V., has a poinsettia that is still blooming. She wants to know how to have it blooming by next Christmas.

QUESTION — Don Woodward, Honey Grove, would like to know where a corn cracker can be repaired and where he can purchase a small one.

QUESTION — J. Martin, Lititz, would like to know where to purchase a baler to make miniature bales for crafts and decorations.

QUESTION — Karen Kinnane, Box 212, Shartlesville, PA 19554 (610) 488-7792, is searching for Christmas dinnerware picturing a winter outdoor scene, marked on the back with Sango 3900 Silent Night, Korea, Joan Luntz.

QUESTION — Cindy Eshleman, Jonestown, would like to know where to locate a Cub Cadet tractor hat.

QUESTION — John T. Los, 2350 Croll School Rd., York, PA 17403, would like to talk with someone about the lithographs with the following information on them: Artist signature — Fred S. Cozzens 1893. Armstrong & Co. Lith. Boston. Copyright 1893 American Publishing Co. — Hartford, Conn.

QUESTION — A faithful New York reader would like a wholesale source for goose feathers to use to make old-fashioned feather Christmas trees.

QUESTION — Edgar Jackson, Ligonier, would like to know how to puff wheat, rice, and corn for making cereal.

QUESTION — Tom Hicswa, Hammonton, N.J., would like to purchase sheet metal parts for a Case tractor model 300B made about 1960. He wants a grille, gas tank cover, etc. Please send information to Hicswa at Box 2169 Elwood R1, Hammonton, N.J.

ANSWER — Melanie Marple, Frederick, wanted to know how to make silly putty. Thanks to Erla Shirk, Ephrata; Jolene Hursh, Mt. Joy; Marlene Huber, Myerstown, and others for sending recipes.

Silly Putty

8 ounces glue, pour into a bowl; add:
¾ cup water
Few drops food coloring
Stir together glue, water, food coloring. In another bowl, combine:
½ cup water
1 teaspoon 20 Mule Team Borax
Mix until dissolved as much as possible.
Slowly add Borax mixture to glue mixture, stirring continually. Mixture will harden. Stir with spoon as long as possible, then use hands.
Mixture is ready to play with. Keep in an airtight bag when not in use.

Silly Putty

1 cup Elmer's glue (according to Erla, you must use Elmer's glue)
1 cup boiling water
Mix well:
Mix in one tablespoon Borax in one cup cold water. Add several drops of food coloring. Mix all together. Stir well or mix with hands.

ANSWER — Nancy Van Cott, New Milford, writes that she has had success in locating old books by doing the following: Check in the business directory of the phone book for a listing of a bookstore that does out-of-print book searches. Call or visit the store and give them the title, author or whatever information known about the book. The store can place an ad in a publication devoted to finding old or out-of-print books for people who are searching for them. The ad should only cost a few dollars. The store will receive notices from people in the antique or used book business who have the book for sale. It is her experience that the bookstore where you paid for the ad will let you know when they receive answers. You may then purchase the book through the individual who replied to the ad.

Ida's Notebook

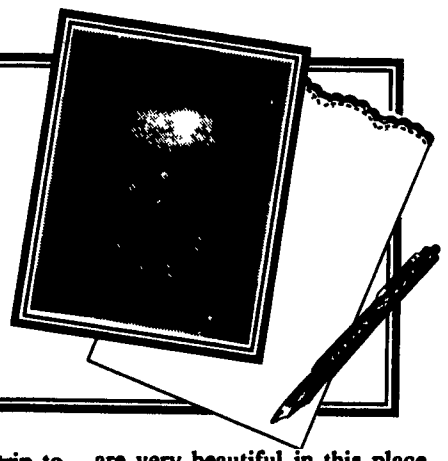
Ida Risser



On the fifth day of our trip to Florida, we arrived at Key West. It is the southernmost city in the continental United States and just 90 miles from Cuba. We traveled over many bridges to get there including one that was seven miles long. Here a guide rode with us and pointed out the homes of famous people. We were told that there are 1,800 sunken ships in this area with treasures. Their trees are quite different too as a Gumbo Limbo tree has a red trunk that peels regularly. The sunsets are very beautiful in this place.

The next day we visited an alligator farm and rode on an air boat. The boat carried about 20 people and seemed to travel through fields of grass but it really was a swampgrass marsh. In the Everglades National Park we had another boat ride to tour their 10,000 islands. We took pictures of a nesting osprey. Previously, we walked through the Fruit and Spice Park near Homestead. Here I got seed from a lipstick tree. In this area there are many fields of beans, celery, and sweet corn.

The Edison-Ford complex in Fort Myers was very interesting as it showed many of their inventions. From Sarasota we went to Tampa where I happened to meet a lady who was a niece of my favorite high school teacher. In the evening we walked on the pier at St. Petersburg which extends 2,400 feet into Tampa Bay, and did some shopping. Allen bought a beautiful wind chime for me as an early birthday gift.

Cypress Gardens at Winter Haven has acres of cypress trees and many colorful flowers. We took a lot of pictures here. We took a ride on Island in the Sky which gave us an overall view of the gardens. Allen and I had been there 47 years before and remembered seeing their spectacular ski show with some of the world's best water skiers.

In the evening we saw Lake Wales Passion Play. This moving play had 22 scenes showing the last seven days of the life of Christ. More of Florida next week.

HAPENINGS

Puppy Club

The Lebanon Extra Special Puppy Club did a few things during the first months of 1995. Meetings were held on Jan. 19 and Feb. 16.

On Jan. 19 club elections were held. Results are president, Ellen Leuenberger; vice president, Andrea Leuenberger; secretary, Julie Ulrich; treasurer, Brian Horst; scrapbook, Becky Ulrich; and reporter, Emily Horst.

On Feb. 16 the club held a regular meeting. Club members begin every meeting with a training session for the dogs. Then they discussed going on a trip to get the dogs used to different forms of transportation.

Most club members were able to attend a mall walk on Jan. 28. They went on a city bus and stopped at places around Lebanon. Then they came back and walked through Boscov's, Ames, and the mall area. They also went to Chocolate World in Hershey on Feb. 17.

Red Rose 4-H Beef Club

On March 1, the 4-H Red Rose Beef Club held its reorganizational meeting.

The new project and record books were handed out. Officers elected that night were: president-Dale Livengood; vice-president, Amy Hoffines; secretary, Jill Hoffines; assistant secretary, Jessica Stoltzfus; treasurer, Travis Donough; news reporters, Jessica Schmidt and Nicole Hess.

Project reports were given by Casey High, Dale Livengood, and Jason Stoltzfus.

Seven new members signed up, bringing the club membership to 30.

Gloucester 4-H Leaders

The Gloucester County 4-H will be holding a Horse Show and Craft Show at the Gloucester County 4-H Fairgrounds, Mullica Hill, N.J., on Sunday, April 9.

Both shows are open to the public, there is no admission fee, and there is plenty of free parking. Refreshment stands will be open all day.

Three pavilions are available for crafters, and reservations will be taken until March 30.

If you are a crafter and would be interested in attending this show, contact the 4-H office for reservation form at (609) 863-0007.

Goschenhoppen Art Show

GREENLANE (Montgomery Co.)— Featured in an exhibit of local art in Green Lane, Montgomery County, will be long-gone Pennsylvania German houses, barns and farmsteads now under the waters of the Green Lane Reservoir, covered bridges replaced in the name of progress and bucolic rural landscapes of the Upper Perkiomen Valley disappearing to development. The art work gathered for this exhibit will present a view of the Goschenhoppen Region entitled, "Goschenhoppen—Through the Artist's Eye."

Pen and ink sketches, paintings, lithographs, carved dioramas and free-standing models will depict Goschenhoppen as it was long ago. Contemporary artists, as well as works of art from the last century, will blend into a unique exhibit of this diverse folk region known as "Goschenhoppen."

Art as a form of preservation becomes the premise of the exhibit.

It will be held at the Historians' headquarters, Red Men's Hall on Route 29 in Green Lane. It opens March 24, 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. with an artist's reception for which a special entrance fee is requested. Open for the nex five weekends (except Easter Sunday), the exhibit will conclude on April 30. Saturday hours arc 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Sunday hours are 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. An admission will be charged. By appointment, groups of ten or more may view the art exhibit on week days. Call Jean Stahl (215) 234-8108.

Within this exhibit will be the initial public showing of the Calvin Ruth paintings of local architecture, sixteen of which are owned by the Goschenhoppen Historians. Mr. Ruth, a life-long artist and retired teacher of art in the Quakertown Schools and the Perkiomen School, has captured Goschenhoppen structures and scenes prior to their recent modernization. This collection formed the inspiration for and will anchor the exhibit.

Also presented will be works of Julia Longacre, Kay Ross, Leonard Hillegass, Kay Lichty, and David Thomas, all well-known artists in the region. Several paintings by Walter E. Baum and Wayne H. Rothenberger will be included in the exhibit.

The Goschenhoppen folk region can be defined loosely as the Upper Perkiomen Creek watershed of northern Montgomery County but extending slightly into the neighboring corners of Berks, Lehigh and Bucks Counties. Colonial maps and diaries of the past clearly identify this region. It remains one of the few identifiable living folk regions from the eighteenth century. As the Goschenhoppen Historians' reason d'etre is the preservation and presentation of local folk culture and history to the public, the art exhibit entitled, "Goschenhoppen—Through the Artist's Eye" follows that mission.

For general information call (215) 234-8953.

A Calvin Ruth painting of Harley Hotel is being placed for the opening of an art show at Red Men's Hall in Green Lane. Presented by the Goschenhoppen Historians, the show will feature the region from an historical point of view. Harley Hotel on Fourth Street, Pennsburg, was known in the 1800s as the American House. In 1900, it was renamed Harley Hotel by a new purchaser, Horace Harley.

Cedar Crest FFA Participates in State Record Book Contest

On January 10-11, the State FFA Record Book Contest was held at University Park.

More than 410 of the best record books from Pennsylvania were entered. The judges scored the books on accuracy, completeness, and neatness. Here are the Cedar Crest results: Dairy Herd—3rd Jeff Zimmerman (Gold Medal), 5th Stacy Krall (Silver Medal); Sheep Breeding—5th Wendy Atkins (Gold Medal); Sheep Finishing—21st Jon Harnish (Bronze Medal); Beef Breeding—7th Jon Harnish (Silver Medal); Beef Finishing—1st Jamie Risser (Gold Medal); Corn-Grain—1st Andy Martin (Gold Medal); Soybeans—1st Jon Harnish (Silver Medal); Greenhouse—1st Heather Orner (Gold Medal); On-Farm-Work-Experience—6th Keith Wartluft (Gold Medal), 8th Wendy Atkins (Gold Medal), 14th Jacob Frazier (Gold Medal), 58th Mike Hostetter (Bronze Medal); Practicum Skills—1st Chuck Aurentz (Gold Medal), 2nd Andy Martin (Gold Medal), 5th Bill Smeltzer (Silver Medal); and Junior Books—1st Ryan Gates (Silver Medal).

Maryland FFA Member Wins 'Up With Agriculture' Contest

Agricultural education and FFA activities help make students more valuable employees and business owners/operators, according to David O'Hara, 16, of Frederick, Md., state winner in FFA New Horizons Magazine's "Up With Agriculture" Writing Contest.

O'Hara received $50 as the state winner. The chapter advisers are Tom Hawthorne and Tonjia Mayne.

More than 1,300 students competed in this year's contest. According to Chad Hammerschmidt, 18, of DeRidder, La., FFA has been "instrumental in my understanding of land stewardship." Hammerschmidt's essay was chosen as the national first-place winner.

For 16-year-old Lyndy Paske of Lamesa, Texas, FFA and agricultural education develops both independence and interdependence. She cites initiative and teamwork as two skills that FFA has fostered in her.

National third-place winner Katie Rein, 15, of Big Timber, Montana, believes a valuable employee or business owner must possess leadership, responsibility, time management skills, and a cooperative spirit.

Nathaniel Allen found "individual responsibility, initiative, and self-confidence all qualities I have enhanced through my FFA projects." The 18-year-old Ontario, Oregon, resident placed fourth in the national contest.

BIG DUTCHMAN BROILER SYSTEMS

It's interesting that some Poultry Producers who would never buy the cheapest tractor in the lot will buy the cheapest equipment for their birds. If you want equipment that lasts, that costs little to maintain but delivers a lot in every workday, you want what Producers all across the country have already discovered: Big Dutchman, the "Mark of Excellence" and Hershey Equipment, Co. "A Step Ahead". You can always find cheaper equipment. But these days, who can afford it?

Scrapie Meeting

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Sheep producers with questions and concerns regarding scrapie are invited to attend an information session at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center on Monday, March 20 at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Deborah Hawkins, veterinary medical officer with USDA/APHIS, will address the scrapie topic and answer producers' questions.

In the August 29, 1994 Federal Register, FDA proposed a rule to prohibit specified offal from adult (more than 12 months of age) sheep and goats for use in ruminant feed. FDA proposed this action because the specified offal might possibly contain the agent that causes scrapie, a sheep disease associated with the occurrence of bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE). Because FDA cannot positively rule out a direct association between scrapie, BSE, and human disease, FDA proposed this action to protect the health of animals and humans.

The occurrence of BSE in cattle has not been shown to cause disease in humans. On the other hand, the possibility of a causal relationship has not been disproved. BSE has not been diagnosed in the United States. However, sheep scrapie is present in the U.S. Therefore, FDA believes that the potential implications for human as well as animal health require regulatory action to minimize the possibility for the introduction of the disease into U.S. cattle.

Super All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

Income Opportunities Workshop Set

KEEDYSVILLE, Md.—The Cooperative Extension Services of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and the Small Business Development Center are pleased to announce their Fifth Annual Income Opportunities for Rural Areas Workshop.

The annual event brings together landowners and producers throughout the region to meet with experts in many nontraditional natural resource and farm based enterprises. Whether you are a producer seeking new opportunities to diversify or are just now exploring the many ventures available in starting a land based business, this workshop is the place to be.

Topices this year include trout production, home wool processing and marketing, organic farming, ostriches and emus, bait fish, woody materials for cut flowers, paws paws, medicinal plants, and much more.

The program will be held on Saturday, April 8, at the Garrett Community College in McHenry, Maryland overlooking Deep Creek Lake from 8:30 a.m. to 3:35 p.m. Cost of the workshop is $22 per person and includes break beverages, lunch, and all printed materials.

For registration forms and information, call the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service at (301) 334-1990 or check with your local cooperative extension service office. Preregistration is required.

Ludwig Recognized As Forest Steward

NEWMANSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Edmund S. Ludwig was recognized recently as a forest steward.

Donald P. Oaks, district forester for the Bureau of Forestry, Department of Environmental Resources, presented the award at Ludwig's property.

Being designated as a forest steward is an honor reserved for forest landowners who have made a commitment to managing their forest resources to ensure their health and productivity for years to come.

Donald P. Oaks, district forester for the Weiser Forest District of the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources Bureau of Forestry, said Ludwig started the process of becoming a forest steward by having a forest stewardship prepared by Barry Rose, a forestry consultant from Lawn. The Weiser Forest District covers Carbon, Dauphin, Lebanon, Lehigh, and Schuylkill counties.

Paul Troutman, service forester for Dauphin and Lebanon counties, said Ludwig has been managing his 260-acre forest for water production, timber, wildlife, and recreation.

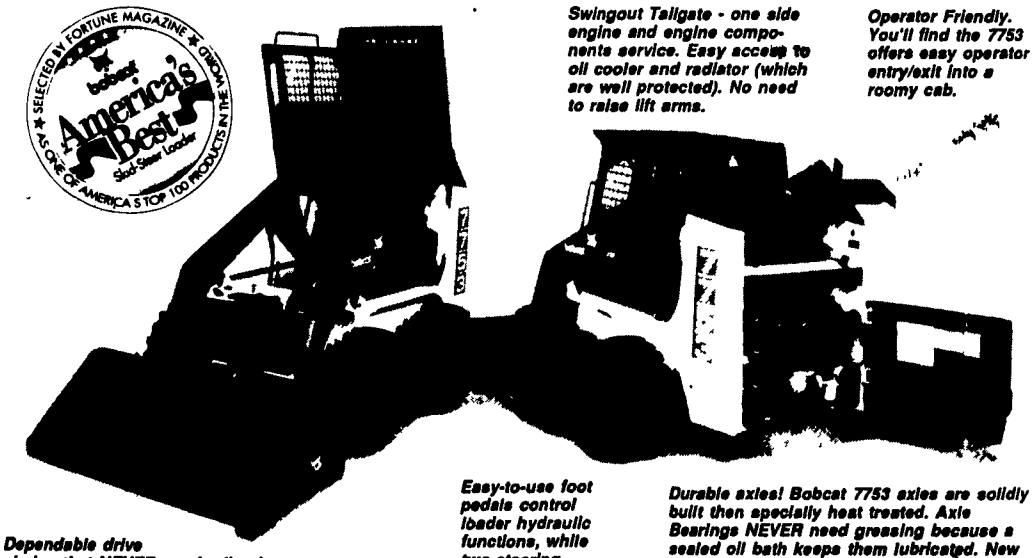
Bobcat 7753 Long-Wheelbase Skid-Steer Loader

It's What's Inside That Counts!



Swingout Tailgate - one side engine and engine components service. Easy access to oil cooler and radiator (which are well protected). No need to raise lift arms.
Operator Friendly. You'll find the 7753 offers easy operator entry/exit into a roomy cab.
Dependable drive chains that NEVER need adjusting. The "bow tie" design uses prestressed, heavy-duty drive chains in two short continuous loops per side. That means long-life in the most rugged use and NO periodic, time-consuming drive chain adjustments.
Easy-to-use foot pedals control loader hydraulic functions, while two steering levers allow precise maneuverability.
Durable axles! Bobcat 7753 axles are solidly built then specially heat treated. Axle Bearings NEVER need greasing because a sealed oil bath keeps them lubricated. New axle hub design protects axle seal from damage from wire or twine. Hub is easily removed if service is required.

Experience America's Best.
Melroe company has over 30 years of skid-steer loader experience — longer than anyone else. That's one of the reasons Fortune Magazine has twice recognized the Bobcat loader as one of the 100 products "America Builds Best."

Reliable Components.
Other than a few daily checks and fills, you can rely on the PERFORMANCE of the 7753 Bobcat. It has been designed and built with durability and low maintenance in mind.

Great Serviceability!
The Bobcat 7753 has been designed to be serviced quickly. For example, there's single-side access to the transversely-mounted engine, a lift-out oil cooler for easy cleaning and a tip-up cab to expose hydraulic and hydrostatic compon-entry. For repairs, the exclusive BOSS® System can help quickly diagnose system problems. These features, along with a factory-trained service technicians and "top-shelf" parts availability, mean your loader can be back on the job in no time.

TOTAL HAND CONTROL!
Dealer-Installed Option!

- Easy Wrist-Action Control.
- Push-Button Auxiliary Hydraulics For Total Hand Control. (Available only on 50 Series loaders. 40 Series loaders utilize foot pedal to activate auxiliary hydraulics.)
- Easy-Grip Handle.

RESEARCH EFFORTS TO REDUCE BABY PIG LOSSES

Ronald S. Kensinger
Associate Professor
Animal Nutrition/ Physiology

Defining The Problem

During the past decade, my laboratory group has studied various aspects of mammary development and regulation of milk synthesis in the sow mammary gland. Much of this research was rather fundamental in nature, meaning that we have learned a lot about changes in important cells and molecules within the mammary glands which must occur for successful lactation.

Last year, however, we initiated an exciting research project to learn more about the underlying causes of lactation failure in swine herds. In a state with such a large dairy industry, it may not be obvious that adequate milk production is essential for efficient production of all livestock species, including swine. The issue is best illustrated with the following statistics:

• Sows give birth to an average of 10 live pigs per litter, yet wean only about eight. This loss is very significant given that a swine producer has already invested the rearing costs through puberty and the maintenance cost of that sow's pregnancy by the time the pigs are born. To remain in the swine production business in an increasingly difficult market, producers must save every pig possible.

• Baby pigs can die from a number of different causes, but most relate to the initial milk production of the sow. Each pig is born with very little energy stored in its body. In fact, it has only a small fraction of the energy stored as fat compared to what can be found in a newborn calf or human infant. And since pigs have little hair covering their bodies, they must receive energy quickly after birth to maintain body temperature or they will become chilled and die. This energy comes in the form of colostrum, or first milk, produced by the sow at farrowing. The energy in the colostrum provides a second equally important function to the pigs — the energy to keep them mentally alert and to power their skeletal muscles so they can get out of the way when Mom decides to lay down. Failure to get out of the way leads to a problem known as "flat pig syndrome" — a euphemism for being crushed by the sow. It is true in these cases that the death was caused by the physical trauma, but the real cause likely was insufficient milk production by the sow.

• A third essential function of the energy in colostrum is that it provides the newborn pigs with energy to keep suckling. These pigs will generally suckle about once every hour, and there may be considerable fighting to get to the most desirable teats. Often, a small pig will lose several fights before it can find an available teat. Since the process of milk let-down in a sow is very brief, a piglet must find an available teat quickly or miss a meal.

• Colostrum and milk provide at least a dozen other important attributes for baby mammals, too many to describe here. However, a key characteristic of colostrum is that it is loaded with maternal antibodies which are absorbed intact into the baby pig's bloodstream. This is another fascinating feat designed by Mother Nature to provide newborn mammals with a ready "package of protection" against foreign particles present in a particular environment. Armed with sufficient antibodies and energy, all derived from colostrum, a newborn pig can make the rough transition to life outside its mother. For a number of different reasons, the sow may not provide baby pigs with enough colostrum to get through this transitional period. The underlying causes of insufficient colostrum and milk production are the focus of our research.

What Causes Lactation Failure?

Lactation failure really is any problem leading to insufficient milk production by the sow that results in pigs that fail to thrive. Lactation failure was previously described as the mastitis/metritis/agalactia syndrome, or MMA.

Recently, it has become clear that lactation failure can often occur in cases where there is no evidence of mastitis or metritis. What is clear is that there can be many causes of this important production problem. Some sows may complete the process of farrowing and simply lose the ability to secrete oxytocin from special tissue at the base of the brain. Because stress can interfere with oxytocin release, the trauma associated with farrowing may prevent the sow from releasing the oxytocin that is present, which means she will not release the milk stored in the alveolar units of her mammary glands.

Many producers have found an injection of oxytocin a day or two after farrowing to be very helpful in establishing milk flow. Once the pigs get a few meals, they are more likely to be more vigorous in massaging the udder to induce the sow to release her own oxytocin. This stress-induced failure to secrete oxytocin can occur in cases where there is no evidence of infection in the sow.

A second potential cause of lactation failure is an insufficient rate of secretion of prolactin due to the presence of an infection in the sow. We know that certain infections (such as mastitis) can cause lactation failure, but we do not often know when these occur, and we do not know how frequently insufficient prolactin secretion is involved.

A third potential cause of lactation failure may be low prolactin secretion in the absence of any infectious agent. Literature shows low serum prolactin in sows which did not produce milk very well, but the cause of this problem is unknown. The trial which we are performing here at Penn State is a collaborative experiment in which we are trying to establish the frequency of different causes of lactation failure in swine herds.

The Penn State Study

With the help of two veterinarians, Robert Graybill (Lancaster) and Peggy Hawkins (Elizabethtown), we are collecting samples from various Pennsylvania farms. Mike Miller, vice president of swine operations at White Oak Mills, has allowed us to work with their sows. The objective of the research is to identify the frequency with which the problems described above occur.

To perform this work, we must identify litters of struggling pigs, obtain blood from the sow within 15 minutes of a nursing episode, and — for comparison purposes — also obtain blood from a healthy herdmate in the same room. We will determine the concentrations of oxytocin, prolactin, and cytokines in the samples collected. The cytokines we will measure are substances released from white blood cells of animals when the body has been invaded anywhere by a foreign substance. The findings will tell us if, in fact, some infection is present. This information can then be used to design more effective management strategies to both prevent and treat these problems.

We need survey data from large numbers of cases to know the frequencies of the different causes, because the approach to solve the problem will be different, depending on the specific cause of the problem.

Potential Benefits To Producers

What is the value of this work? The first benefit is the ability to wean a larger number of pigs per farrowing group, which can lead to increased sales of feeder pigs or market weight hogs. The second tangible benefit is the dilution of overhead costs associated with weaning a larger number of pigs per sow maintained.

In addition to these economic benefits, lower death losses in the farrowing room will promote an improved public image of the pork producing industry. And any pork producer would be delighted to save more baby pigs.

This research project has already been rewarding. It would not be successful were it not for the extensive cooperation received from Penn State Swine Extension Specialist Ken Kephart, and from Lorraine Sordillo and Larry Hutchinson (Penn State's Department of Veterinary Science). The trial was initiated with funds from the National Pork Producers Council and the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council. It will be continued with funds from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Farm Safety Project Set

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — Phil Rzewnicki and William Hosler of Huntingdon County Extension Office announced that Huntingdon County will be participating in a pilot farm safety project.

Farming continues to be one of the most hazardous occupations in the United States. At least 48 persons in Pennsylvania were killed from farm work accidents during 1993.

The pilot safety project has the support of several major farm organizations and state agricultural leaders including the Pennsylvania State Grange, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, and Pennsylvania Farmers Union.

The purpose of this pilot project is to explore methods of farm safety and health education by examining different educational approaches from the summer of 1995 through the fall of 1997. The results of this project are expected to provide direction to those interested in determining how to reduce farm accidents in the future.

Farmers in Huntingdon County will be hearing more about this project over the next few months.

Perdue Grain Purchases Speciality Feed Company

SALISBURY, Md.—Perdue Farms has expanded its animal feed business by purchasing the assets of A.J. Balshi Inc. of Catawissa, Pa. At the same time, Perdue announced formation of a new operating company, Perdue Specialty Feeds Inc., within its grain division.

Financial details of the acquisition were not disclosed. Operations will continue without interruption.

Perdue Specialty Feeds Inc. will manufacture and sell quality aquaculture feed for commercial use. "This new business will enhance our position in trading and production of feed ingredients to serve diverse agribusiness customers," said Dick Willey, vice president and general manager of the Perdue grain and oilseed division. The division operations include several other non-poultry businesses, including an edible oil refinery.

HEAT STRESS CAUSES THIN-SHELLED EGGS

Carol V. Gay
Professor Of Biochemistry And Molecular Biology And Poultry Science

There are two important buffering systems in the body that maintain body fluids at near neutral pH. One is based on phosphate and the other on bicarbonate. The latter system is utilized in a clever way by birds to form eggshells.

The origin of bicarbonate ($HCO3^-$) is from carbon dioxide (CO_2), which arises as a consequence of metabolism of sugar, mainly glucose. Glucose, which is derived from complex carbohydrates in the diet, is broken down to release energy for metabolism. Carbon dioxide is also formed as a consequence of glucose breakdown.

Carbon dioxide is of course a gas, but gas doesn't build up in tissues. Instead, CO_2 is converted into bicarbonate which dissolves into the body fluids. Within the lungs CO_2 reforms and is exhaled as a gas.

In the shell gland where the eggshell is made, bicarbonate is converted into carbonate ($CO_3^=$), and this substance is secreted along with calcium ions (Ca^{++}) onto the shell membranes which cover the albumin, or egg white. The shell membrane catalyzes the precipitation of calcium carbonate crystals to form the eggshell. Bicarbonate, carbonate, and carbon dioxide exist in specific proportions and are readily interconverted. Consequently, changing the level of one will influence the concentration of the others in the body fluids.

Under normal circumstances, bicarbonate is maintained at the correct level in body fluid because the breathing rate is just right to remove CO_2 at the same rate as it forms within the body. Eggshell formation taps into this CO_2/bicarbonate/carbonate buffering system. Changing the composition of the buffering system can profoundly affect eggshell formation. For example, if hens are subjected to heat stress, they will attempt to cool down by panting. CO_2 will be exhaled at a more rapid rate than it is being produced. As a consequence, total body CO_2 is decreased and eggshells become thin and fragile.

Cost Sharing For Conservation Available

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) The Chester County Conservation District is administering the Pennsylvania Agricultural Non-Point Source Pollution Abatement Program's Financial Assistance Program in the Chester County portions of the Octoraro Creek and Elk Creek watersheds.

The sign-up period for this program is March 13 through April 10. Landowner participation in this program is on a voluntary basis.

The financial assistance program is a cost-sharing program to help landowners with the expense of controlling critical agricultural nutrient and erosion problems by installing nutrient management and conservation practices on their farms during a period of one to three years. The maximum cost-share rates available are eighty percent (80 percent) of the costs for certain practices and are not to exceed $30,000 per landowner.

The ultimate goal of the program is to reduce the amount of nitrogen, phosphorous, and sediment entering the Chesapeake Bay through its many tributaries, as agricultural runoff was determined as a contributing source of those nutrients and sediment. However, local benefits will also be realized, from elimination of gullies in fields and more complete utilization of nutrients on the farm, to increased quality of local streams and reduced risk of contamination of our groundwater.

Some of the basic eligibility requirements for the financial assistance program are as follows:

•Must be a landowner in the Chester County portions of the Octoraro Creek or Elk Creek Watersheds.

•Must have a critical nutrient and/or soil erosion problem(s) on the farm in these Watersheds.

•Must be a "cooperator" with the Chester County Conservation District. (If not, please request an application form from the district.)

•Must be willing to enter into a one to three year agreement designed to solve the critical nutrient and/or soil erosion problems in the farm and maintain the agreed upon practices for a 10-year period.

•Must be willing to follow a nutrient management plan prepared by a district-approved agronomic consultant for the 10-year period.

Signing up for the financial assistance program does not guarantee approval in the program. Only those landowners with serious nutrient and/or soil erosion problems will be evaluated by a technical assessment and needs determination of the farm completed by the staff of the Chester County Conservation District and the Natural Resource Conservation Service. Final eligibility determination will be made by the Chester County Conservation District board of directors. Eligibility may also be postponed because of limited funds.

For further information, contact Steve Thompson, Chesapeake Bay resource conservationist, or Dan Grieg, district manager, at (610) 696-5126 or 436-9182, or visit the office.

Case IH Dealership Reports Milestone

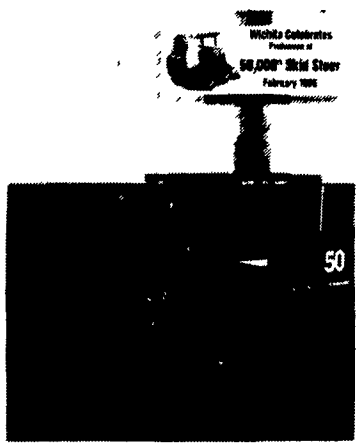
LITITZ (Lancaster Co.)—Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. reported that Case Corporation recently completed production of the 50,000th Wichita-built Uni-Loader® skid steer.

The 56-horsepower model 1845C, which was specially decaled to commemorate the production milestone, was immediately delivered to long-time skid-steer customer Conco, Inc., of Wichita, Kan.

The customer who bought the 50,000th skid steer built his business around the 1845 because it's reliable. The company traded in its first unit after 12 years and 12,000 hours according to Binkley & Hurst.

Binkley & Hurst noted that the Wichita-built skid steers are sold into applications beyond construction and credited the agricultural market for playing a key role in the product's success.

The Case Uni-Loader® skid-steer product line includes six models—the 1818, 1825, 1835C, 1838, 1840 and 1845C—ranging from 18 to 56 net horsepower (13 to 42kW), with operating load ratings from 600 to 1700 pounds (272 to 771 kg).



This specially decaled, 56-horsepower model 1845C is the 50,000th Uni-Loader® skid steer produced by Case Corporation at its plant in Wichita, Kan. The 1845C is one of six skid-steer models ranging from 18 to 56 net horsepower manufactured by Case.

In addition to Uni-Loader skid steers, Binkley & Hurst Bros. offers award-winning Case IH Magnum™, Maxxum®, and general-purpose tractors; tillage, planting, and seeding; and hay and forage equipment.

Combine Has More Cleaning Area

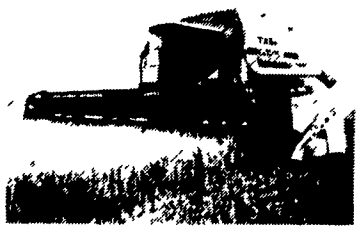
NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.)—The new Model TX™68 Super Conventional Class VII New Holland combine is powered by a 300 HP 9.5L engine.

Like the Class VI "TX™66" introduced in 1994, the new Super Conventional "TX68" has 30 percent more cleaning area than other conventional combines, said New Holland Combine Product manager Brian Martin.

Grain tank capacity has been increased to 300 bushels with fast unloading to provide outstanding daily harvesting capacity.

The new "TX68" uses conventional threshing with a rotary separator that removes nearly all the grain from the straw ahead of the straw walkers. The new combine also has a self-leveling shoe that automatically compensates for sidehill slopes, Martin said.

Automatic lateral float option senses header height without ground contact. Using an ultrasonic sensing system, the header can be operated close to ground level to shave off low-hanging crops. "You can run as low as you need to and not worry about burying the header in the dirt," Martin said.



The New Holland Super Conventional Model TX™68 combine is powered by a 300 HP 9.5L engine. Grain tank capacity is 300 bushels. Cleaning area of New Holland Super Conventional combines is 30 percent larger than other conventional combines.

This feature is especially valuable for nighttime operation when it isn't easy to see header height and the ground.

Standard features include electro-hydraulic engagement for the thresher, header, unloading auger fold out and unloading auger engagement. An electronic monitoring system keeps the operator in touch with all combine operations.

Milk Goat Association To Meet

TELFORD (Montgomery Co.) The Delaware Valley Milk Goat Association will be holding its next meeting on Sunday, April 2 at 1:30 p.m. here at Little Rockspring Farm. Ann Miller, a licensed dairy goat judge, will be doing a seminar on goat typing. She will explain how to evaluate your dairy goat's conformation, how to find their strong and weak points, and how to show them to their best advantage.

Anyone with an interest in goats is welcome. Refreshments will be served. For more information, please call (215) 234-0732.

Dekalb Releases New Seed

DEKALB, Ill. — Dekalb Genetics Corporation announced that it is releasing 25 new seed products for sale to farmers in the United States.

The new products include 12 new corn hybrids, nine new soybean varieties, three new sorghum hybrids, and one new alfalfa variety. Included in these new releases are three products offering herbicide resistance.

Dekalb is offering two corn hybrids that have been bred with resistance to sethoxydim, a grass herbicide sold under the brand name Poast®. EPA approval of over-the-top applications of Poast® on sethoxydim-resistant (SR™) corn hybrids is pending, However, growers can use drop-nozzle applications of Poast® on fields planted to these SR hybrids in spring 1995.

Dekalb is also releasing a soybean variety that offers enhanced tolerance to sulfonylureas such as Synchrony® (STS™) herbicide.

These hybrids and varieties are products of the company's increased research initiative to being farmers more planting options in many maturity zones with higher yield potential and improved defensive characteristics.

Corn

• DK 385 is an extremely high-yielding 88 RM (90 RM in Minnesota), early flowering hybrid. Its excellent emergence and fast growth rate make it an ideal choice for conservation tillage.

• DK 412 is a high-yielding 91 RM (95 in Minnesota) hybrid which consistently performs under tough conditions. DK 412 is an excellent hybrid for grain or silage in the Northern Corn Belt.

• DK 546 is a 104 RM high-yielding corn which finishes fast with very good grain quality. This widely adapted hybrid is a very good choice for conservation tillage.

• DK 616 is a 111 RM hybrid with top-end yield potential that performs well under various soil types and climatic conditions.

• DK 629 is a 113 RM hybrid which offers high yields in addition to Corn Lethal Necrosis (CLN) resistance.

• DK 634 is a 113 RM high yielding hybrid with emergence and early-season growth characteristics making it an excellent choice for conservation or no-till.

• DK 676 is a high yielding 117 RM hybrid adapted to take advantage of irrigation. DK 676 exhibits plant health, staygreen, grain quality and test weight ideally suited for intensive management and irrigated situations.

• 605F is a high-yielding 110 RM hybrid with excellent test weight grain. Its good emergence and seedling vigor allow for early planting under many conditions.

• DK 404SR is a widely adapted 90 RM hybrid that delivers top yields and was specifically developed to have resistance to the herbicide Poast®. It may be used where weeds such as wooly cupgrass, wild proso millet, and shattercane may be a problem. This hybrid exhibits an excellent total package of desirable offensive and defensive traits.

• DK 592SR is a 109 RM hybrid with top-end yield potential that performs well under various soil types and climatic conditions. It was specifically developed to have resistance to the herbicide Poast®. It can be used where weeds such as wooly cupgrass, wild proso millet and shattercane may be a problem.

• DK 512WX is a 102 RM (105 in Minnesota) hybrid with exceptional yield potential under top management conditions. This waxy hybrid delivers consistent performance across soil types and management conditions. DK 512WX has very good plant health and is adapted to all tillage methods and crop rotations.

• DK 580WX is a 108 RM waxy hybrid with excellent yield for its maturity and excellent dry-down. DK 580WX also has very good stalks, roots and resistance to major foliar diseases. DK 580WX is an excellent choice for grain.

Soybeans

• CX 046 is a mid-Group O variety that can be planted in fields of high pH, due to its excellent tolerance to iron deficiency chlorosis. CX 046 is an excellent choice for no-till drilled fields. It has very good emergence and seedling vigor which will adapt it to a variety of tillage and row-width practices.

• CX 145 is a mid-Group I soybean that will deliver high yield on your best soils, including no-till acres. To maximize yield potential place this variety on well-drained soils where high pH or Phytophthora root rot are not a significant problem.

• CX 173 is a mid-Group I variety that has moderate tolerance to iron deficiency chlorosis, and multi-race resistance to Phytophthora root rot. This variety will adapt to all row widths and soil types. Its quick emergence and good standability make CX 173 an excellent choice for no-till drill.

• CX 278 is a late-Group II variety with good standability. It has the Rps1c allele for Phytophthora resistance. CX 278 has exhibited very good tolerance to iron chlorosis under high pH conditions in Iowa and Nebraska.

• CX 289 is a late-Group II variety with very good standability. It has the Rps1c allele for Phytophthora resistance. CX 289 has good tolerance to brown stem rot. Emergence and seedling vigor make this variety an excellent choice for no-till. It is adapted to all row widths.

• CX 351 is a very attractive mid-Group III variety with high yield and very good standability. Excellent emergence and multi-race Phytophthora resistance make this a variety adaptable to a variety of tillage practices and row widths.

• CX 360 has enhanced tolerance to sulfonylurea herbicides (STS™). STS provides additional herbicide management options. To optimize performance of CX 360, the variety should be placed in fields that are to be sprayed with sulfonylurea herbicides.

• CX 368 offers high yield potential for farmers who plant mid-Group III soybeans and need excellent Phytophthora resistance. This variety will adapt to all row widths and soil types. Its quick emergence and good standability make CX 368 an excellent choice for no-till drill.

• CX 499c is a late-Group IV cyst resistant variety, maturing three days later than CX 469c. CX 499c is tolerant of Phytophthora and has good tolerance to Sudden Death Syndrome. It is adapted to all row widths, including solid seeded/drilled. Good emergence and seedling vigor make this variety an excellent choice for no-till.

Sorghum

• DK 27 is an early maturity bronze hybrid that combines strong seedling emergence with early vigor. It features excellent root strength, post-freeze standability and biotype E Greenbug resistance for top yields in its maturity. It performs well for short-season areas or as a double crop farther south.

• DK 36 has high-yield potential for its medium early maturity. Uniquely adapted to central and south Texas, this hybrid flowers early to avoid heat stress and early season midge pressure. The package of excellent standability, resistance to head smut, MDMV and biotype E Greenbugs plus yield will make this hybrid a favorite.

• DK 45 offers wide adaptation in both the western and eastern Great Plains. This medium-maturity bronze hybrid has a good seed size with very good emergence, seedling vigor and biotype E Greenbug resistance. Best of all, DK 45 has high yield potential from one tough hybrid.

Alfalfa

• DK 127 is a new multi-leaf variety with a fall dormancy rating of 3. High yields, exceptional winterhardiness, high resistance to Aphanomyces root rot and fast recovery after cutting should make this premium alfalfa popular with dairy farmers and commercial hay growers from coast to coast.

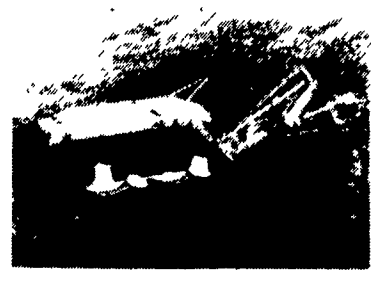
Re-Engineered Cutterbar At Heart Of Mower

VERNON, N.Y. A new model multidisc mower, the GMD 400, has been released as an addition to the GMD "100" Series product line of multidisc mowers from Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc. and Kuhn S.A., Saverne, France.

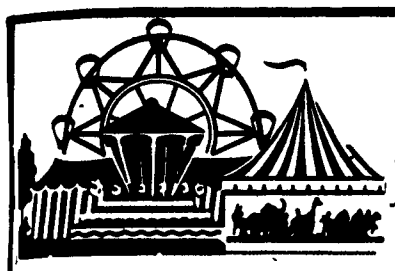
The GMD 400 incorporates all the new and advanced features of the "100" Series with a working width of cut of 5 feet 3 inches (1.60m) and will be available with hydraulic or mechanical lift mechanism.

At its heart is a completely re-engineered cutterbar. Rigid and low profile, its design eliminates all sharp angles where soil or crop residue could accumulate. Cut grass flows freely over the cutterbar, even in dense crops. Discs are optimally placed so that the knife overlap cuts clean under all conditions.

The GMD 400 is also more durable and easier to maintain. Discs, disc guards, and skids are made of surface-hardened steel for maximum wear resistance. Discs are bolted on their drive hubs for easy removal. Disc bearing stations, with wide dimension pinions and bearings, can be easily removed from above.



The GMD 400 incorporates all the new and advanced features of the "100" Series with a working width of cut of 5 feet 3 inches (1.60m) and will be available with hydraulic or mechanical lift mechanism.



Fair Happenings

Schnecksville Community Fair will be held at Schnecksville Fire Company, Route 309, Schnecksville, June 20-24.

The community fair is sponsored by Schnecksville Community Fair Association. The fireworks will be held on Friday evening. The theme this year is "A Circus Of Country Fun."

One of the main attractions will be a circus model display by the "David Deacon Blanchfield Ring #86" of the Circus Model Builders International. This free attraction will be displayed under a big top.

In conjunction with the circus display, this year's fair will feature a circus parade on Saturday, June 24 at 5:30 p.m. Another free attraction will be Carla Wallenda, with up to three performances daily.

The fair provides free entertainment for the young and old. Some of the attractions nightly include Yiengst Magic Circus, Master of the Chainsaw, Old Time Plow Boys (antique tractor display), animal exhibits, craft show, petting zoo, Lollipop The Clown, and more. Nightly entertainment includes "Sierra Band" on Tuesday, Tommy Shaffer & The Blue Mountain Ramblers on Wednesday, Crusin Route 3 on Thursday, Midnight Special on Friday, and the Jesse Wade Gang on Saturday.

The fair will include rides by Nonweiler Amusements, games, many food concessions, pony rides, bingo, grange exhibits, Lehigh County 4-H Animals (sheep, pigs, steers, and goats), and more. Famous Pennsylvania Dutch dinner platters are served nightly in the fire hall.

Premium books will be available for pick up at the Schnecksville Fire Company on or about April 24 for entering your items into the fair.

The fair is booking spaces for the craft tent. The spaces are 10 feet wide x 6 feet deep for $55 per space. Electricity is available at no additional charge. Any craftpersons interested in an application or additional information, contact Karl Haas at (610) 799-2609 after 5 p.m. weekdays or anytime on weekends.

The Schnecksville Community Fair Association is seeking businesses, organizations, or individuals to help sponsor the 12th Annual Schnecksville Community Fair.

Last year's fair attendance was more than 25,000 people. The Schnecksville Fair is the largest event in rural Lehigh County.

For more information or brochure on sponsorship opportunities, please contact Beverly at (610) 767-5026 or make your check payable to Schnecksville Community Fair, P.O. Box 287, Schnecksville, PA 18078. All proceeds benefit the Schnecksville Community Fire Company.

EARLY ORDER DISCOUNT

CENTERLINE BIG BAGGER

7' - 8' - 9' 10' Diameter

Design Permits Bagging Twice as Fast as other Models

Puts up to 15% more in the bag than bottom-pack units

Packs more punch from the center ... with less H.P. ... for tighter, more uniform bags of feed.

Note: One-man bag lift-loader and hydraulic cable rewind optional

Features...

- Wheels and tongue rotate to travel position
- Self-cleaning tunnel
- Cable up to 250'
- Rust-free chrome disc mechanical brake
- 540 or 1,000 rpm PTO • No hydraulics
- Mounted engines available
- Oil bath gearbox and drive chain
- #160 roller chain main rotor drive
- Safety first, V-belt-driven conveyor for side feeding. Front-load hopper available.
- Tongue centered for close bag spacing and road travel
- Up to 12' diameter by special order

What users report...

- "Produces a more even pack"
- "Up to 15% more feed in a bag"
- "Handles material with greater percentage of moisture."
- "Virtually eliminates 'juicing up' - as is experienced with bagging machines with rotors low to the ground to provide ground clearance."
- "Higher quality feed due to more even pack."
- "Machines with low mounted rotors must pack feedstuffs actually too tight in the lower area in order to get enough force to fill the bag at the top of the tunnel."
- "With a more even pack it's easier to remove the feedstuffs from the bag."

Silage Bags

- Triex Bonded Bags - White & Black
- Triex Bonded white 7', 8', 9', 10', 11' & 12 bags; length available 100'-275. Available w/24 months, 12 mo., and 90 day warranty
- Trench & Pit Covers
- Our silage bags fit all make machines

PLANNING FOR 1995 FEED STORAGE...
WILTED HAY...SILAGE...HI-MOISTURE GRAINS

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"The major costs on dairy and livestock farms are related to FEED: production - harvesting - storage - purchases - delivery to animals."

Significant savings in time and money are possible when you store and deliver your forage from a poured concrete silo, equipped with a Big Jim Distributor/ Unloader.

Protect your valuable forages from rain, sleet, snow, mud, ice and wind. Reduce the stress! Increase the efficiency of your feeds, labor, and livestock.

At SOLLENBERGER SILOS CORP. we know a lot about feed storage and handling... we've been in the business since 1908. If you are thinking about new or additional feed storage, give us a call. We'd like to contribute to your success.

NOTHING WORKS LIKE A SILO

TIRED OF LEAKING ROOFING? USE

WHEELING
Channeldrain
ROOFING & SIDING

Exclusive drain channel guards against wind, rain and snow...assures dryness.

1. Wide overlap: Increases strength and leak protection at each joint.
2. Wide nailing surface: Makes nailing easier and faster.
3. Drain channel: the exclusive leak-proof system that prevents capillary action; stays weather tight. This Wheeling feature has insured "dry barns" for thousands of farmers over the past 50 years.

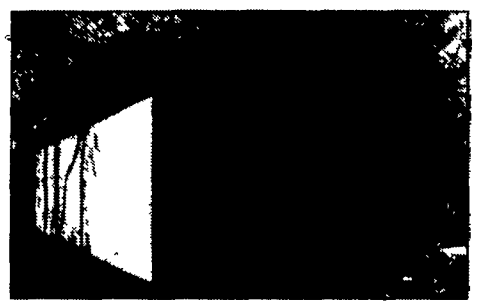
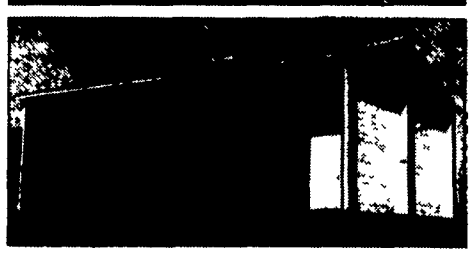
Side with Alumax ALU-TUFF Steel





When you put up a building, you expect it to be attractive and to last. A building constructed with ALU-TUFF will meet those expectations. That's because ALU-TUFF is made using top-quality materials, super-tough protective coatings, and a unique rib design that's both functional and attractive.

Years from now when other buildings are starting to show their age, your building will still look good.

- A STRONG PROFILE
  High 3/4-inch ribs on nine-inch centers give ALU-TUFF exceptionally high spanning properties for its weight and thickness, while stiffening ribs in flat areas prevent rippling.
- MADE TO LAST
  To keep Alu-Tuff working hard and looking good for years to come, we protect it with an oven-cured system of four different coatings.
- A GREAT LOOKING PANEL
  You don't have to sacrifice good looks to get a tough steel panel.
- MORE QUALITY FEATURES
  Each ALU-TUFF sheet is 38 inches wide to provide 36-inch coverage. That's wide enough to minimize the number of side laps, yet narrow enough to be easy to handle.

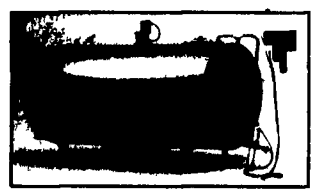
MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Offer

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment costs are not the only cost of cooling milk.

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31 000	$28 000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12 000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17 550	$22 850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48 550	$50 850
Savings	$ 2 300

INTRODUCING...
SWEETCAKE 16NU
FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages
- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy
- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef
- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

PENNSYLVANIA'S 22ND PERFORMANCE TESTED BULL SALE

FRIDAY, MARCH 31, 1995
AT PENN STATE'S AG ARENA

Only the top bulls from the respective herds were put on test. They are fully evaluated for ADG on test, lifetime WDA, adjusted 205- and 365-day weights. The bulls are ultrasonically scanned for backfat thickness and loin-eye area and are given a complete breeding soundness and semen exam. The bulls will have health papers to go anywhere. After the evaluation, the top two-thirds of the bulls will be offered. In the past, these bulls have been real herd-improving bargains. Current EPD's will be available.

WE DO THERMAL FOGGING

- Disinfects - Insecticide - Long Lasting Fog

Kills all types of beetles and insects in hard to reach areas that cause structural damage. We recommend fogging in addition to our regular spraying.

COMPLETE PEST CONTROL PROGRAM

Programs available for rodent, fly and beetle control. We can tailor a program to suit your needs. Don't let rats and mice eat your profits!

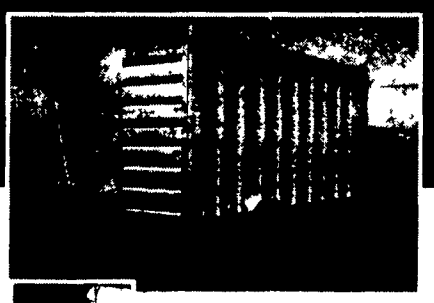
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

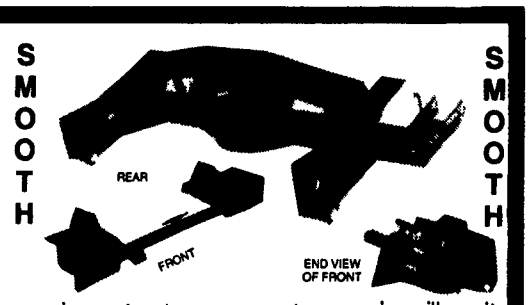
KELDERMAN AIR RIDE



Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system

Optional 12 volt compressor allows changing air pressure setting on the go.

Currently available for front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks. Available soon for Dodge Dakota models.

Also available for some Ford, Chevy and GMC truck models. Special orders available for most motor homes. This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/campin, trips.

Expand Dairy Horizons At Spring Spectacular

COLUMBUS, Ohio "Expand Your Dairy Horizons" is the theme for the eighth annual Ohio Spring Dairy Spectacular to be held April 6-8 at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

The emphasis for this year's Spectacular will be placed on youth. Each of the dairy breeds will be recognizing junior winners in the individual classes. In addition, there will be four classes of showmanship and a state 4-H and FFA dairy judging contest on Saturday, April 8. The contest will begin at 8:30 a.m. in Cooper Arena. This year's contest is also open to out-of-state teams.

Another youth oriented activity is the Buckeye Classic In Color sale. The 1995 edition of this annual sale is jointly hosted by the Buckeye Dairy Club of The Ohio State University and the Ohio Holstein Association. Club members, working with the Ohio Holstein Association's sale commitee, coordinate all aspects of the sale including selections, cataloging, advertising, clipping and clerking. The sale will feature outstanding Jersey consignments as well as Holsteins. The Buckeye Classic In Color will be held Friday, April 7 at 11 a.m. in the Quarter Horse Pavillion.

For adults as well as youth, the Spectacular will feature five dairy breed shows and two sales. The shows include the National Holstein Spring Show, the National Spring Ayrshire Show, the Ohio Jersey Show, the Ohio Brown Swiss Show, and the Ohio Guernsey Show. In addition to the Buckeye Classic, there will be a Brown Swiss sale on Thursday, April 6 beginning at 7 p.m. in the Quarter Horse Pavilion.

The show is open to breeders from across the United States and Canada. In 1994, the Ohio Spring Dairy Spectacular featured nearly 700 head of cattle from 10 different states and two Canadian provinces.

Entries for the dairy show can still be made until April 1 for $25 per head. After April 1, animals can be entered at $100 per head.

Judging this year's dairy shows will be two distinguished dairy cattle judges. Dave Wallace of Hubbardston, Mass. will be on hand to evaluate the Ayrshire and Jersey shows while Ontario, Canada native Ken Empy will be making the placings in the Holstein Brown Swiss and Guernsey shows.

There will also be a judging conference sponsored by the Ohio Purebred Dairy Cattle Association. The judging conference will be held Thursday, April 6 at 1 p.m. in Cooper Arena.

Other activities planned for the three day event include an opening luncheon sponsored by Mid East UDIA.

In addition to the cattle, sales, shows and judging conference and contest, the Spectacular will feature a trade show with more than 30 commercial exhibitors. Dairy industry suppliers, agribusiness firms, and educational programs will have displays.

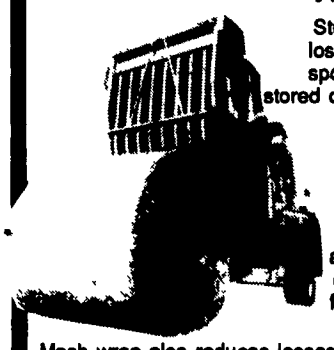
Mesh Wrap Attachment



Studies have shown that losses from handling and spoilage for a round bale stored outside can be as high as 30% more for a twine-wrapped bale as opposed to a bale wrapped with mesh. Mesh wrap serves as a barrier to moisture absorption. As a result, quality losses resulting from decomposition are reduced.

Mesh wrap also reduces losses during bale handling and transporting and because fewer turns are produced when wrapping versus tying with dual twine arms (2 to 2.5 wraps vs. 10 to 15 turns), there is significant savings in the time required to finish a bale.

The optional mesh wrap is available as a field-attachment for the following round balers.

- 8455 Tractor Hydraulic • 8465 AUTOMATIC
- 8465 Tractor Hydraulic • 8460 after Pin CFH0057418

FULL-FEATURED PERFORMER

The Case International 8340 mower conditioner offers you features in a 9 foot plus cutting width that you'd only expect to find as options, or on a larger more expensive machine.

Features like a heavy box-beam frame and tongue that you hydraulically position from the tractor. Quickly steer around field obstacles or switch between field and transport positions. Low maintenance describes the 1700-stroke per minute sickle. Sickle sections bolt-on for quick and convenient replacement.

A five-bat reel feeds the crop uniformly into the conditioning rolls. Rolls automatically separate to reduce the chance of plugging.

And there are even more features that make the Case International 8340 a truly deluxe high performance mower conditioner. Stop in and see them all.

Also 12' swing frame & self propelled machines in stock. Don't wait, save by seeing Binkley & Hurst before March 31.

GEHL Box Spreaders

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Has A Quality Gehl Spreader In Stock And Ready For Use Now At Economical Pricing!

Even when it's empty... it's loaded.

Low profile design means easy loading by skid loader front end loader or barn cleaner

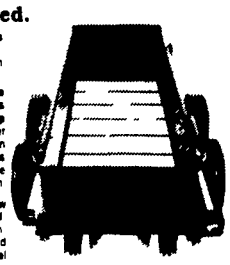
Double Galvanized steel sides are corrosion resistant for long life One-piece seamless construction won't catch material or leak

Gehl-Tuff Flooring prevents the apron from freezing to the floor allowing manure to slide out with little resistance Less apron pull means less wear and tear on drives and apron chains One piece construction won't flex under heavy loads

Optional hydraulic endgate rests in front of the beater paddles to secure sloppy loads and keep heaped material out of the beater unit you're ready to spread An available rear pan reduces spills in the yard or roadway while enhancing the spread distribution

Extra-strong, T-bar apron chains with an average tensile strength of over 23 500 pounds keep the biggest loads moving

Oscillating tandem wheels allow faster ground speeds while providing greater flotation They're standard on the 325 bushel and 425 bushel models and optional on the 250 bushel model



Twelve extra wide one-piece beater paddles are symmetrically positioned for broad uniform spreads Paddles are fabricated from tough 1/4" thick high strength steel Bolt on replacement tips are available to extend paddle life

Constant velocity pto for continuous smooth chatter free power transfer when spreading on turns and reduced stress on the entire drive line

FROM SUNFLOWER:

4010/4110 SUNFLOWER
COULTER RIPPER

Conservation Tillage Equipment Built SUNFLOWER Tough!

Sunflower's Coulter Ripper is for today's conservation minded farmer demanding deep tillage with minimal residue disturbance. These durable machines feature adjustable front mounted coulters on 7½" centers. The coulter blades have an added advantage of slicing hard ground to keep clod size to a minimum. The V bar ripper design gives added trash clearance and pulls smoother than straight bar rippers. These coulter rippers are built Sunflower tough and no ballast is added to the frame increasing the structural strength. Check out Sunflower's latest edition to its growing family of quality tillage equipment at a farm show or dealer near you.

Adjustable Coulter Gangs: The 4010/4110 both feature adjustable coulter gangs that can be raised completely in clean ground. Ratchet Jack Adjustment is standard equipment. Optional Hydraulic Gang Adjustment makes on the go changes or raising the coulters completely out of the way an easy task from the tractor seat.

WASTE INJECTION SYSTEM

Save Nutrients • Save Compaction • Save Time

All the benefits of manure irrigation without any of the smell!

ALSO: IRRIGATION TOOL BAR DEMONSTRATIONS

- Compared to single gun, increases flow by 25%
- Applies close to the ground, reducing odor and nutrient loss
- Works great in a no-till or limited tillage situation

New REDTEK Grease Saves Farmers Money

Reports indicate that this ultra-tacky grease with silicone reduces maintenance down time and grease consumption by as much as 80%. REDTEK is a high technology grease manufactured by TCB Manufacturing Industries. It is specifically formulated to solve the most severe lubrication problems found in rugged, heavy-duty industrial applications.

The technological breakthrough consists of combining an ultra-tacky texture with one of the slipperiest materials known to man, silicone. The silicone provides an additional safety margin of protection since only one molecule thickness is required to prevent metal to metal contact.
The ultra-tacky texture shields bearings from contamination when equipment is "up to its hubs in dust and grit." This is accomplished by creating a "ring seal" around the bearing. The company states that REDTEK is so tacky, it cannot be thrown off universal joints, washed off pumps or squeezed out of loader pins. REDTEK "stays put" and dramatically reduces bearing replacement costs.

To obtain a FREE sample call 1-800-451-2049. You may also contact your local sales engineer, Gene Istanich.

FREE sample cartridges are available to full time farmers who agree to test REDTEK on their toughest greasing problem.

NEW HOLLAND SPREADERS 12-YEAR PROTECTION PLAN

Most guarantees last only as long as the original owner. But New Holland Bonded Protection means our entire line of box spreaders is guaranteed not just to the first owner, but to all future owners.

Bonded Protection covers every box spreader's floor and sides for twelve years. If a floorboard fails for any reason during normal use, or the sides rust through, we'll replace them free.

Choose from seven models, with 161- to 440-cubic-foot (heaped, double-beater) capacities.

Free Financing Waiver On New Spreaders Until January 1, 1996

The CLAAS® Quadrant 1200 Square Baler -
The New Standard Equipment For Commercial Operators!

CLAAS doesn't have to sell a commercial operator on the advantages he gets from large, densely-packed square bales.

Yes, the Quadrant 1200 delivers the density commercial operators want. Yes, its bales inhibit spoilage by keeping the air out. Yes, they preserve quality because they minimize nutrient loss.

The 1200 also offers the high production capacities you demand. Its 4 ft x 2-1/4 ft x up to 8 ft long bales effectively increase storage space and dramatically increase transport capacities—all at a high productivity rate. And you know what this means to your bottom line.

The Quadrant makes easy work of dry hay, haylage and silage crops—whatever you've got. And it bales as much of it as you've got.

CLAAS's shaft-driven knotters have earned a worldwide reputation for reliability and low maintenance. Other notable features are its 3-stage pre-chamber, 78" wide pickup, powerful transmission, heavy-duty worm gear, 1000rpm pto, hydraulic density control, capacity for up to 24 balls of sisal or plastic twine, and of course 6 dependable CLAAS shaft-driven knotters.

Production capacity. Convenient handling and storage. Economical transport. Density and quality. A better bottom line.

For more information about the Quadrant and how it can meet your commercial needs, contact the CLAAS dealer listed below.

Incidently, CLAAS quality is also available in a smaller Quadrant model designed for dairy operators.

Hitch controls now incorporate a drop-response control, while the hydraulics are designed to cycle quickly for efficient loader work.
Cab versions feature plenty of glass area and a console designed for quick and frequent use of controls for the transmission, hydraulics, PTO and hitch.
A standard, smooth-working 8F/4R transmission provides synchronized on-the-go shifting of four speeds within each of two ranges. Optional packages increase gear selection to 16F/8R; also optional is an 8F/8R shuttle transmission.
New nylon release disc and throw-out bearing with high-temp grease allow the heavy-duty clutch to stand up to the rigors of feedlot work and daylong tillage.
Large front and side grilles work with a new flare-tip fan to enhance engine airflow and cooling performance.

The new Case International 3200 and 4200 Series tractors. Five new tractors designed to the industry-leading performance criteria established by MAGNUM™ and MAXXUM®. These 42 to 85 PTO hp tractors set the standard for mid-range productivity.

To see which 3200/4200 tractor best suits your needs, visit one of the Case IH dealers listed here today. And while you're there, ask about Total Product Support — our commitment to the service and parts that add life to your tractor.

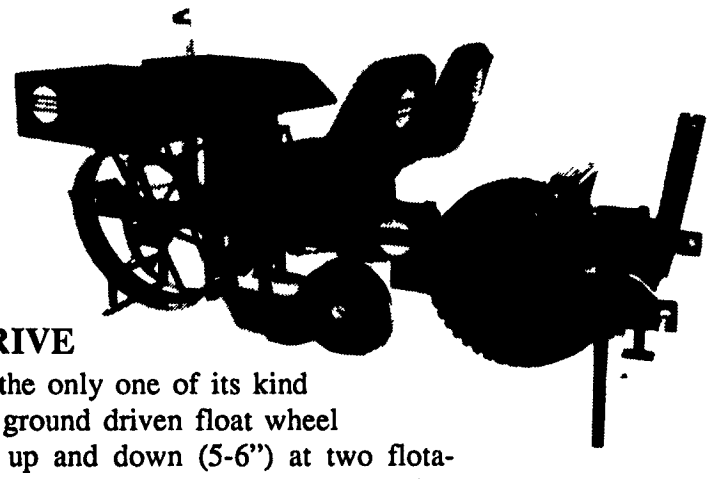
KASCO

MECHANICAL TRANSPLANTER MODEL 1000

For The Grower That Demands The "VERY FINEST"

The High Performance Model 1000

has increased planting speeds 20 to 30%.



OUR PATENTED FLOAT WHEEL DIRECT DRIVE SYSTEM is the only one of its kind available. This ground driven float wheel moves straight up and down (5-6") at two flotation points. This patented double floating action maintains correct ground contact at all times for both the drive wheel and rear packing wheels letting the units float independently no matter how many rows. No weight of any hitch, toolbar, or water tank is resting on the drive wheel to compact the soil. The wheel just smooths, firms and ideally prepares the soil providing accurate plant placement, proper depth control, and positive spacings from 6" and up in all soil conditions.

A column to update hog producers on the Pennsylvania Pseudorabies Eradication Program.

PENNSYLVANIA PRV QUARANTINE HERD STATUS

Amy J. Nesselrodt, DVM
USDA, APHIS, VS

The Pennsylvania Pseudorabies eradication effort has made great strides in the last two years. After the winter of 1992, Pennsylvania was at an all-time high, with more than 140 quarantined herds. However, since that time, Pennsylvania has begun a coordinated effort to eradicate pseudorabies from the state. The effort has been paying off.

Currently, we have 68 quarantined herds. Of those herds, 62 or 90 percent of them have developed an approved herd plan. A herd plan is an outline of vaccination, biosecurity, and testing measures that the producer will utilize in order to free his herd of Pseudorabies and test off of quarantine. Most Pennsylvania herd plans are "Phased Test and Removal." Vaccine is used to prevent spread within the herd or to neighbors. Infected animals are slowly rolled over and replaced with negative vaccinated ones.

Finishers are cleaned up with vaccine and/or changes in management, such as moving to all-in/all-out. Once the herd is negative, it is tested off of quarantine. Of the herds currently on quarantine, 26 should be ready to come off within the next 12 months.

Occasionally, a producer will decide to depopulate when his herd is found to have pseudorabies. Depopulation is usually chosen when there are other health problems in the herd and/or for economic reasons. Currently, there are six quarantined herds which are in the process of depopulating.

Besides looking at the number of quarantined herds, examining how many herds are still circulating virus is important. The "circulating virus" classification means that either new additions are getting infected or there is infection on the grow/finish floor. Only herds which are circulating virus pose a potential threat to the close neighborhood farms. Sixteen of Pennsylvania's quarantined herds are currently known to be circulating virus. Forty-two herds are not. The remaining (11) herds have not had a test recently enough to fairly assess this.

This year, Pennsylvania will be undertaking an area testing program. We are doing this for two reasons. One is to determine the true prevalence of pseudorabies in the endemic area. Pennsylvania does test sows and boars at slaughter, but this will give extra assurance that we are truly locating all infected herds, including finishers. The other reason we are doing area testing is to protect the herds which are cleaning up or have cleaned up from getting reinfected. If the neighborhood status is unknown, it is difficult to determine what risk a herd is under for reinfection. Also, until a herd is known to be carrying pseudorabies virus, it won't be able to begin a cleanup program.

Will Pennsylvania continue to make positive progress? The answer to this depends on a number of factors. The credit for the progress we have made so far can be given to those producers who worked hard and have cleaned up or are in the process of cleaning up their herds. Credit may also be given to our swine veterinarians who have advised and assisted their clients throughout the cleanup plans.

Barriers to progress unfortunately also exist. One barrier to progress is the few producers who are unwilling to clean up. By not moving forward with the group, they threaten the success of their neighbors and all of Pennsylvania. Fortunately, this is only a small number of producers.

Another barrier to progress is the potential for spread of virus from infected herds. This could happen by area spread (aerosol spread) or by movement of infected animals or equipment. We can all help prevent this form of setback by practicing excellent (fanatical!) biosecurity and vaccinating our herds. Vaccine has been effective in protecting herds when used properly and given to the sows at least three times a year. It may not be realistic to vaccinate the finisher in a clean herd, but if at least the sows are protected, the producer will not experience clinical signs in his herd.

Pseudorabies is definitely a "neighborhood disease." As such, we will all need to continue to work together to get Pennsylvania free of Pseudorabies. If we do so, the positive progress should continue!

Forest Industry Expo In May

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) The Hardwood Lumber Manufacturers Association of Pennsylvania (HLMA) has moved its Annual Forest Products Industry Equipment and Technology Exposition to Clearfield and changed its traditional August dates to May 12-13. The changes were made in response to many requests received from both exhibitors and attendees.

Interior and exterior exhibit space will feature products, services and equipment, with demonstrations and hands-on activities for attendees.

"The new location and dates should assure a high level of participation by exhibitors and record attendance by HLMA's members," said Rick Rufo, Timber '95 Chairman. "The exhibitors with whom we have talked are very enthusiastic."

Two important educational programs will be presented at several times during the two-day exposition. A seminar entitled "The New OSHA Logging Safety Standards" will explore details of the regulations which went into effect Feb. 9 and provide developments on the provisions which have been put on hold. "It is imperative that loggers and companies employing or contracting with loggers be fully informed as to the significance of these regulations and how they impact business," said Rufo.

Another seminar, "Transportation Inspection/Weighing," is being brought back to Timber '95 by popular demand, but it will offer updates to the new law concerning overseas shipment containers. According to Rufo, "Companies which own, operate, and depend on trucks will benefit from this seminar and the demonstrations."

For more information, contact Kent Fox, executive director, Hardwood Lumber Manufacturers Association, 824 Cumberland Street, Lebanon, PA 17042, 1 (800) 232-4562

1995 Dairy Of Distinction Farms Sought

Kingston (Luzerne Co.) — Do you take pride in maintaining your dairy farm? Does your dairy farm project an attractive, wholesome image to consumers? If so, the Dairy Of Distinction Program of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania will consider your farm for the program's annual recognition awards.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program was first started in 1983 to recognize the hard work and dedication of the farmers who maintain attractive farms. The purpose of the program is to instill a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products, and increase their sales.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings, since this is what our dairy product consumers observe as they drive by. The cleanliness of the barnyard, feed areas and manure management are other aspects of the farm operation taken into consideration. Roadside judging is conducted during the month of May. Former winners of past years are also rejudged to ensure they continue to meet the standards of excellence.

To qualify for consideration, you must be actively dairy farming and shipping milk. Applications are available from your state secretary, Pennsylvania: Paul Nichols, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., 239 Schuyler Avenue, Box 5 , Kingston, Pa. 18704, (717) 283-2204, New York: Carol Weddle, N.Y. Holstein Association, 957 Mitchell Street, Ithaca N.Y. 14851, (607) 273-7591, or New Jersey: August Knispel, R.D. 1, Box 325, Pittstown, New Jersey 08867, (201) 735-4989. All applications muse be completed and returned by April 15th, 1995.

The Dairy of Distinction program is financed in Pennsylvania by Dairy Farmers through the American Dairy Association Dairy Council and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, plus Agribusiness organizations. The Pennsylvania Dairy Of Distinction Program is conducted with advice and help by Penn State cooperative extension.

Application

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM

Attractive dairy farms give the consumer greater confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales which encourages public support for the dairy industry. The award gives recognition to the dairy farmer for maintaining a well-kept farmstead.

ELIGIBILITY

All Northeast dairy farms producing milk for sale are invited to make application for the award. Dairies receiving the 10 highest scores in each of the 91 districts will receive an 18" x 24" Dairy of Distinction sign to be displayed in front of their farm.

APPLICATION

Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, Inc.

Awards will be based upon neatness, good maintenance and other factors which can be controlled by the farmer. Attractive background scenery should not be weighed heavily in judging. All judging observations should be made from a vehicle at one or more points on an adjacent public highway (or if farm is off the road, the nearest lane). Judging should give equal consideration to old wood construction and new construction of metal or concrete block.

The award program may be used for subsequent advertising or promotion activities for dairy products or dairy farming. Farmers who apply for awards agree that; if selected they will cooperate with these activities and make all reasonable efforts to maintain both the exterior and interior of their properties in an acceptable condition.

HOW THE APPLICATION WORKS

The owner or operator of the dairy farm should sign the application and send it to NEDFBP secretary by April 15.

HOW THE JUDGING WORKS

Judging teams will visit farms during the month of May. Farms will be judged each year as the award is presented on an annual basis. Any dairy failing to maintain appearance standards will be asked to remove their sign. The Dairy of Distinction signs remain the property of the committee, not the property of the dairy farmer. All farms must achieve a compliance score of 90 percent on their Dairy of Distinction score card. Your cooperative or milk handler will be contacted to approve your milk quality.

RULES FOR THE DAIRY OF DISTINCTION AWARD

1). The Dairy of Distinction sign remains the property of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Committee.
2). The post and bracket shall be supplied by and maintained by the dairy farmer. It is suggested that a wood post 4' x 4' x 12' or iron pipe 2' x 12' be used. Posts or pipe should be installed and maintained in true vertical position with 8' above ground. Top of the bracket shou'd be lower than six inches from the top of the post.
3). Sign shall be displayed in front of the dairy at roadside. An attractive post and bracket, or other frame, shall be used to display the sign. No more than three signs should be displayed from the sign frame or post, and all shall be of a style, general size and quality comparable to the Dairy of Distinction sign. Sign should be secured on all sides to avoid wind damage.
4). Signs shall not be moved to other premises. New owners of a Dairy of Distinction farm must apply to retain the sign.
5). Replacement of damaged signs shall be the discretion of the committee.
6). No producer shall be charged with scoring or sign expense.
7). Judges' decisions will be final.
8). Judging will take place between May 1st and May 31st.
9). Farms awarded a Dairy of Distinction sign in previous years will be judged between April 1st and April 30th. If they do not qualify, they will be rejudged between May 1st and May 31st so they have the opportunity to keep the sign.
10). Farms that do not requalify will return the sign to their regional Dairy of Distinction Committee.

YOU CAN DEPEND ON US

Introducing Kubota's new line of B-Series tractors! Reliable, efficient, compact tractors – designed to"Be There" with power and versatility when you need it most.

Equipped with our new E-TVCS low emission, "Low Noise" diesel engine, these 14-17 PTO HP B-Series set a new engineering standard for quiet, smooth operation. Their state of the art design ensures that the new B's are friendly to the environment, while enclosed mufflers that increase visibility and decrease noise result in added operator comfort. And, you can depend on the B-Series' optional hydrostatic transmission and Bi-Speed, – features that allow you single-pedal control of tractor speed, and fast, smooth turns when you're in a tight spot.

Rely on a new B-Series in 2 or 4-wheel drive, with standard hydrostatic transmission on the B2400, standard gear or hydrostatic transmission on the B1700 and B2100. And, you can be confident that separate and simultaneous rear and mid PTO's will give you maximum productivity with a variety of implements.

For a rugged, user friendly tractor, depend on the new Kubota B-Series.

Kubota Tractor Corporation markets a full line of tractors through a nationwide network of over 1,000 dealers

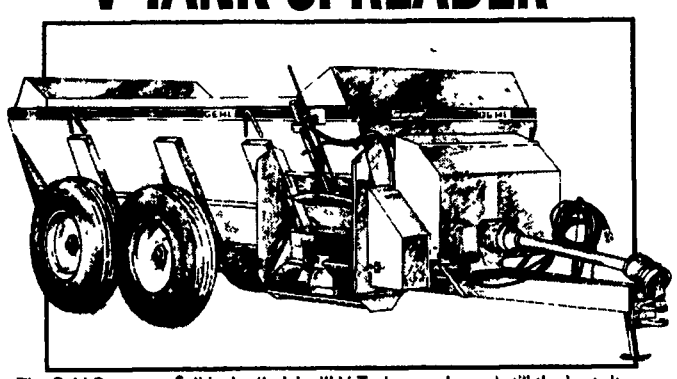
NORTH AMERICA'S #1 V-TANK SPREADER



The Gehl Scavenger® II is the "original" V-Tank spreader and still the best. It delivers outstanding performance in all types of manure, from liquid to semi-solid to pen-packed or even frozen manure.

- Patented square-tube auger – Hydraulically powers up and down to break up solid material.
- Variflo discharge – Spreads smoothly and evenly for complete application control.
- Five models – From 192 to 596 bushel heaped capacities to match your operation.
- 10-Year warranty – Against rust-through on the tank for peace of mind.
- Options include – Truck-mounted units and hydraulic lids.

GEHL TMR MIXER FEEDERS ARE #1

Nothing makes a Total Mixed Ration (TMR) feeding system work better than a Gehl mixer feeder. Here's why:

- Better Mixing Action – Unique four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy Efficient – Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built To Last – Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Six Sizes – 150 to 500 cubic feet capacities.
- Three Styles – Trailer type, stationary and truck-mounted units to fit your operation.

MAKE SURE SHE CAN CARRY HER WEIGHT BEFORE SHE CARRIES HER CALF.

Heifers carry the weight of the future of your herd. So before they calve, make sure that they are physically ready. Cornerstone™ Heifer Feed from Purina® can help heifers reach the desired height, weight and body condition at breeding. And that's critical if your heifers are to have less trouble calving, fewer breeding failures and the potential to produce 1,000 lbs. more milk during their first lactation. Support your future. Kreider Sets 210 Bushels Per Acre As Yield Goal

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Richard Kreider has one goal in mind: 210 bushels of corn this year.

How he will work to achieve that yield goal will depend on several factors that he can control, such as seed selection and soil fertility.

Only one thing remains out of his control: the weather.

That's why he subscribes to a weather tracking system, which allows him to monitor approaching storms through use of heavily sophisticated radar systems which are broadcast via satellite right into his office.

It's this reliance on high techology, including a new computerized business record system, that allows him to compete with several larger farms in the Lebanon Valley area.

This year, Kreider said, he aims to achieve the first place that has eluded him on the Pennsylvania Five Acre Corn Club contest for three-year average awards since 1986 — the last time he placed first in the contest.

In 1995, he said, "I'm just going to try to do the best I can and hope the weather cooperates," he said. "I'm still going to shoot for my yield goals of 200-plus. When I plant the field, I'm going to have that in mind."

Kreider, who inspects his awards, said that using the right kind of seed corn helped, used in conjunction with proper fertility. He soils tests regularly. He aims to place down roughly a unit of nitrogen per bushel of corn as his yield goal.

For Crists, Hybrid And Weather Help Ensure Winning Yields

JERSEY SHORE (Lycoming Co.) — Choosing the right hybrid and then getting the right weather worked hand in hand to ensure three first-place finishes for the Crist family in the 1994 Pennsylvania Five Acre Corn Club contest.

David Crist captured first place in the shelled grain class, regular harvest size. Mark Crist took first place ear corn class, hand harvest. John Crist had a first place in the ear corn machine harvest class.

The Crists manage several farms in the Jersey Shore region, maintaining about 300 acres. Of that, 180 acres is devoted to corn production and a majority of it is seed corn. The remaining acreage is split between soybean production, vegetable production, and alfalfa hay.

The Crists also finish about 100 head of beef cattle per year, which they sell at the Jersey Shore Livestock Auction.

Selecting the right hybrids and good weather conditions worked hand in hand to ensure contest-winning yields, according to John Crist. "When three varieties break 200 bushels per

COUNTDOWN TO CORN PLANTING

In just about a month from now or less, the corn planting season begins and the excitement and challenges of a new season will be with us.

As most management decisions involved in corn production are made before planting, the "countdown" stage we are entering into now is one of the most critical of the year. Careful planning and decision making now can have on dramatic impact on the success of your 1995 corn program.

Hybrid decisions should be finalized by now. Hopefully, you have included some diversity in your hybrid lineup in terms of maturity and drought tolerance. A mix of maturities adds some hedge against the weather. Earlier hybrids will do a little better in seasons where the drought stress comes late in the year, after the corn has pollinated and set grain.

On the other hand, in seasons where early drought stress occurs followed by late season rains, full-season hybrids will perform better. During the countdown, we should be thinking about hybrid placement. Our research has shown that high-yielding hybrids vary in how they react to drought and diseases.

Using hybrids that are stable and yield well under stress is a key on fields with shallow soils. Placing the disease-resistant hybrids on areas that are more prone to leaf diseases such as river bottoms and no-till into corn stalks will help to avoid yield-reducing disease losses.

Another objective during the countdown period should be to make sure your corn planter is ready to go. Planter problems can also cause seed depth and or seed distribution problems. Both of these can cause increased stand variability that will reduce yields.

Variation in seed depth can cause variation in emergence, which causes some plants in the stand to lag behind and act liter-

The Pioneer seed sales representative, who takes care of about 250 customers and sells corn, soybeans, and alfalfa, wears the Pioneer jacket. Chewing gum in little Pioneer wrappers sits ready for customers in a jar on his desk. His daughter, Jodi, presented him a license plate that bears the title, "The Pioneer Man."

For the contest, Kreider used only one variety — Pioneer 3394 in all three years, from 1992-1994, in the shelled grain class, regular harvest size. In 1992, Kreider harvested 203.5 bushels per acre. In 1993, he harvested 170.6 bushels per acre. In 1994, he harvested 181 bushels per acre. Average for the three years was 185 bushels per acre.

Kreider farms about 250 acres on two farms, including his father, Joseph's, land north of Schaefferstown. Richard grows about 125 acres of corn altogether, which he raises to feed his 150 head of beef cattle. The rest Kreider sells to a local farmer. The remaining acres are

Kreider subscribes to a weather tracking system, which allows him to monitor approaching storms through use of heavily sophisticated radar systems which are broadcast via satellite right into his office. It's this reliance on high techology, including a new computerized business record system, that allows him to compete with several larger farms in the Lebanon Valley area.

At planting time (on April 28, 1994), Kreider used a six-row corn planter. Here, he looks over a specially modified six-row cultivator with large fertilizer boxes to hold the dry urea at sidedressing.

There's something extra in a starter fertilizer program.

Starter fertilizers unlock benefits for corn farmers. They stimulate seedling growth, hasten crop maturity, improve crop tolerance to some insects, increase crop competition with weeds and frequently increase yields, particularly in production fields featuring conservation tillage and irrigation. Starter fertilizers make crop production more environmentally sound because they improve fertilizer uptake efficiency.

The agronomic benefits of starter fertilizers increase crop productivity and profits from corn production.

ally like weeds rather than corn plants. Uneven seed distribution caused by an improperly functioning seed metering device causes more skips and doubles, which also reduce yield. Recent Purdue research has shown that this kind of yield variation in distribution can result in yield reductions of about 5 percent or so.

Nitrogen fertilizer is another area which should receive some additional attention this year during the countdown period. Prices are about 30 percent higher than last year. Many growers are thinking about cutting back a bit this year to compensate for the higher price.

My feelings are a bit mixed on this. In support of this idea, we know that most corn fields that have been fertilized with N at recommended levels for several years have some carryover and they often can get by with about 75 percent of the N recommendation and still yield well. Also, we know that the optimum N rate from an economics standpoint is really dependent on the N fertilizer:corn price ratio.

In a year such as this, with high N prices and average corn prices, the economic optimum rates will be slightly lower. On the other hand, last year many folks outyielded their N application program, which could contribute to lower amounts of carryover.

Weed control is another area that should require some thought in the next few weeks. New products and formulations should be considered if they can improve weed control consistency. Reviewing the control spectrum of the various new programs and comparing that to the problem weeds on your farm should be a part of your countdown activity, if you haven't already done so.

A final consideration for cash grain producers during the countdown should be consideration of their marketing plan. While I don't profess to be a marketing expert, the combination of high projected corn usage, the set-aside program this year, talk of the El Nino, and a drought in the Midwest all have some experts suggesting the potential of volatility in the corn market this summer.

Being prepared for that with your marketing plans for the 1995 crop could be important.

The countdown is a critical phase of corn production. The decisions made and the planning accomplished in the next few weeks will play a large role in your success in 1995. Take time to do it well — it may be one of your best investments of the year.

acre, you're doing something right," John said.

For the 1994 shelled grain class, David Crist used Doebler's 62XP for a plant population of 24,860 per acre with a yield of 223.4 bushels per acre. For the ear corn class hand harvest, Mark Crist used Doebler's 73 XP for a plant population of 24,635 plants per acre and a 224.8 bushel per acre yield. For the ear corn machine harvest regular harvest size, John Crist used Doebler's 75 X with a plant population of 24,323 and a yield of 240.47 bushels per acre.

The farm's Ashton-type soils are rotated from soybeans to corn, with rye grass as a winter cover crop. Preparation began with spreading 46 percent urea, followed by moldboard plowing and a once-over with a cultimulcher. They selected three varieties they thought had done well for them in early planting in past seasons.

"We all have our own favorite varieties and personal preferences," Mark said.

When the fields were planted April 22, a 7-27-11 starter was used. Immediately after planting, a preemergence herbicide was applied.

At the corn plant's 4-6 inch stage, the first cultivation was done. At the 12-leaf stage, a sidedressing of liquid nitran was knifed in, immediately followed by cultivation with a rye grass application.

Harvest was Oct. 24. Dry-down moistures ranged from 18-19 percent with excellent standability, according to Crist.

Kreider Sets 210 Bushels Per Acre

in soybeans, of which about 50 acres are double-cropped with wheat. He also maintains some pasture ground.

Most of the acreage is in minimum tillage, using a disc and field cultivator, with some no-till ground. The soil is a Hagerstown-Duffield clay loam, which drains well and readily holds soil nutrients. Good, deep topsoil and little clay or rocks make good growing conditions.

He rotates from soybeans to corn. "I usually pick a field that I had soybeans in previously," said Kreider. "For three years, it's never been the same field."

Kreider believes he has "some good dirt here," he said. "Our fertility levels are good and it's good soil."

Kreider plows some of the steer manure down, but aims for about 50-70 units of nitrogen per acre for his corn.

At planting time (on April 28, 1994), Kreider used a six-row corn planter. He uses a 4-18-4 fertilizer on the row. At sidedressing, when the corn is about a foot high, Kreider uses a special six-row cultivator with large fertilizer boxes containing dry urea.

Kreider said that using the right kind of seed corn helped, used in conjunction with proper fertility. He soils tests regularly. He aims to place down roughly a unit of nitrogen per bushel of corn as his yield goal.

"I believe that my cultivation and sidedressing is a help," said Kreider. "I think that really loosens the ground and I get the nitrogen down a little closer to the time it needs it."

But the combination of proper fertility levels, proper seed corn, proper field population per acre, and ultimately "timely rains" go into raising a banner, contest-winning crop.

He thinks harvesting 210 bushels per acre of corn on his farm is possible. "The hybrids are improved. It's probably going to be possible, because 20 years ago 150 bushels per acre was a pretty good yield."

Richard Kreider farms about 250 acres on two farms, including his father, Joseph's, land north of Schaefferstown. Richard grows about 125 acres of corn altogether, which he raises to feed his 150 head of beef cattle. The rest Kreider sells to a local farmer.

Kreider's daughter, Jodi, presented him a license plate that bears the title, "The Pioneer Man."

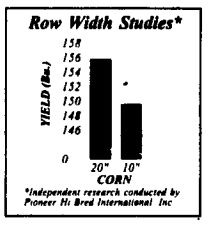
PLANTER HEADQUARTERS

Corn & Soybean Planters

6600 RIGID FRAME PLANTERS

Adapt to any planting practice...no-till, mulch-till or ridge-till...15", 20", 30" or 40" rows.

Yield-enhancing planting practices like 20" rows and others are on the horizon. That's why the 6600 Planter features the two-bar design. With it you'll have the flexibility for changing planting practices...now and in the future.



The 6600 enables you to plant 20" rows...even in no-till. Or you can go from planting 30" corn in the morning to 15" soybeans the same afternoon simply by lowering the interplant units.

Equally at home in plowed fields as it is in no-till fields, it adapts to changing tillage practices, too. In soft conditions, the wide 9.5-15 tires keep the planter from sinking. In no-till, the two-bar design provides two 5" x 7" toolbars for adding an extra set of coulters and other attachments. (There's also an optional 3" diamond bar for hanging fertilizer openers.) It has the strength and weight to penetrate the tough stuff. Optional weight brackets give you even more security.

Even routine maintenance is simple with the unique White seed meter There are only two parts...brushes...to check and replace periodically.

CORN TALK NEWS

PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOCIATION

President's Message

Curt Rakestraw
President, PMCGA

Every year during the last week of February, the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) holds its annual convention. This year it was held in Nashville, Tenn. from Feb. 25-28.

The convention this year featured speakers who spoke on topics ranging from the 1995 Farm Bill to the future of computers in agriculture. However, the thing I enjoy most about these conventions is being able to meet and socialize with other corn producers from all over the nation.

All too often we preceive our problems as being local. However, when you talk with farmers from other areas, you realize that they have many of the same problems that we do.

Some of the problems that nearly everyone talked about were the sharp increase in nitrogen prices, the possible ban of triazine herbicides, low grain prices, and high property taxes.

I also learned that Pennsylvania farmers are not the only farmers to feel the pressures of urban expansion. Many of the Midwestern cities have experienced rapid growth in the last decade and have brought all their problems associated with urban development to their agricultural neighbors (congested traffic, higher property taxes, etc.).

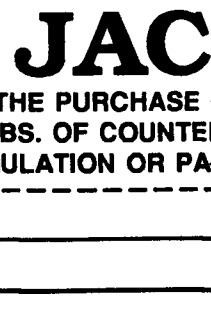
With corn growers facing so many common problems, it only seems natural that the NCGA continues to grow in membership and strength. Our organization is trying to help shape a 1995 Farm Bill that is fair but does not take disproportionate cuts compared to the rest of the federal budget.

The organization is also working with industry to find a workable resolution regarding triazine problems. Finally, the NCGA is constantly working to find new uses for corn and corn byproducts so that demand keeps up with supply in order to enable the producer to sell his or her bushel of corn for a reasonable price.

In order for the NCGA to continue to work on our behalf, I would like to take this opportunity to ask you to join the state and national corn growers, if you are not already a member. For $75 you can become a 3-year member of both organizations and receive a free bag of seed corn. I don't know where you could find a better deal.

Now that spring is just around the corner, we at Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association would like to wish all of you a prosperous 1995 growing season.

Sincerely,
Curt Rakestraw



For Crists, Hybrid

more than 35 years ago. In those years, he has experienced many unusual weather conditions. Last spring's statewide cold snap, after the corn emerged, was a concern of his sons, but because of his experience, David knew that as long as it didn't reach the growing point, the crop wouldn't be adversely affected. Overall, the weather provided some excellent growing conditions for the crop. Timely rains ensured good growing conditions through most of the season, according to Crist.

Choosing the right hybrids, good mangement, and overall good weather provided the Crist family with three state champions.

Corn Growers Gather At Classic

Greg Roth
Penn State Agronomy
Assistant Professor

Each year, the National Corn Growers Association holds its annual meeting, called the Corn Classic, in late February. This year, the Corn Classic was held in Nashville, Tenn. from Feb. 26-28.

I was fortunate enough to attend my first Corn Classic this year along with about 20 other folks from Pennsylvania.

I found the Classic to be an excellent conference with a good mix of education, entertainment, and business meetings. Almost everyone from our area agreed that this was a top-notch conference.

There were plenty of opportunites to meet with industry and NCGA representatives to discuss many of the hot issues facing corn growers. The speakers in many of the sessions were excellent. There were also many opportunities to have some fun and meet with many of our counterparts in other states.

I'm sure many more of our members would find this an excellent meeting because not only was it packed with information, but it also provided an opportunity for a mid-winter vacation for many folks.

I met corn growers from Ohio, Illinois, Nebraska, North Dakota, New York, and Maryland taking advantage of this opportunity.

Some of the highlights of the meeting included an inspirational presentation from former Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw, an announcement of precision farming equipment being marketed by Deere and Co. for planters and combines, and an excellent discussion of the future by the renowned futurist Noel Hazlet of New Mexico State University.

Hazlet suggested that in the future, agriculture will form alliances with other industries such as pharmacuticals, medicine, recreation, and manufacturing to create farms that do much more than just produce raw commodities. For example, he suggested that in the future, hog farmers may be able to raise hogs that carry genetically engineered replacement organs for humans. This and many other developments may help producers add value to the crops they produce now.

Mark your calendar to join NCGA at its next Classic, which will be held in Phoenix, Ariz., on Feb. 25-28, 1996. Next year's event will be called the "Commodity Classic" and represent the first joint conference held between the National Corn Growers Association and the American Soybean Association.

Corn Growers Name Washington Staff Member

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Bruce Knight will be joining the Washington staff of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA), according to Chris Wehrman, NCGA's chief executive officer.

"Bruce brings nearly 10 years of Captiol Hill experience to NCGA," Wehrman said. "We look forward to his leadership on environmental and conservation issues, and commodity futures regulation." As government relations representative, Knight will also monitor tax issues relevant to corn farmers.

"Bruce's extensive background in domestic farm programs, grain quality, and tax issues will be key as NCGA enters the 1995 farm bill debate of the nation's corn farmers," Wehrman said. "He and other Washington staff will assist our more than 200 farmer delegates in developing corn grower policy at NCGA's annual meeting in late February."

Knight, who starts with NCGA on Feb. 20, was previously director of government relations and marketing services for the National Association of Wheat Growers in Washington, D.C. He has also served as legislative assistant for Rep. Fred Grandy (R-Iowa) and Sen. James Abdnor (R-S.D.).

Knight replaces Dave Stawick, who was named to the Senate Agriculture Committee staff on Jan. 17.

WE'RE PROUD TO INTRODUCE
Bicep II®
THE NO-TILL CORN SOLUTION FOR YOUR TOUGHEST GRASSES AND BROADLEAF WEEDS

Bicep II offers built-in burndown activity on a broad spectrum of weeds.

Bicep II washes off crop residue better than encapsulated herbicides.

Bicep II has a special ingredient which offers improved corn safety when you need it.

Bicep II provides flexible no-till application options; including early preplant, burndown at planting, and even after planting before corn emerges.

Bicep II requires no incorporation.

Stop by today to learn how Bicep II works for you in no-till.

Bicep II® is a Restricted Use Pesticide. Always read and follow label directions.
Bicep II is a trademark of Ciba–Geigy Corporation.

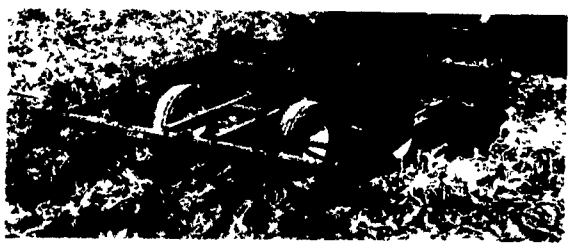
The Quality Crafted Line

Better Seedbeds... Better Stands!

SOIL BUILDERS



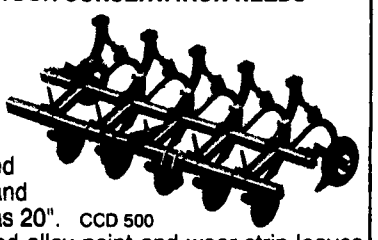
SOIL BUILDERS. Optional Coulter gang can be hydraulically controlled to save maintenance dollars. 5, 7, 9, 11 & 13 shanks. Available in 2 & 3 bar.

3-SHANK DEEP TILLS

The three shank model, shown above, has a Category II hitch. With a cutting width of 7'6", it is ideal for operators with smaller acreages and horsepower. It is extremely maneuverable, yet provides the same basic deep tilling job as its "big brothers" Available with coulters.

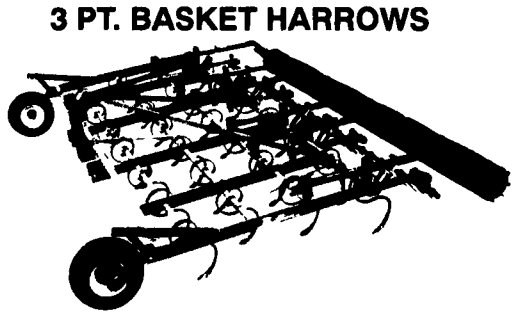
COMPACTION COMMANDERS

NO-TILL RIPPER/DEEP RIPPER
DESIGNED FOR YOUR CONSERVATION NEEDS
3-5-7 Shank



Brillion introduces their new Compaction Commander...designed to break up hardpan and compaction as deep as 20". CCD 500
The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage. Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil. 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue.

3 PT. BASKET HARROWS



Brillion has designed a 3 pt. S-Tine field cultivator with a larger, aggressively angled 12" diameter rolling basket, a 4-bar frame that allows for either 4" or 6" tooth spacing and an adjustable leveler bar in 12', 15' and 18' sizes. Gauge wheels are optional.

HFC FIELD CULTIVATORS

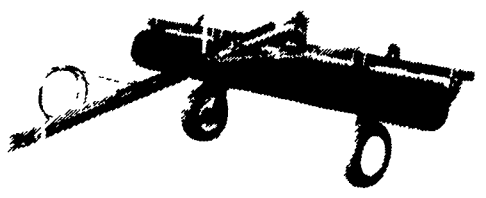
'C' Tooth -
4 Year Warranty

S-Tine -
3 Yr. Warranty

The "heart" of any field cultvator is the shank pivot point. A "bulked up" shank bracket made of cast ductile iron instead of the usual formed steel bracket, incorporated a hardened steel bushing AND a zerk grease fitting to lubricate the pivot point to reduce wear. The result is thousands of acres of extended life of the shanks.

P-SERIES TRANSPORT PULVERIZERS

10 Ft. to 18 Ft.

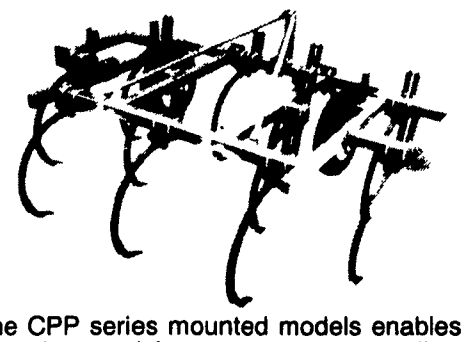


Rotary Frame Pulverizers; New PT10 Series Transport Concept. Machine weight is hydraulically rotated over the wheels for transport. This reduces draw bar hitch weight considerably and provides ample clearance for transport. Also Available As Pull Type.

X-FOLD PULVERIZERS

The X-Fold pulverizers are designed to meet the needs of today's larger acreage farmers...and Brillion offers them in two models and 11 sizes from 19' through 46'. Now available with 20" Ductile Wheels.

3 BAR CHISEL PLOWS



The CPP series mounted models enables you to turn short and fast... to transport easily, utilizing your tractor's hydraulic system, 7, 9, 11, 13 or 10,12,14,16 shank.

AG SURE STAND SEEDERS

SS8, SS10 & SS12 SEEDERS
For years Brillion Grass Seeders have proven to be the best machine for planting grasses and legumes... and now they're even better! Larger, heavier boxes, high seeding rates, nylon lined seed meter, heavier frame, new drive system and more. 5 ft., 8 ft., 10 ft., Available in 3-point or pull type.

ML SERIES PULVI-MULCHERS

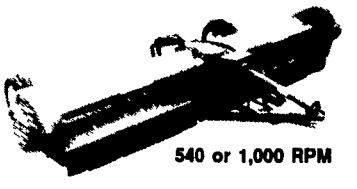
12'6", 13'10", 15'2", 18'9"

SERIES 03 - Built to last.
- Easy rolling 20" ductile iron notched or crowfoot roller wheels with a 5 year limited warranty.
- Longer life external mounted bearings.
- Longer, heavier drawbar for shorter turns.

There's lots more reasons to buy Brillion... stop in and we'll talk.

FLAIL SHREDDERS

12 Ft. And 15 Ft.



FLAIL SHREDDERS Heaviest gearbox on the market eliminates the number one cause of downtime. Available in 12' and 15'. Either cup or side slicer knives. 540 or 1000 RPM.

MEETS THE CHALLENGE

Herbicide Resistance: A Challenge To Agriculture

W. S. Curran
Assistant Professor
Weed Science
Penn State

Weeds that resist an application of a once effective herbicide are not a new problem for northeastern farmers.

We have managed or at least attempted to control triazine-resistant (TR) weeds in a number of crops for the last 15 years. Although triazine resistance continues to spread into new areas, most producers have resigned themselves to dealing with the problem by simply switching to or including non-triazine herbicides in their control programs.

Producers with triazine resistance have fewer effective herbicide options, require more tank-mixing, and make more trips over the field, all resulting in increased costs, potential poor control, and possibly greater yield or quality loss. Wouldn't a program targeted at prevention be more cost effective in the long run?

It may very well be too late for many producers and triazine-resistance. However, there is still time to take action on other herbicides that are just beginning to show resistance problems.

Some newer herbicide families of greatest concern to producers in the Northeast include the sulfonylureas, imidazolinones, and sulfonamide herbicides, all collectively known as the ALS inhibitors because of the site or enzyme for which they attack in susceptible plants. The ALS inhibitor class includes a number of products commonly used in corn, soybeans, small grains, and forage or hay crops (Table 1).

Table 1. Plan Rotation Strategy - Think Mode of action. This table classifies herbicides based on mode of action and commodity use. In planning a weed management program identify opportunities for rotating between the different herbicide classes. In particular concentrate on rotation of the ALS and the PSI classes.

CORN TALK NEWS
PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

Resistance to this class of chemistry is currently not a major problem in the midwest or northeastern U.S. However, in dryland wheat-producing areas of the western U.S. and Canada, ALS resistance is a problem.

There are several reason why this class of herbicides pose such a threat for resistance development. First, these herbicides all attack a single site within susceptible plants (ALS). Resistant weeds have an altered form of ALS which is no longer inhibited by the herbicides. Scientist estimate that perhaps one in a million weeds that are traditionally susceptible to this class of herbicides may have an altered ALS. Herbicide families that act at multiple sites within plants are less likely to select for resistance. (The photosynthesis inhibitors including the triazine herbicides also act at a single site.)

Secondly, the ALS herbicides are highly effective on a number of weed species. This means that few susceptible weeds escape treatment, so the selection pressure for resistant types is much greater. Weed species are not all equally susceptible to selection for resistance. In the Northeast, pigweed and cocklebur are very sensitive to several ALS herbicides and could become a problem more quickly (pigweed and lambsquarters were highly sensitive to the triazines). Third, some of the ALS inhibitor herbicides provide season-long control and in fact require plant-back restrictions because of their residual properties.

Longer residual herbicides will continue to control highly susceptible weeds late in the growing season and potentially select for the resistant types. Finally, the effectiveness and sheer number of ALS inhibitor herbicides in the marketplace make it easy for producers to use one in virtually every crop, regardless of rotation.

In addition, within the next five years, more than a half dozen new ALS inhibitor herbicides may be introduced in the corn, soybean, and small grain markets. On the positive side, resistance to one ALS inhibitor herbicide does not automatically guarantee cross resistance to other members of the ALS class. However, it's like rolling dice — if you roll it long enough, it's simply a matter of time before you get "snake-eyes" or cross resistance develops.

Preventive programs require more management and possibly accepting some change in the way weed control programs are conducted. Programs for preventing herbicide resistance should address several areas:

- Rotate herbicide modes of action
- Use shorter residual products
- Use tank-mixtures or sequential mixes with different modes of action
- Use nonchemical methods of control such as cultivation.

The emphasis or at least starting place for resistance management should be identification of herbicide class (Table 1). The annual rotation of these classes may be key to preventing resistance. Tank-mix partners from different classes that are effective on problem weeds will also help (see Table 2).

However, effective tank mixtures from more than one class are not available for all weeds and no resistance management strategy can stand alone.

Multiple tactics that include herbicide rotation, effective tank mixtures, and nonchemical methods of weed management will be most successful.

Although many producers may select the "business as usual" philosophy and hope that technology keeps up, the discovery and development of effective new herbicide classes and families does not appear right around the corner, and some effective older products could face additional restrictions or even removal from certain markets.

Most weed scientists agree that if we don't plan and manage for resistance today, we will surely lose the value of some effective herbicide products or families and be faced with fewer more expensive options in the future.

Table 2. Plan Tank-mix Strategy. This table provides examples of herbicide programs for corn and their potential for preventing resistance. For example program 1 (Bicep + Prowl) includes three different herbicides (atrazine Dual and Prowl) with three different modes of action (PSI Shoot and Root inhibitors). However for TR lambsquarters only one of the three herbicides is effective (Prowl) for pigweed all three are effective and for giant foxtail two (Dual and Prowl) of the three are effective. Try to select programs where more than one herbicide class is effective especially for weeds like pigweed.

Weeds	Program 1	Program 2	Program 3
	Bicep + Prowl	Broadstrike+ Dual	Harness Xtra + Banvel post
Pigweed	1+1+1 = 3	1+1 = 2	1+1+1 = 3
Giant foxtail	0+1+1 = 2	0+1 = 1	1+0+0 = 1

Don't Restrict Atrazine Use

GREENSBORO, N.C.—During the NCGA Leadership program, the 1994-1995 class participated in a comprehensive seminar on the future of the status of atrazine.

Since that time, the Environmental Protection Ageny (EPA) has announced plans to conduct a special review of atrazine, simazine and cyanazine. In this review process, the EPA will review the information regarding the technical and scientific aspects of these products.

Corn growers have the opportunity to contribute to the review process by voluntarily commenting on the product use and economic impact on farmers. NCGA members who are interested in commenting may write the EPA before March 23.

If you write to the EPA, you may wish to include a description of how atrazine label changes and best management practices (BMPs) have impacted water quality in your farming operation. Other points which could be mentioned include:

- Economics and effectiveness
- Broad spectrum weed control
- Grass control
- Conservation tillage application
- A tank mix partner.

Further restrictions on atrazine would create a hardship on corn growers without safe, economically viable alternatives. Additional restrictions on atrazine could also have an impact on the use of more than 20 products currently on the market, including: Aatrex®, Extrazine®II, Sutazine®, Shotgun™, Bicep®, Marksman®, Surpass®100, Bullet®, Laddok®, Buctril®+Atrazine, Lariat®, Guardsman®, Harness®Xtra.

Letters to the EPA should be addressed as follows: Public Response and Program Resources Branch (OPP-30000-60), Field Operations Division (7506C), Office of Pesticide Programs, Environmental Protection Agency, 401 M. St. SW, Washington, DC 20460.

It is important to make sure OPP-30000-60 is written on both the letter and the envelope.

It's Time To Join Corn Growers

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—The Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association (PMCGA) is pleased to announce continuing support for the Membership Incentive Program (MIP) that is being conducted in conjunction with several cooperating seed companies.

The MIP, with seed corn company sponsorship, will entitle any corn grower who plants at least five acres of corn to a free bag of seed corn (standard size) with a three-year membership in PMCGA/NCGA.

This program applies to all three-year memberships, new or renewal.

To participate, simply complete the membership form included in this issue of Corn Talk and indicate the brand of seed corn you would like to try.

Remember, the theme of the program is "Try Something New." Growers who sign up will receive a free bag of seed from the company chosen by PMCGA. The grower will make the ultimate decision about which hybrid he will receive in consultation with the local seed corn dealer for the company selected. PMCGA will send the names and addresses by brand chosen to the appropriate seed corn company's statewide contact person, and that person will contact the grower.

Locally, those who sign up will be helping to support PMCGA's activities, such as Corn Talk, the annual Pennsylvania Crops Conference, and local corn promotion activities.

The PMCGA board of directors have also developed a membership program in cooperation with DuPont. This program is targeted at recruiting new members of PMCGA. Any Pennsylvania corn grower who joins PMCGA for three years for the first time is eligible to receive a free four-acre sample of Accent herbicide ($100 retail value).

The offer is available to anyone who grows more than 100 acres of corn, has not been a member of PMCGA before, and who has not received an Accent sample in the past. There is a limit of one sample per farming operation. In addition, new three-year members can elect to participate in the PMCGA Membership Incentive Program and elect to try a free unit of seed corn from one of the participating companies on the membership application.

When You Plant CFS Waxy Hybrids, You're Planting More Than Just Corn.

Facts prove that starch content is what makes corn the ideal animal feed. And that's what makes CFS waxy corn different from dent. CFS waxy is 100% amylopectoin starch ... zero percent amylose. (Dent is 25% amylose).

Amylopectin starch is more digestible. That means CFS waxy maintains no less than a 25% advantage over dent ... in the feedlot or milking parlor.

On-farm tests show the average weight gain/feed efficiency in beef, sheep, swine and other animals fed waxy corn increased up to 10% over dent fed animals.

In dairy herds CFS waxy increased butterfat, protein and milk production.

And, CFS waxy yields as well, if not better than dent. And it costs no more. Also, CFS waxy can be produced as a cash crop ... often bringing premium prices when used for export.

Faster weight gain, more milk and flexibility ... that's why CFS waxy hybrids are more than just corn.

ROW CLEANER EVALUATIONS ON NO-TILL CORN

Greg W. Roth
Penn State Agronomy
Assistant Professor

During the past three years, we have evaluated the potential of various row cleaning devices on no-till corn under different situations to assess their potential under Pennsylvania conditions.

The potential advantages of row cleaners are to move residue out of the seed zone and reduce the potential for residue interfering with seed-to-soil contact. They also can help increase the soil temperature in the seed zone, which could potentially increase early season plant growth and development. Ultimately, this could hasten crop maturity and improve yield potential.

The concept is an attractive one that could allow us to achieve the best of both worlds — the labor savings and soil erosion benefits of no-till and the even stands and good early season growth associated with tilled systems. Another benefit of row cleaners is that they allow you to see where you planted, which is sometime helpful during planting or spraying.

On the downside, no-tillers who are satisfied with their corn stands and early season growth may question the cost effectiveness of these attachments. In areas where cool soils are generally not a limiting factor in no-till corn or under late planting conditions, it will be difficult to show a benefit. In fact, some studies in Kentucky have suggested that residue removal may reduce the mulching effect from no-till.

In our study, we planted corn no-till in different situations over a three-year period. We planted early into cornstalks, late into cornstalk stubble, early into soybean stubble, and late into soybean stubble. We outfitted a Deere 7240 planter with a variety of coulter/row cleaner attachments. These included a normal bubble coulter, an 8-wave fluted coulter, an Acra trashwhipper, a Dawn trashwheel, and a Rawson coulter system. We then planted replicated trials and monitored seed zone temperatures, plant populations, and grain yields.

The study provided some interesting findings that in general supported the results of others. Our results showed fairly consistent increases in seed zone temperature, averaging about 2 degrees across all locations. Plant populations were increased at four of eight locations with the row cleaning devices. Yields were increased with row cleaners at two of the locations. Averaged over all locations, yields from the bubble coulter averaged 113, while the fluted coulter averaged 116 bushels/acre and the row cleaner treatments average 118 bushels/acre.

There were few consistent differences among the row cleaners and the fluted coulter appeared to alleviate most of the problems associated with the bubble coulter. Based on our study, we conclude that row cleaners have the most potential for growers who plant early into heavy residue or manure conditions. They should also be better adapted to cooler areas with heavier and or wetter soils that warm up slower in the spring.

In summary, the benefits to row cleaners and zone tillage systems will vary depending on crop residues, soils, and climate, but in some cases can be an effective part of a successful no-till program.

WARNING! DETERIORATING CONCRETE FROM CORN JUICE!

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS
Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE.

RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough acid resistant
- Increases useful life
- Economical

Before The silo's interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed
After The surface is reconditioned and a new thick tough surface will protect stored feed

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall
After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away
After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

Shotcrete is also good for repairing stone walls

When you think your silo is beyond repair
THINK OF SHOTCRETE!

State-Wide Corn Checkoffs

What is a Checkoff?

For each bushel of corn sold in 19 different states a specified rate or checkoff is invested by the seller at the first point of sale. These monies are then collected at the state level. A state checkoff or promotion board of farmer-directors invests the money in state programs of research, market development and education to increase the demand for corn. The farmer-directors also invest in the National Corn Development Foundation, which is the banking arm of the National Corn Growers Association. Then, on a national level, NCGA invests checkoff dollars in research, market development and education with the mission to enhance corn profitability and usage to improve the quality of life in a changing world.

NCGA Releases 'World Of Corn'

Greg W. Roth
Penn State Agronomy
Assistant Professor

In a recent NCGA publication, entitled the "World of Corn", a number of interesting figures relating to Pennsylvania corn production and corn use were listed.

In 1994, we ranked 15th in corn grain production, producing more than 123 million bushels, with an average yield of 120 bushels per acre.

According to data from the 1992 Census of Agriculture, there are 21,610 farms that grow corn in the state that average 47 acres of corn per farm. Of these farms, 19,181 grow less than 100 acres, 1,881 grow 100-249 acres, 396 grow 250-499 acres, and 152 grow more than 500 acres of corn. Corn makes up about 26.2 percent of the harvested crop acreage in the state and is planted for both silage and grain on 1.4 million acres.

Projected total corn use in the U.S. has increased dramatically in 1994 compared to 1993. Food, seed and industrial use increased from 1.58 billion bushels in 1993 to an estimated 1.7 billion bushels in 1994. The largest components of this market are fuel ethanol, corn sweeteners, and industrial cornstarch.

Animal feed use increased from 4.7 billion bushels in 1993 to 5.65 billion in 1994. During the same period, corn exports increased from 1.3 billion to 1.9 billion bushels in 1994. Our largest corn export customers are Japan, Taiwan, Korea, and Mexico. These increases in corn usage have accounted for a dramatic increase in total corn use from 7.6 billion bushels to 9.3 billion bushels. The total projected corn use of 9.3 billion bushels in 1994 is larger than any previous crop in our history, with the exception of the 9.5 billion bushel crop in 1992. The value of the 1994 crop was estimated at more than 22 billion dollars, the largest in U.S. history.

Risk Management A Valuable Tool

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Corn farmers attending the National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) 1995 Corn Classic got an earful of valuable risk management information during two early-riser marketing sessions.

Dr. Gerry Schwab, an extension economist from Michigan State University, provided attendees with a risk management checklist. Schwab, whose appearance was made possible by Rain and Hail Insurance, pointed out to farmers they face risk from several factors, including weather, policy, and the markets.

With a plan and some discipline, however, Schwab says corn growers can manage these and other elements by utilizing the process of risk management. Specifically, Schwab says farmers should:

•Identify potential sources of risk.

•Estimate the chance of loss and the extent of loss.

Attendees at the early-riser session, sponsored by the Chicago Board of Trade, were given some smart marketing tips with futures and options. The Board's Jeffrey Campbell reveiwed both profit futures and options strategies and compared them with cash sales. Campbell illustrated how cash forward contracts can provide corn growers with complete price protection, but no additional opportunity when prices rise. Similarly, hedging with corn futures can yield a comparable result, he says, but using futures positions can place changes in basis at risk.

Various options strategies offer farmers advantages in different market settings. Campbell points out buying options allows growers to protect prices with unlimited upside potential, although basis risk remains. Selling calls, on the other hand, stifles price protection and profit gains, but offers maximum opportunity in a stable market. A fence or window strategy, where farmers buy a put and sell a call at the same time, provides the best potential and price protection in a rising market. But again profit opportunity is limited, Campbell said, and a change in basis can impact the value of the strategy.

New Uses, Fresh Ideas At Corn Classic

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—New corn-based products and fresh farm policy ideas were rolled out here during the National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) Corn Classic, where nearly 2,300 corn farmers from across the country assembled.

NCGA President and Shelton, Neb. farmer Rod Gangwish noted the farm bill is one of the major issues receiving attention from voting delegates during the resolutions process.

State representatives discussed the concept of a whole farm base, extending the current nine-month loan, continuing the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) and the Farmer Owned Reserve (FOR), and establishing multiyear, paid programs rather than the current Acreage Reduction Program (ARP).

Gangwish said ethanol will also remain a key focus for NCGA. "Ethanol continues to be one of our fastest growing and most dynamic markets," he said. "We have every right to be optimistic. Ethanol is the nation's only domestically produced, renewable liquid fuel. It will continue to play an important role in the energy future of the United States and the economic well-being of rural America."

Gangwish says ethanol's future is also bright because of its versatile use in other products. Ethanol is the center for both of the new corn-based products made public today. Aquinas Technologies Group, Inc., St. Louis, Mo. unveiled America's Solution (TM), a windshield washer fluid made from ethanol.

The product will appear on Kmart shelves in Minneapolis, Chicago, and Des Moines beginning March 15, with a complete national roll-out program to be completed by fall. Aquinas worked closely with NCGA and the Alternative Agriculture Research and Commercialization Center (AARC) in developing and commercializing the product.

Ford Motor Company introduced its 1996 Ford Taurus Flexible Fuel Vehicle (FFV) as well. The new FFV will have the capability of operating on E-85, a blend of 85 percent ethanol and 15 percent gasoline. The technology also allows the vehicle to run on traditional unleaded gasoline, or any combination of the two fuels.

During the General Session, NCGA President Gangwish applauded corn grower efforts to add value to corn and build new industrial markets, such as ethanol. He urged farmers to prepare for any situation in telling agriculture's story.

"You need to get to know your Sentors' and Representatives' names and staff, know our story and get our message out in rural America," he said.

NCGA Chief Executive Officer Chris Wehrman addressed General Session participants about ethanol. She stressed to growers that NCGA will remain at the forefront of the ongoing dispute over reformulated gasoline (RFG).

"Ethanol blends are not the problem. Ethanol performs will without consumer complains," she said. "RFG should not be suspended. It is an effective program, and we should continue to work together in a cooperative manner."

General session attendees also heard from keynote speaker and Football Hall of Famer Terry Bradshaw and Tennessee Commissioner of Agriculture Dan Wheeler. The general session was sponsored by DowElanco.

Pennsylvania Commercial Hybrid Corn Tests Report

Short-season hybrids (Maturity Zone 1) 1994 results

Tests of commercially available corn hybrids are conducted annually at several locations in each of the four maturity zones in Pennsylvania to provide farmers, seed producers, county extension agents, and other interested persons with information about hybrid performance. This report includes both the grain and silage results from the 1994 season.

Tables 1 and 2 contain the combined results for all locations in this zone, except as noted. Those in Table 1 are for the advanced hybrids tested previously for at least one year, and those in Table 2 are for new hybrid entries. New entries are tested for at least one year before being included in the advanced tests. A two-year summary of results for hybrids tested in both 1993 and 1994 growing seasons is given in Table 3. The results for hybrids entered in the silage performance test are given in Table 4.

Procedures

This testing program was available to any producer of hybrid seed corn. For the grain tests, hybrids were planted in paired-row plots of 1/500 of an acre. Each row was overplanted—34 kernels per row, and thinned to a standard count of 48 plants per plot when the corn was 12-18 inches tall. The final population was 24,000 plants per acre. Silage plots were 1/1,000 acre in size, consisting of one row overplanted to 38 kernels and thinned to a final population of 28,000 plants per acre. All entries were replicated three times in each test.

Test plots were planted with modified mechanical planters. Grain-test plots were harvested with a self-propelled combine equipped with electronic instrumentation for determining weight and moisture. Silage plots were harvested with a forage harvester. Grain yields are reported as bushels per acre while grain moisture and erect plants are reported as percentages. Shelled grain yields were standardized at 15.5 percent grain moisture. Percentage of checks for each hybrid was based on the mean of five check hybrids and calculated for moisture, yield, and erect plants. Data such as plant height, ear height, and leaf disease ratings were taken in the field. Disease ratings were based on a scale of 0.5 to 5.0, progressing from little or no disease to premature death. Silage results are given as actual field yield in tons per acre, calculated on the basis of 65 percent moisture, tons of dry matter per acre, and percentage of water in the plants.

Growing conditions

Soil moisture was high and temperature low during much of May at locations in this zone. Planting was begun May 20 and completed May 31. Heat units tended to be normal or above during the summer months, but cooler than normal during September and October. As in the other zones, October was a dry month. Some locations had high soil moisture throughout the summer. The Bradford location was exceptionally wet causing extremely variable plant development throughout the field. The silage test was on a better drained portion of the field; the grain test did poorly because of the wet conditions and was abandoned. The Clearfield location suffered some from a heavy infestation of fall panicum and foxtail. Grain moisture at harvest at most locations was high, as were grain yields. Grain harvesting was begun October 26 and completed November 8.

Diseases, insects and other pests

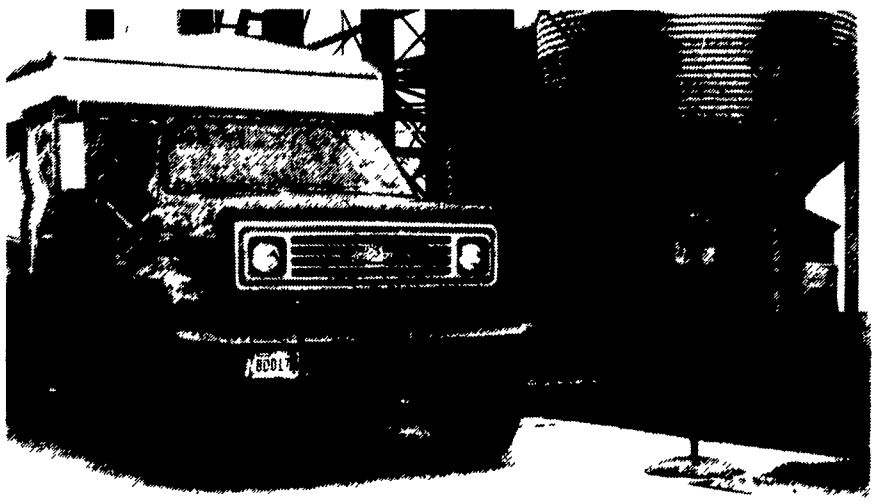
A Scale System Priced & Designed For The Farm



J-STAR Scale Systems combine reliability, versatility, durability and accuracy with a low cost you'll have to see to believe.

Another surprise: all this performance capability

For a scale system this economical, you might expect J-STAR to scrimp on features Not so Take a look at all you get

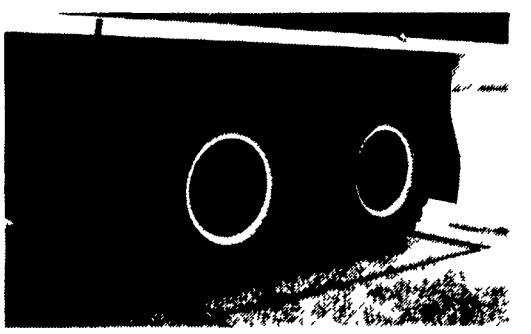
- Standard 7 ft x 10 ft platform, sized to easily accommodate tandem axles
- Two models to choose from, with 40,000 pound or 50,000 pound capacities per tandem or single axle
- Rugged J-STAR weigh beams with ½ of 1% accuracy (99 5% accurate)
- Choice of accurate, reliable scale indicators to match your weighing needs and preferences
- Shock resistant strain gauge load cells for long-lasting, dependable performance
- Engineered and constructed of heavy structural steel for years of dependable service and demanding use
- Portable operation, if desired, because of the system's 12-volt DC electronics, 3 point tractor hitch lift attachment and detachable ramps (40,000 pound model only); and low-profile, easy-on-and-off platform design.

All this plus J-STAR's years of expertise in building hard-working, long-lasting equipment makes a J-STAR Scale System the logical choice for your operation

A choice that gives you a proven management tool that can provide vital information to help you consistently make better business decisions The "easy weigh"

Options and weighing versatility

- Detachable ramps
- 3 point tractor hitch lift attachment (40,000 pound model only)
- AC/DC power converter for stationary operation
- Indicator stand
- Radio-controlled remote operation (Model 15 only)
- Printer for batch or other weighing applications (Model 15 only)
- Computer interface capabilities (Model 15 only)



7 ft. by 10 ft. weighing platform easily handles tandem axles

The easy weigh

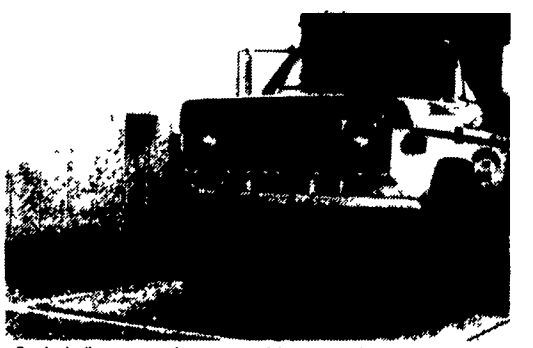
J-STAR 7'x10' Platform Scale Systems: accurate axle weights...at surprisingly-low cost

Now, when you need precise weight information, load after load — for efficient, cost-effective management of your farm, over-the-road or custom hauling operation — J-STAR makes it easy. With accurate, reliable scale systems at a fracton of the cost of scales you may have considered in the past. This "easy weigh" lets you...

- Accurately check axle and vehicle weights.
- Assure maximum weights, every load, without risking fines for running over legal limits.
- Make more efficient use of your trucks by consistently hauling at or near capacity, without underhauling.
- Monitor load placements and weights at the time of shipment.
- Verify the weight of bulk commodity purchases.
- Monitor crop yields.
- Handle up to 40,000 or 50,000 pound loads per tandem or single axle.
- Assemble and install the J-STAR scale system where needed... quickly and easily.

J-STAR

Rugged J-STAR Scale Systems are constructed of heavy gauge structural steel for years of reliable weighing.



Scale indicator can be mounted in an outside environment on a nearby building or on the optional indicator stand.

inoculated with pathogens causing northern corn leaf blight (NLB) and northern corn leaf spot (NLS). Ratings were made, combined, and are reported in Tables 1 and 2 under a single heading. Some corn borer damage was observed, particularly at the Centre and Clearfield County locations. Bird and animal damage was noted, especially at the Clearfield County site.

Interpretation of results

Least significant differences (LSD) is the tool used to determine if two average values are actually different statistically. The difference between two hybrids must exceed the LSD value to be considered significantly different. Example for yield: LSD = 8.1 Bu/A; Hybrid X = 120.0 Bu/A; Hybrid Y = 105.0 Bu/A; 120.0 - 105 = 15.0 Bu/A difference. Since the difference between Hybrid X and Y (15.0 Bu/A), exceeded the LSD (8.1 Bu/A), hybrid X was higher yielding due to hybrid superiority and not simply as a result of uncontrolled environmental factors.

Cooperators and locations

Short-season hybrids were evaluated with the cooperation of the following persons: Owen Brackman, Bradford County; Frank Sankey, Clearfield County; Gerald Yahner, Cambria County; Bernie Beichman, Clarion County; Walter Ramsey, Potter County; and Penn State farms, Centre County.

Innovative Farming Technology At Corn Classic

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Heads were spinning with new ideas and innovative farming technology at the site specific farming panel discussion during the National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) Corn Classic here.

"Site-specific farming is a fresh, new way of thinking about agriculture," said panel moderator Lynn Henderson, Doane Agricultural Services Company. "Technology today allows the farmer to know exactly where he is in a field and target that area for special treatment."

NCGA invited representatives from four companies to participate in the panel and speak to nearly 2,300 farmers registered about precision farming breakthroughs in the industry, Deere & Co., Resource21, Crop Technology, Inc., and Infielder. (Turn to Page 21)

The straight truth about our Natural Flow harvesting process.

If you don't have a GLEANER,® you're putting your crop through sheer torture before it ever makes it to the bin. That's because old fashioned combines subject your corn to as many as five changes of direction, at incredibly high speeds, as it winds its way through the harvesting process. The GLEANER R32 wouldn't ever be so cruel. Our unique transversely mounted Natural Flow harvesting System gives your crop a smooth straight run, from the header, straight through to our gentle angle swivel unloading tube. All of which means more of the extremely clean kernel sample the GLEANER has long been known for. And a kinder, gentler way to farm.

Technology

John Kubik, Deere & Co., unveiled the company's combine yield mapping system. This technology allows farmers to vary inputs, like nutrients and chemicals, to positively affect outputs that can be measured to show improvements in the yield. Combine yield mapping changes data into information that can be used to make better decisions, ultimately helping the farmer to become more successful.

John Grace, Resource21, spoke about their product which utilizes an airplane system to provide growers with information on stresses occurring in the field. According to Grace, "Resource21 takes data from light wavelengths and converts it into a paper form. This information will then steer you to problem spots on the field."

Soil doctor systems and crop doctor services were the subject of John Colburn Jr.'s, Crop Technology, Inc., presentation. This system truly "farms by the foot." Real-time sensing and right now applications allow the farmer to collect data 10 times per second to accurately reflect the field.

CONTROL MORE GRASSES AND WEEDS IN CORN...FOR 25% LESS PER ACRE.

A tank of PROWL® herbicide knocks grasses and weeds on their ear... all season... for up to 25% less than competitive treatments.

Apply PROWL as directed, any time from planting up to the four-leaf stage. You'll get proven, cost-effective control of many grasses and weeds, including foxtails, lambsquarter, velvetleaf* and pigweed.

PROWL is compatible with most other herbicides and fits any tillage program. However, do NOT incorporate PROWL in corn.

Let us help you knock grasses and weeds on their ear... for up to 25% less per acre. Come in for your PROWL® herbicide today.

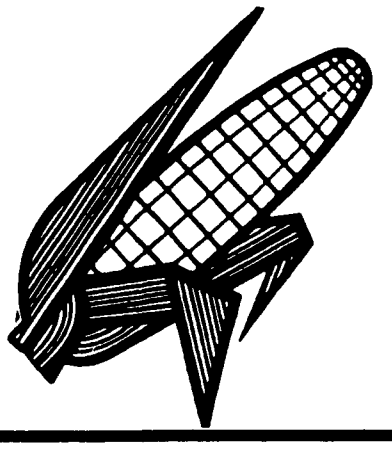
New Board Members Elected To PMCGA

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Six new board members were elected to seats on the PMCGA board of directors as a result of the election held this winter.

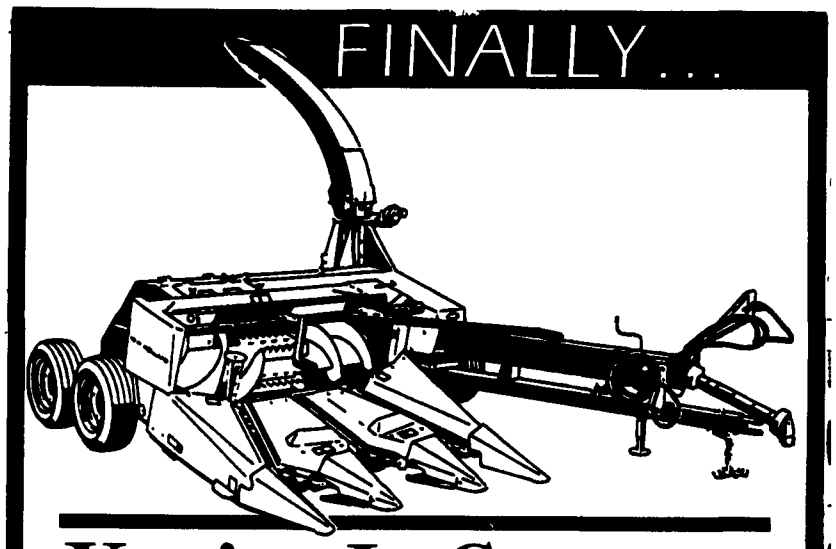
The new board members consist of three corn producers, two extension agents, and one representative from ag industry. The PMCGA board is composed of 15 representatives: nine corn growers, three extension/education representatives, and three industry representatives.

The three farmer candidates elected were Bruce Berkey from State College, Elwood Kyper form Huntingdon, and Dan Wolff from York. The industry candidate elected to the board was Jon Stutzman, who works with Brubaker Agronomic Consulting and lives in Kutztown.

Extension representatives elected to the board were Tom Murphy of Lycoming County and Del Voight of Lebanon County.



FINALLY...



YOU'RE IN CONTROL

The Model 900 forage harvester puts you in control of your harvest:

- Rugged 21-inch, 12-knife cutterhead for a uniform chop.
- Exclusive flip-up feedrolls provide convenient access to the shearbar and smooth roll scraper.
- Electromagnetic clutches provide instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Optional Metalert® 11 metal detector protects cutterhead and your valuable animals.

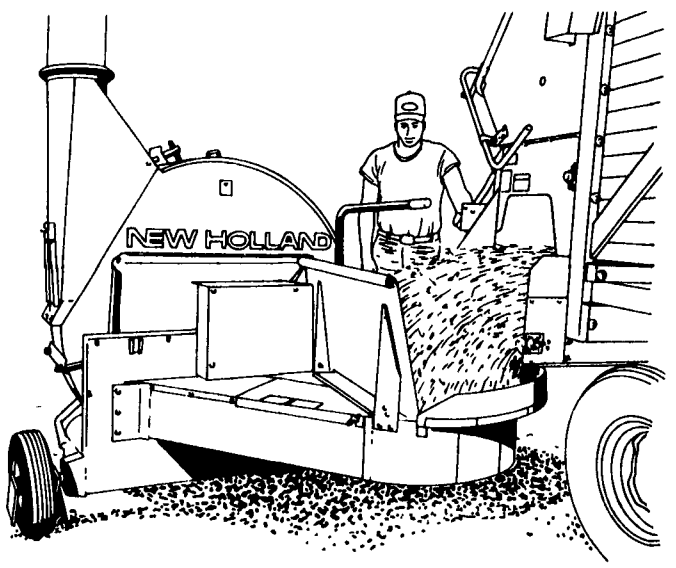
NO MORE PLUGGING



PREVENT SILO BOTTLENECK

The Model 28 forage blower reduces plugging and saves time at the silo. The Whirl-A-Feed® table breaks up clumps and spins crop into the blower at high speed. This means less drag on the fan and more efficient use of tractor horsepower.

Let the Model 28 save time for you.

Corn Growers Outline Agenda For Farm Bill

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—The 1995 farm bill should provide corn growers with more flexibility, greater market orientation, and a variety of voluntary conservation options, according to delegates attending the National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) annual Corn Classic.

For the first time, the voting body called for a combined farm program payment base, giving growers the option of planting any mix of approved crops while remaining eligible for program payments. In addition, they called for targeted, flexible conservation programs to replace annual acreage reduction progams.

"These policies represent a look into the future on behalf of the nation's corn growers," said NCGA President Rod Gangwish, Shelton, Neb. "More than 250 delegates from 24 states signaled that they are ready to consider policy options to move away from current farm programs for transitioning to policies that are more flexible and workable," he said.

"We came through some vigorous debate, but we are walking out of the door tonight with a new policy manual that the organization can be proud of," said Gangwish. "We have a policy development process second to none." After completing an extensive resolutions process, delegates debated resolutions from member states for several hours on Sunday and again on Tuesday afternoon.

In light of federal budget cutting pressures, corn growers re-emphasized the importance of agriculture to the economic viability of rural communities and to the U.S. economy.

Delegates also strongly opposed taking a disproportionate share of federal budget reductions. Other highlights of the NCGA's 1995 farm bill proposals:

•Provide full flexibility to allow producers to shift productive resources in response to market, agronomic, environmental, and conservation considerations. They'd like to see a farm program payment base created by combining all historic plantings and permit participating producers to plant any combination of crops on the whole farm. Deficiency payments would be based on historic program crop payments acres and program yields.

•Create a targeted, flexible conservation program that addresses one or more of the multiple environmental challenges of soil erosion, water quality, wildlife habitat and allows producers to continue to make environmentally compatible improvement under an approved plan.

•Continue marketing loans for feed grains. Provide for the nine-month loan to be eligible for an extension of an additional six-months with an interest rate adjustment.

•Use a targeted conservation program to meet anticipated water quality requirements contained in the proposed reauthorization of the Clean Water Act.

•Combine various incentive programs into a single program to promote voluntary adoption of resource conserving management practices.

•Strive for the implementation of additional market-based farm program policies that are developed to accelerate the competitiveness of U.S. producers in domestic and world markets and provide for an orderly transition in farm program policy. Place increased emphasis on expansion of both domestic and foreign market development and utilization of U.S. bulk and value-added agricultural products.

•Expand the U.S. government's support for agricultural research in the areas of production, utilization, nutrition and other areas.

•Increase educational efforts relating to income protection and risk reduction tools through programs like USDA's Option Pilot Program.

NAFTA Success Silences Critics

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Agricultural trade with Mexico is setting records, thanks to the free-trade provisions of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), and corn producers have been a major beneficiary, farmers were told during a session at the National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) 1995 Corn Classic.

Government, agribusiness, and NCGA representatives praised the early performance of the innovative agreement, during a breakout session entitled "How Is NAFTA Impacting You?" which featured Stephen P. Dees, director general, Farmland Industries; Ken Roberts, assistant deputy administrator of USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service; and Keith Heard, NCGA executive vice president of government and public affairs.

Farmland Industries made an early commitment to the Mexican market and began expansion prior to the signing of NAFTA, Dees said.

"It became obvious to us that this market was going to be too important to ignore even without NAFTA, so we opened our Mexico office in 1993. In our first year, our sales of grain and soybeans grew from 350 million metric tons to more than 1 million metric tons," Dees said.

Roberts of FAS concurred that NAFTA has lived up to its billing as a necessary agreement that would break down barriers and act as a catalyst for trade with our neighbor to the south.

"Mexico, once a market for only 10 million bushels of corn, has imported 100 million bushels of U.S. corn since the inception of NAFTA. Meat exports have soared as well, which is another key to keeping the corn industry profitable," Heard said.

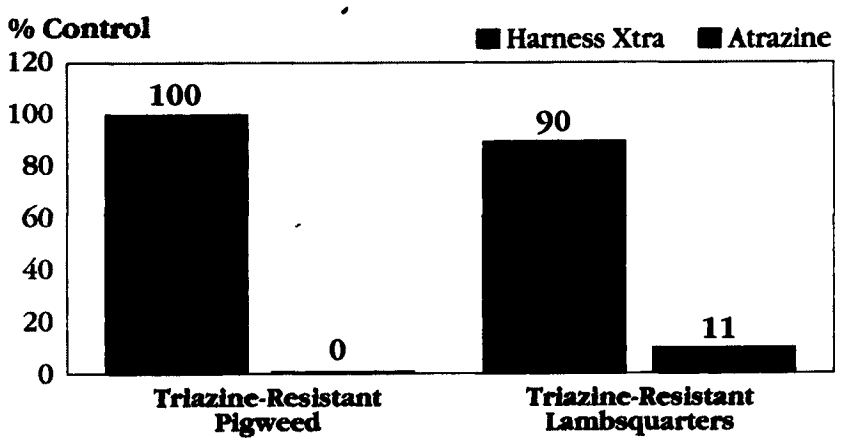
Xtra Consistency

Harness Xtra delivers consistent control across a wide range of growing conditions, too. Because it binds tightly to soil particles, Harness Xtra stays in the weed zone. Even after heavy rains, Harness Xtra is there to provide consistent, season-long control.

But dry weather is where Harness Xtra really stands out. Acetochlor, the active ingredient in Harness Xtra, needs only one quarter-inch of rainfall for activation in most situations, so it requires only half as much rainfall as some other herbicides to begin killing weeds. In a dry spring, that can be the difference between relatively clean fields and a weedy mess.

Along with superior control and consistency, Harness Xtra is cost competitive with other premixes. All of which make Harness Xtra the best value in its field.

Harness Xtra Performs Better On Triazine-Resistant Weeds



Source: 1994 Monsanto Product Development Trials
Rates=2 3 qts/A Harness Xtra and 1 5-2 0 lbs/A atrazine.

Triazine-Resistant Broadleaf Control

Unlike Bicep,® Dual,® and Extrazine,® only Harness Xtra offers you complete triazine-resistant broadleaf control.

Lambsquarters, pigweed, and even common ragweed are no match for Harness Xtra. Plus, the ideal combination of Harness and atrazine will produce more consistent control in varied weather situations.

Ideal For Varied Application Methods

Approved Application Method/Timing

Early Preplant: Apply Harness Xtra up to 30 days before planting. You'll spread out your workload and still get season-long control of labeled grasses and broadleaves.

Preplant Incorporated: Apply and Surface Blend™ or shallowly incorporate Harness Xtra any time within 14 days prior to planting.

Preemergence Surface: Apply Harness Xtra before the crop and weeds emerge and within 5 days after your last tillage trip.

High Quality Formulation

Other premix formulations can settle out in the spray tank, creating a nasty "hard pack." Harness Xtra resuspends after agitation making it superior to other premixes. Plus, Harness Xtra mixes easily with fluid fertilizer.

Use Rates For Harness Xtra

Always be sure to follow the Harness Xtra label directions for best results. Listed below is a guide for application rates based on your soil type.

Harness Xtra Application Rates

Soil Textural Group	Broadcast Rate Per Acre*
Coarse	1.8 quarts
Medium	2.3 quarts
Fine	2.3 quarts

*In areas of heavy weed infestation use up to 2 3 quarts per acre on coarse textured soils and up to 2 7 quarts per acre on medium and fine textured soils

Cooperators and locations

Late-season hybrids were evaluated on farms of the following Joel Wenger and Robert Breckbill, Franklin County, Frank Yost, Cumberland County, John Yocum, Lancaster County; Kermet Schegel, Berks County, and Wiley Gehman, Lehigh County

Results of the tests for short-season, early medium-season, late medium-season, and late-season hybrids are available as separate reports from county offices of Penn State Cooperative Extension

Members of the county based extension staff assisted in conducting these tests Their efforts were essential to the successful completion of the trials, and were greatly appreciated

This report represents the combined efforts of extension, research, and service personnel in the Departments of Agronomy and Plant Pathology (M W Johnson R L Williams and J E Ayers)

Higher Nitrogen Fertilizer Prices Affect Corn Fertility Management

In talking to fertilizer dealers from across Pennsylvania over the last couple of months, it appears that nitrogen fertilizer prices could be as much as 40 percent higher this year.

There are several reasons for this price increase, which have been building for some time.

World supplies of nitrogen fertilizer have been greatly reduced in recent years. The Soviet Union had been a major supplier of ammonia to the U.S. fertilizer market, but with the breakup of that country and reorganization in the eastern European countries, this source is no longer there.

Also, one of the major plants in the U.S. was shut down by an explosion this past year. These reductions in supply coupled with an increase in worldwide demand for nitrogen has resulted in the price increases that we are now experiencing.

What do these increased prices mean to nitrogen management in 1995? There are several factors to consider. As nitrogen prices increase, the economic optimum nitrogen rate will decrease. However, at current corn prices, this increase in nitrogen prices only reduces the economic optimum nitrogen rate by 2 to 5 percent. This is generally less than 10 pounds of nitrogen per acre, and considering that nitrogen recommendations are usually made in 20- to 30-pound-per-acre increments, I don't see recommendations changing much.

The more important effect of these higher prices will be in forcing us to tighten our nitrogen management to maximize the nitrogen use efficiency of the corn crop. First, make sure that your nitrogen recommendations are appropriate. The base recommendation for corn is 1 to 1.1 pounds of nitrogen per bushel of expected yield.

Thus, one of the first places to look at is your expected yields. Expected yields used to make recommendations should be optimistic but realistic. Being overly optimistic about yield expectations and thus fertilizing for unrealistic yields is always costly, but especially so at high nitrogen prices. Expected yields are best estimated from your records of past yield performance.

Another area to look at are credits for nitrogen in manure and previous legume crops. Remember that this nitrogen is worth more now, too. Analyzing manure for nitrogen and calibrating manure spreaders to uniformly apply a known rate of manure are important steps toward realizing the full value of the nitrogen in manure. Where it is appropriate, greater value can be realized from manure by incorporating it as soon as possible after application.

Nitrogen recovery from manure by the following corn crop is 50 to 75 percent if the manure is incorporated immediately. This recovery drops to 15 to 20 percent if the manure is not incorporated. For a 20-ton-per-acre application of dairy manure, this is a difference of more than 60 pounds of available nitrogen per acre.

Timing of nitrogen application may also improve nitrogen use efficiency by your corn crop. Applying the nitrogen as close to the time of crop need as possible reduces the chances of nitrogen loss. This is especially beneficial if early spring nitrogen applications are avoided and the nitrogen is sidedressed after the spring wet period.

During a 10-year period, we have documented in our research an average of nine bushels per acre advantage from the same amount and forms of nitrogen simply by sidedressing.

Sidedressing also allows us to use the pre-sidedress soil nitrate test (PSNT), which is another tool that can help to fine-tune nitrogen requirements. This test is especially useful where manure is being depended on to supply the nitrogen needs of the crop.

In using manure, there is often considerable uncertainty about the nitrogen content and availability of the manure. This is usually dealt with by applying insurance fertilizer to compensate for this uncertainty. However, with the increase in fertilizer prices, this insurance has also become more expensive.

The PSNT has been shown to be a very effective replacement for this insurance fertilization. The test will confirm if there is adequate nitrogen for the crop and, if not, a supplemental nitrogen application can be made.

Nitrogen management cannot be looked at in isolation. All other crop management will have an impact on the nitrogen efficiency of the crop. For example, poor weed control will result in lower yields and significant amounts of the higher priced nitrogen being taken up and used to grow weeds rather than being used by the crop. Many other examples could be cited, such as hybrid selection, planting technique, insect control, soil compaction, other nutrients, etc. Optimizing the whole package of crop production practices will contribute to improving nitrogen use efficiency by the corn crop.

Finally, farmers can almost always get a better price with early fertilizer purchases because it enables dealers to better anticipate farmer needs and lock in better prices with their suppliers. This year, however, there is a much bigger than usual dividend for farmers who have planned ahead and bought their fertilizer early.

The bottom line for dealing with increased nitrogen fertilizer prices is not to arbitrarily cut back on this critical crop production input but to tighten up overall management to maximize the effectiveness of the fertilizer nitrogen that you do use.

Environmental Impact
Safe to birds and beneficial earthworms. The new pyrethroid formulation means 1/10 active ingredient will provide superior performance
No-Till Performance
Won't harm earthworms that aid in residue management and no-till programs. Fits reduced tillage insect spectrum
Herbicide Compatibility
Keeps resistant herbicide options open because it won't interact with Accent or Beacon Choosing The Best Insecticide May Require You To Go Full Circle.
Rootworm and Cutworm Control
Consistently rated superior to Counter and Lorsban. Also controls wireworms and white grubs
FORCE 1.5G
Look at your options from every angle. And you'll quickly see what makes FORCE insecticide the all-around choice for insect control. Compared to Counter and Lorsban, the unique pyrethroid chemistry of FORCE fits the way you farm in the '90s.
